SELECTIVE SERVICE MAY BE REPLACED BY TOUGHER PLAN

Armed Services Committee Will Take Interested Look At Proposals

PROPOSED SETUP WOULD BE UNIVERSAL TRAINING

By G. Milton Kelly

Washington, Oct. 14. —(AP) —The senate armed services committee plans to take an interested look at proposals to switch to a new and tougher draft system.

The proposed system would be known as universal military service (UMS) and, a spokesman suggested today, could become a substitute for both the existing selective service draft setup and the proposed compulsory Universal Military Training (UMT).

What's the difference between UMS and UMT?

Plenty, according to capitol military sources who told a reporter the committee quietly is laying plans to inquire closely into possible benefits and disadvantages such a switch might involve. However, he emphasized he knows of no senator definitely committed to support UMS.

Under UMS, the spokesman said, a young man reaching a given age level, possibly 18, automatically would have to enter one of the armed services if he could meet physical and mental requirements. Generally speaking, disability would be the only grounds for deferment.

As in Britain and many conti-

SHRINERS WILL PAY VISIT HERE

Fully 1,000 Expected For Ceremonial On Wednesday, October 18

One thousand or more visiting Nobles will come to Monroe Wednesday to attend the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club's ceremonial. They are expected to make the trip here from Shreveport, Ruston, Bastrop, Tallulah, Lake Providence, Ferriday, Newellton, Homer, Haynesville and even from Guerdon, Ark.

Two classes will be inducted in the afternoon and there was one class inducted at the spring ceremonial here which makes a total of three classes in one year in a single city, a record for 25 years, it is stated.

The visitors will meet at the Masonic Temple Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. There will be a parade at 2:30 p.m. The first initiation will be in Neville High at 3:30 p. m. and the second at 5 p.m.

A barbecue supper for all visiting Nobles and their ladies will be held in the Neville cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. At 9 p.m. the dance will be held on the roof of Hotel Frances.

The oriental Shrine band from [illegible], may be persuaded to come to the ceremonial and if [illegible]'s group here it will provide unique entertainment. Members wear oriental costumes and play instruments such as are unusual here but are common to people in the far east.

19-Month-Old Boy Struck Down By Auto

A 19-month-old boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Holland, 301 Parker street, escaped serious injury and possible death early last night when he was struck by an automobile at the intersection of Georgia and Parker streets.

In the St. Francis Sanitarium but not in serious condition was Russell H. Holland. His father stated there were no fractures. There were minor cuts and bruises about the body.

Driver of the car which hit the child was Billy Reed Hollis, 20, 608 Georgia street. Hollis told police he was going home when the child darted out in front of him.

Truman-MacArthur Wake Island Conference Brief

Top Military Man, U.S. Chief Executive Meet For First Time On Bleak Coral Island; President Now Enroute For U.S.

(By the Associated Press)

President Truman met for less than two hours Sunday at Wake Island with General MacArthur, then left for Hawaii declaring the United Nations can surmount all dangers.

A pooled dispatch from the island far out in the Pacific said the presidential plane left for the return flight to Hawaii at noon, Sunday, Wake time, or 7 p.m. Saturday, eastern standard time.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the president felt the conference, though brief, produced "quite highly satisfactory results."

The president was represented as impressed with MacArthur's perspective of the far eastern situation. It was the first meeting between the two.

The president was expected to arrive in his plane, the Independence, at 1:05 a.m. Sunday, eastern standard time, at Hickam Field, Hawaii.

Mr. Truman voluntarily broke up his conference early in order to make it possible for MacArthur to return quickly to Tokyo, Ross said.

Ross told reporters he thought

SUGGESTS L.S.U. LAW SCHOOL END

Rep. Carroll Jones Calls For Closure Rather Than Permit Negroes

Baton Rouge, La. Oct. 14—(AP)—Louisiana should close the State University's Law School, if necessary to prevent enrollment of Negroes, a State Legislator has suggested.

Gov. Earl K. Long's office said a telegram to that effect has been received from State Rep. Carroll G. Jones of Lincoln Parich.

A three-judge Federal Court recently ruled that the University, which never has admitted Negroes, must accept a Negro applicant for enrollment in its law school. An appeal from the decision is expected.

The telegram proposed a special legislative session to appropriate money to Southern University for Negroes to provide "substantially equal" law school facilities. An alternative, it said, would be to "pass legislation to close down the L.S.U. Law School" to prevent Negro enrollment.

Gov. Long and President Harold W. Stoke of L.S.U. were unavailable for comment. The Governor was reported resting at the mansion after receiving treatment for an ailing shoulder. Dr. Stoke's home said the President was busy elsewhere on the L.S.U. campus, welcoming old graduates to homecoming ceremonies.

The telegram to the Governor said in part:

"Some of our educational leaders say that a dual system of education is economically impossible. This is a fallacy. These same crackpot idealists have never been in sympathy with our southern social structure. Many of these social equalizers are Communists and fellow travelers."

Cotton Council Neutral In Export Controversy

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 14. —(AP)— The National Cotton Council said today it is staying strictly neutral on the current controversy over the government's recent cotton export quota order.

Harold A. Young of North Little Rock. council president, said he had received many calls which "reflect widespread misunderstanding as to the council's position on this matter."

"In this connection," he continued, "I wish to make it clear that the council has not approved nor has it disapproved the action of the department of agriculture with respect to cotton export quotas. Young said the council and the cotton industry are working to assure both the United States and its allies an ample supply of fiber for military and essential civilian goods.

Three R.A.F. Planes Reported In Crash

London, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Three Royal Air Force planes and a mosquito bomber believed to be from the Belgian Air Force collided in two separate crashes tonight. At least seven airmen were killed.

All four planes were taking part in the giant "Exercise Emperor" in which aircraft from the United States and western Europe were helping test Britain's air defenses.

Six bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of an RAF Wellington bomber which crashed into the ground near the English Channel coast in southeastern England after colliding with the mosquito bomber. The British Press Association said early reports suggested the mosquito belonged to the Belgian air force.

FARMERS OPPOSE CURB ON EXPORTS

Cotton Growers Flood Delta Council Office With Protests

Delhi, La. Oct. 14.—(Special)—Cotton farmers from every parish in the Louisiana Delta Council area have flooded the office of the council with calls protesting the government order limiting export of two million bales of cotton, W. H. Farmer said tonight.

Farmer stated that the restriction caused a drop in cotton prices, costing the farmer in these parts approximately $3,000,000. He said the control order coming at this time "was just another way of forcing the price down on raw cotton, and is designed soley for the benefit of the textile mills. . . ."

Remedial action will be sought by a large delegation from the five Mississippi Valley Cotton states when they meet Sunday in Memphis, Tenn.

Those expected to attend besides Farmer will be Edd McDonald, Newellton, A. Petrus, West Monroe, Fred Petter, Bonita, J. H. Gilford, and C. A. Rose, of Lake Providence, Chris Keller, chairman of the cotton committee.

U.S. BUILDING UP BERLIN STRENGTH

Apparently Preparing To Stay Despite Continued Soviet Objection

Washington, Oct. 14. —(AP)— The U. S. army is building up its strength in Berlin.

The sixth infanty regiment, disbanded after World War II, is being recreated and some units of it—the army wouldn't say how many—are being assigned to Garrison duty in the former German capital.

Apparently the action is being taken to show that the U. S. intends to kee, occupation troops in Berlin despite any future Soviet moves to force them out.

An army spokesman said men for the newly-formed units will be drawn from other American units throughout Germany. The other units will be brought back to full strength eventually with replacements from the U. S.

The spokesman said the sixth regiment headquarters service company is expected to be organized in Berlin next Monday with other newly activated units to be in the city by the end of this year.

A regiment has an authorized strength of 3,774 officers and men.

The present strength of American forces in Berlin has not been announced. About 87,000 U. S. S. troops were stationed in all of Germany at the time of the last public announcement. President Truman recently authorized a buildup of U. S. strength in western Europe.

Russia, which occupies the eastern portion of Berlin, is known to have many divisions within easy striking distance.

School Rebellion Is Still In Progress

Logansport, Inc., Oct. 14—(AP)— A stalemate between Onward School merger rebels and State Police weakened a little today, but citizens still guarded the school.

After a morning in which troopers made no move to convoy desks in from the rival town of Walton, an Onward leader asked the crowd of 1,500 to avoid violence.

The appeal to let the school desks be switched came from Herbert Grant, Democratic candidate for Township Trustee—the officer who runs the schools in both towns. He had just conferred in Walton with incumbent Trustee Virgil Turner.

"We haven't given up," a woman said. "Let them come on, and we'll see what happens."

Troopers at Onward said the desk moving probably would be carried out this afternoon.

"We want our school,' the angry citizens had shouted earlier as an advance guard of 16 State Troopers arrived to clear the way into the Onward School. Women carrying American flags picketed the doorways.

Republic Troops Within 55 Miles Of Red Capital Of Pyongyang

20,000 COMMUNISTS CUT OFF BEHIND U.N. LINES

By Tom Stone

Tokyo, Sunday, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Speeding allied ground troops smashed out gains of 15 to 20 miles Saturday in a three-pronged drive towards the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Cut off behind them were an estimated 20,000 Reds to be mopped up later.

The South Korean first division struck 20 miles to Singye, 55 miles southeast of the Korean Communist stronghold.

The South Korean capital division drove 15 miles west from Wonsan, port on the east coast, to a point 70 miles east of Pyongyang.

A U. S. first cavalry division column rumbled through captured Kumchon on the main road to Pyongyang, 70 miles northwest.

Another first cavalry column struck northward just west of Kumchon and wars reported close to the Red capital than the force that captured Kumchon Saturday.

The left flank spearhead was heading for Namchonjom, 13 miles northwest of Kumchon. It was pursuing fleeing Reds who, a captured Red lieutenant said, planned to set up their next defense point at Namchojnjom, a little highway town.

APPOINT EATMON TO COLLEGE POST

N.J.C., L.S.U. Graduate Is Business Manager At Northeast State

Buford J. Eatmon of Monroe has been appointed business manager at Northeast Louisiana State College, it was announced by President Lewis C. Slater. He fills the post made vacant by the departure of Samuel J. Willensky, Jr., who was recalled to the army as a reserve officer. Willensky had been here since March, 1949.

Eatmon, a 1948 graduate of Northeast Junior College, continued his studies in business administration at Louisiana State University, where he received the Bachelor's degree this past August.

His college training was interrupted by the war during which he was on duty in the special service, information and education branches of the army. Prior to his discharge in December of 1945, he served overseas.

Organizations in which he holds membership include: Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society; Beta Gamma Sigma, national commerce honorary fraternity; Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honorary society, and the Propellor Club of the United States.

National Attention To Be Centered On La. Jaycees

Will Simultaneously Observe 'Democracy Vs. Communism Week'

National attention will be focused on Louisiana's Junior Chambers of Commerce as they simultaneously stage their week of "Democracy versus Communism and Socialism," October 15 through 21.

Under the leadership of W. L. "Jack" Howard, young Monroe businessman who is state president of the Jaycee organization, 30 chapters will be participating in this week whose each day emphasizes a special phase of democracy.

Outstanding speakers and forums will be featured throughout the state. Among them will be Columnist John Temple Graves at Jaycee open luncheon in Monroe Monday, October 16; General J. H. Ballew at the Kiwanis open luncheon in Monroe, Wednesday, October 18; and General Claire Chennault at the Monroe Optimist Club Friday, October 20.

In Baton Rouge on Wednesday, October 18, G. S. Baldwin, prominent Mississippi lecturer, will speak on the evils of communism and socialism in America. On Thursday, October 19 in New Orleans Clayton Rand, well known newspaper writer, will speak. Most of these addresses will be broadcast over the statewide Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce Freedom network.

Of special interest is the "Operation Town Hall" which will be a statewide radio round table originating in New Iberia on Tuesday night, October 16 and conducted by Louisiana's eight United States representatives and both United States senators. Anyone who would like to have questions answered at that time may mail

Gen. Chennault Sees No Chance Of Peace In Korea

By Yvonne Brett

Potentialities of starting a third world war are in the making today in Asia, reported retired General Claire Chennault in an interview here today.

"Although the North Koreans have been defeated, fomented revolution and the infiltration of Chinese Communists will keep the Korean nation from realizing a substantial peace," asserted the general.

Asked whether or not the Chinese Reds are in a position to control the destiny of Asia, Chennault answered in the affirmative. "The Chinese Reds are smart. They got something started, but they are smart enough not to send their men into the front line of battle. Instead they send officers to train the natives and supply them with the necessary equipment to fight."

In answer to the question of whether or not the Chinese Communists would attack the Nationalists on the island of Formosa, Chennault stated that the Reds would be foolish to do so at the present time because of the natural hazards involved and the might of the Nationalist army. The Nationalists have one of the best trained armies in the world, reported General Chennault.

Miami Tames Purdue; Irish Shave Tulane; L.S.U. Loses

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Army's hard-hitting legions lived up to their No. 1 national ranking by crushing Michigan today, 27-6, but one major upset dented college football's top ten.

Purdue, the giant-killer which felled mighty Notre Dame last week, bowed to underdog University of Miami (Fla.), 20-14. A twist halfback named Frank Smith got off two dazzling runs to smear the Boilermakers, No. 9 in the Associated Press poll.

Notre Dame's Irish, who tumbled to tenth after their loss, failed again today to reach their former awesome heights and barely squeezed past Tulane at New Orleans, 13-9.

Outpayed in the line, the Irish managed to prevail on Bob Williams' short, sharp passing. A crowd of 76,000 saw the game.

In the other big game of the day, Oklahoma extended its winning streak to 24 games by squeezing out a last-minute 14-13 victory over unbeaten and favored Texas.

This game, played as the first half of a day-light double header in Dallas' Cotton Bowl, matched the third and fourth ranking teams in the country before 75,968.

Southern Methodist, No. 2, met Oklahoma A. and M. in the Dallas night game.

A crowd of 67,068 turned out at New York's Yankee Stadium to see Army unfold its tremendous power.

Stunned at the start by a quick Michigan touchdown and held to 6-6 at halftime, the Black Knights unleashed three touchdowns in the space of five minutes in the last two quarters to make the game a rout.

Al Pollard, 190-pound sophomore sub fullback from Los Angeles, ripped the big Michigan line for decisive gains while Bob Blaik, the sharp-throwing coach's son,

Tobacco Salesman Admits Attacks In Terror Campaign

Detroit, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A jittery tobacco salesman admitted today, police said, that he bludgeoned at least three persons in a rampage that terrorized northwest Detroit.

The salesman was identified as Ennis Gillum, a 26-year-old navy veteran.

Inspector George Kimball of the police homicide squad said he was being questioned on three other beatings that marked Friday night's wave of terror.

But the inspector said Gillum's memory of the night was clouded by drinking spree that started at a businessmen's convention.

"I just drank so much I don't know what I did," the tobacco salesman was quoted as saying: "I'm not a drinking man but when I drink, I'm mean."

Kimball said Gillum had admitted beating two women and a child. Another boy identified him as his assailant.

During all of the Friday night wave, four women and two children were beaten over the head by a man wielding a metal pipe.

The rampage terrorized a fashionable neighborhood in northwest Detroit and promoted police to pour all available manpower into the hunt for the prowler.

Until Gillum's admission, one other man was held for questioning and ten others were being sought.

The police inspector said the clue that led to Gillum was a rectangular plastic button bearing the inscription "tobacco and candy."

A terrified boy whose sister was one of the victims said he had seen the assailant wearing that badge.

Police learned that Michigan tobacco and candy distributors were holding a convention in Detroit. They checked the list of delegates, learned Gillum was absent from today's sessions and went to his home in Detroit.

Miss. Paper Has Scott Obituary

The Hazlehurst Courier Thursday contained the following write-up of Miss Annie Maude Scott thus:

Funeral services were held Monday morning, October 9, at 11 o'clock at the Hazlehurst Baptist Church for Miss Annie Maude Scott, who died in a hospital at Monroe, La., at 12:30 Sunday morning.

Her body was brought to Hazlehurst Sunday night and lay in state at Hartman funeral chapel until time for the services Monday morning. The rites were conducted by the Rev. Rowe C. Holcomb and Rev. Eliot Jones. Interment was in the city cemetery.

Miss Scott was born and reared in Hazlehurst and always made her home here. After her health failed several months ago she went to Monroe to be near her sister and other members of the family.

Survivors are one sister, Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Sr., of Monroe, one brother, R. J. Scott of New Orleans, La., and a number of nieces and nephews. Two of her nephews, Norman Scott of Dothan, Texas, and Leo Scott of Washington, D. C., made their home with her for a number of years. She is survived by an aunt, Mrs. Gillis Cato, of Hazlehurst.

"BOY MEETS GIRL" CAST

MEN IN ARMED SERVICE

Corporal Billy R. Dark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross C. Dark of Route 1, Columbia, La., recently arrived in Japan. He is currently assigned to the statistical service section, headquarters fifth air force. The fifth air force, occupation air force of Japan, has bases throughout Japan and an advance base in Korea.

Corporal Dark graduated from Columbia High School in May, 1947, and was a student at Northeast Junior College in Monroe at the time he enlisted, Oct. 21, 1948. During his school years he was active in sports. He played quarterback on the football team, shortstop on the baseball team and forward on the basketball team.

Lemon G. Nolan, seaman apprentice, USN, of Route 3, Monroe, La., was with General Douglas MacArthur aboard the flagship of the attack force commander, which took part in the amphibious attack on the Inchon-Seoul area of Korea by United Nations forces.

While the island and the city of Inchon were under bombardment by navy warships and rocket-firing planes, assault boats from the flagship were in the water carrying out the landing of U. S. troops on the fog and smoke covered beaches.

Clyde R. Otwell, Jr., seaman recruit, USN, of 411 Washington St., Monroe, is undergoing recruit training at the world's largest naval training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Recruit training is the sharp break between civilian and naval life in which the new navy man learns the fundamental principles of the naval service.

In the course of his training the recruit is taught seamanship, navy customs, terms, basic ordnance, gunnery, signaling and navigation.

Pfc. Jeffie C. Kemp, Jr., USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kemp of Route 1, Pioneer, is attending the electronic materiel school at the U. S. naval training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Before entering the marine corps, he was graduated from Pioneer High School.

McChord AFB, Wash., First Lieutenant John B. Averett, 30, of 206 South First St. W., Monroe, has been recalled to active duty for assignment with the 62nd troop carrier group on this base.

Lieutenant Averett attended Ouachita Parish High School in Monroe and graduated from Golden Gate College in San Francisco this year.

Averett is married to the former Miss Herberta J. Thornsen of Placerville, Calif., and has one son.

LITTLE THEATRE PLAYS OCT. 21

Season Will Open Under Direction Of Charles Stocker Fontelieu

The Little Theatre of Monroe, under the capable direction of Charles Stocker Fontelieu, begins its 1950-51 season the week of October 21 with the hilarious comedy, "Boy Meets Girl". C. C. Boardman, president of the organization, stated today that he expects this first play of the season to open to one of the biggest memberships in the twenty year history of the Little Theatre.

"There has been a great deal of enthusiasm evidenced by the people of Monroe and West Monroe concerning Little Theatre this year," stated Mr. Boardman. "It is very gratifying to the board of directors and to the membership at large to know that we have the support of so many interested people in the Twin Cities. We are expecting one of the most successful seasons the theater here has ever known. What with a talented and experienced director, our own atractive and well planned playhouse, and the large membership we expect this year, there is every reason to believe that we will bring to the people the very best in nonprofssional theater."

"The membership drive is in its last two weeks now", Mr. Boardman continued, "and anyone who is interested in obtaining a season membership should contact Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn, chairman of the membership committee, for information. Her telephone number is 690."

SHEEHY ACCEPTS CO-CHAIRMANSHIP

Will Take Post On Conference Of Christians And Jews

It was announced yesterday by J. S. Washburn, George Tonore and Willian Mintz that the Right Reverend Monsignor Maurice S. Sheehy of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., has accepted the Catholic co-chairmanship of the commission on religious organizations of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Monsignor Sheehy succeeds the Reverend Allan P. Farrell, S. J., of Detroit University.

President Truman, in a letter to the Catholic leader commenting on his acceptance of this post, declared: "I have been endeavoring for the past five years to mobilize the moral forces of the world against the unmoral ones and we have made some progress. I am highly pleased that you are willing to accept the co-chairmanship of the commission on religious organizations of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. It is certainly an organization working in the direction of cooperation among the horal forces of the world for peace and security."

In accepting the new position, Monsignor Sheehy declared that "the Communist movement which has enslaved a great part of the world is both anti-God and anti-religion. In view of this fact it is most urgent that all religions recognize this danger and the inroads of secularism on our times. It is ae necessary," he said, "that we mobilize our moral resources as that we mobilize manpower and production."

Dr. Maurice S. Eisendrath of New York, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations will continue to serve as the Jewish co-chairman and Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, president of New Brunswick Theological Seminary, as the Protestant co-chairman.

Monsignor Sheehy is a native of Illinois. He was educated at Loras College, Dubuque, Iowa, and at the St. Paul Seminary, Minn. He holds an A. M., Ph. D. and an LL. D. degree from the Catholic University of America.

The next meeting of the commission will be held in Washington on November 9 and 10. Prominent on the agenda for the November meeting are plans for a program in cooperation with the chaplains of the armed forces and a project that will seek to include intergroup education in the family life education programs of the churches.

TEACHER GROUP WILL BANQUET

Arrangements Being Made For Visiting Guests At Time Of State Convention

A sectio.. meeting and banquet for Louisiana visiting teachers is scheduled in Monroe Nov. 21 as part of the Louisiana Education Association convention, it was announced today by Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education.

Dr. Everett J. Kircher of Ohio State University will address the visiting teachers' section, Jackson said.

Eleona Brinsmade, visiting teacher in Monroe, has charge of arrangements for the banquet, according to Louis D. Robert, supervisor of attendance in the state department of education. Robert said invitations to the section meeting and banquet would be presented to guests at the October school administrators conference at L. S. U.

Visiting teachers and mental health specialists will hold a joint meeting at the convention, Robert said.

First Lieutenant Reginald E. Jones, of 115 Tulane avenue, West Monroe, was killed i nan air craft accident on Okniawa, September 27, according to a telegram received by his wife, Mrs. R. E. Jones from the war department.

Lt. Jones was a native of West Monroe and attended local grammar schools and Ouachita Parish High School.

He entered the army air force in 1943 and had been in Okinawa for five and a half months.

The deceased is survived by his wife; two children, Luara Louise, age two, Linda Ellen, six months old; and his mother, Mrs. Ouida Jones, of West Monroe.

The body is being returned to the United States by ship and is expected to arrive in Monroe in about a month.

Mrs. Alford Has P.-T. A. Board Meet

Mrs. J. H. Alford, president of Selman P.-T. A. met with the following members of the executive board, in regular monthly session, Thursday afternoon: Mrs. T. W. Humpheries, Mrs. Virgil Pilgrim, Mrs. Joseph Petch, Mrs. Chester Roberts, Mrs. Oscar Crawford, Mrs. Parker Pinholster, Mrs. W. W. Thorn, Mrs. Huddle Grant, Mrs. Frank T. Smith, Jr., and Mrs. G. B. Wilson.

Plans were completed for a chicken spaghetti supper, which will be held November 18, Saturday evening, in the Selman cafeteria. Tickets will go on sale in the very near future. Mrs. Alford reminded the group of the coming district meeting, Monday, October 16. Selman will send five delegate to this meeting. The teachers' lounge committee reported that progress was being made on the furniture for same and that they expected to have one completed by Thursday. The regular P.-T. A. meeting will be held Thursday evestaples, pastor First Methodist Church, West Monroe as guest speaker.

LEGION POST MEETS MONDAY

Members Have Pledged Aid To Jaycees In 'Democracy' Campaign

The regular meeting of the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13 of the American Legion will be held at the Legion Home at 8 o'clock p. m. on Monday, October 16.

Legionnaires are reminded that October 15-21 is "Democracy versus Communism and Socialism Week" sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The local post, along with many other civic and service organizations, has pledged its assistance and support to the Jaycees in this drive to revive interest and enthusiasm in the preservation of true Americanism. All members of L. B. Faulk post are strongly urged to participate in this program, at least to the extent of giving it publicity.

The American Legion is fortunate in having this week-long period of emphasis on Americanism at this time, since the period October 23-28 will be designated American Legion Week. That week will be the high point of the current American Legion membership drive, the theme of which might be summed up as "Join the American Legion and Fight Communism."

The national convention has just been concluded, and the delegates took very definite stands on certain matters of grave national concern. As a result, the Legion is getting nationwide publicity, especially from those newsmen and commentators who are champions of "old-fashioned" Americanism.

Every Legionnaire is proud of his organization's activities in taking an affirmative stand against the encroachments of socialism and communism, and all veterans who would like to be a member of the American Legion are invited to join now when such activities are so sorely needed.

All present members are urged to attend Monday night's meeting to learn more about plans for American Legion Week.

Scouts Will Be In Parade Here

All Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts in Monroe and West Monroe are to be in the Junior Chamber of Commerce parade Monday afternoon, October 16.

All scouts are requested to assemble with leaders on the West Monroe side of the new traffic bridge at 2:30 p.m. in uniform.

Permission has been granted for scouts to leave school in time to arrive at the assembly point by 2:30.

Increased Pressure Invoked In Poland

Warsaw, Poland, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Increasing pressure will be brought against Polish Kulaks and "hostile elements working in the interests of imperialists," a joint statement by the United Workers party and the United Peasant party said today.

The statement said a resolution adopted at meetings of the combined Communist central committee and the Peasants supreme executive committee declared that "in view of the aggressive policy of the Anglo-American imperialists . . . it is necessary to increase vigilance for enemy agents."

Informed observers believe the move is another step on the road toward enforced collectivization of farming. The Kulaks are rich peasants.

The meetings were attended by President Boleslaw Bierut, in his capacity as chairman of the Communist central committee; Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, as a party secretary, and Peasant Party Chairman Wladyzlaw Kowalski.

CHAS. WALL, JR. IS LIONS SPEAKER

District Governor's Duties Told In Talk To West Monroe Club

Charles G. Wall, Jr. was the guest speaker at the regular Thurs day night luncheon of the West Monroe Lions Club. Mr. Wall made his talk in connection with Lions district governor week, in the absence of District Governor Bill Clark of Shreveport. Mr. Wall gave the club inside information on the duties of the district governor, since being deputy district governor this information was readily accessible to him. He cited some of the aims that Governor Clark intends to accomplish this year, one of these aims creating a closer relationship among the clubs in the district. Under the suggestion of Lion Wall, the club adopted a resolution commending District Governor Clark for the help he had given the clubs and the wonderful job he was doing as governor of this district. He also gave the club some pointers to follow in holding up the standard Lions International had set.

O. K. Baily of Sterlington was introduced as a new Lion and Dr. E. C. Blackman and Hugh Taylor, Jr. were guests of the evening. T. L. Crosby was back after a long absence.

Three Plunge To Death In Automobile

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Two women and a man plummeted to death in the Raritan river today in an auto which was shoved through an open draw bridge by another car.

A fourth occupant of the auto leaped to safety just before the vehicle plunged off the Victory bridge which connects Perth Amboy and South Amboy.

State police, Coast Guardsmen and a diver grappled for the auto for nine hours in the swift-running tide before it was raised from 30 feet of water and the bodies recovered.

The victims were identified by state police as Eleanor Cook, 26, of Fulton St., Woodbridge; Mrs. Mary Auburn, 28, of Columbus Circle, and William Taggert, 40, of Cortland street, both Perth Amboy. Miss Inez Gibson of 285 Bertrand Ave., Perth Amboy, jumped to safety. All were Negroes.

Democracy vs. Communism— And Don't Forget Socialism

This week the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Louisiana is observing "Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism" week and a number of events have been planned throughout the state which will tend to show the people the dangers which confront all of us from these two "isms." The idea is the brain-child of a Monroe man, Jack Howard, state Jaycee president, and it has aroused considerable interest not only in Louisiana but throughout the nation.

Some years ago it was unnecessary to bring such an issue before the public forefully. But today it's a different story. Those dangers are real and they're ever present, regardless of attempts of the Reds and the pinks to soft-pedal the issue during recent months.

In this connection, we like a paragraph from Westbrook Pegler's column of last Friday.

"When I was younger, the people were not beset by reminders that it was great to be an American. And we knew so well that it was wonderful to be an American that no fool was fool enough to remind us of the low estate of the mud-eaters under the Czar. All the while our people, the Americans, as distinguished from the damned intellectuals and the ward politicians, were full content to live and love and laugh and pray and finally climb the golden stairs."

It can't happen here, you say? Well, it CAN happen here and it IS happening here.

As short a time ago as the Red double-cross in Korea, there were a few individuals here (and we mean in Monroe) who openly spouted the Communist line, straight across the board. Since the Korean debacle, it's quite unpopular to dwell on the subject in public, and our local pinks have quieted down to some extent. But you'll still find a few who'll quote Karl Marx at length.

Yes, the fellow-travelers have toned down a bit, but not the socialists. There are a number of individuals and a few organizations who believe that we all should be subject to regimentation by the government, who advocate socialized medicine, control of the schools by governmental agencies, absolute control of farmers, business and industry, etc., etc.,

Thus the Jaycees are performing a service to the city, state and nation in dramatically presenting to the public the dangers of communism and socialism. Keep your eyes and your ears open this week and you'll see what we mean.

'War Jitters' Is A Disease

It has happened several times lately. The most recent was in Brooklyn, when an explosion in the sewer system sent manhole covers blowing into the street.

The manhole covers weren't the only things to blow their tops. Brooklynites, possibly still jittery over what happened to the Dodgers in the National League, blew theirs, too. For a few frantic minutes, there were screams of "It's war," and "The Russians are bombing us."

It's a natural reaction to these feverish times. War threats and war budgets are constantly in the news. Anybody who isn't a little jittery is pretty phlegmatic.

Maybe "war jitters" is simply a disease of 1950, just as apple vendors were a disease of 1932.

But it's a disease that is very unhealthful. It's very contagious; you can't simply quarantine it. And there does not seem to be any treatment that works on all the cases.

The best remedy appears to be plenty of sleep, lots of good food and strong faith that the strength and intelligence of America should be able to ward off a big shooting war.

Having the jitters is one thing, but letting them explode into panic is something worse. Some people, like those squeamish Brooklynites, see an armed Russian in every dark alley and an H-bomb falling from every cloud.

To ward off this panic takes more than sleep, food and faith. It takes knowledge and cold, practical logic—the kind of logis and knowledge that makes the experts say a full-scale war is still far off.

You know that America is once more building up its muscle. You know that Russia is still battling back from a severely-damaged economy. You know that the Russian-backed North Koreans took a pasting when they expected easy victory.

Knowing those things should be a comfort. Practically, it means that Russia is not in a good position to start a war. And, despite their erratic streak, the Russians are practical when it comes to war.

Have your jitters, if you must. But there's no point in panic at this point.

Next time somebody pops a paper bag, or a sewer manhold makes like a rocket, don't dive for the nearest bomb shelter. Just relax, smile and say, "Phooey on panic."

A Timely Meeting

President Truman's decision to meet with General MacArthur over this weekend is a smart political as well as diplomatic move.

In addition to showing the rest of the world the importance he places on the Far Eastern situation, the meeting may be used by the chief executive to heal the breach in the administration's bipartisan foreign policy. It will provide an answer to those Republican and Democratic critics who have been saying that MacArthur's views on the Oriental problem, based on long years of first hand observation, have been passed over by the president.

Another point that Mr. Truman might have in mind is the fact that the dramatic effect of such a meeting at sea, shrouded in elaborately publicized secrecy, will not be lost on the public as election time draws near. The president is an old hand at gaining the best results from such effects, as the 1948 election proved.

Memos of a Girl Friday

Dear WW: Your personal appeal to Governor Dewey to do something about the crooks who swindle citizens out of donations to victims got quick action. State Attorney-General Nathaniel L. Goldstein charged in court that the Cancer Welfare League's operadollar bills in a dramatic letter urging them to return it with their own offerings) was "nothing less than a shameful fraud on the public." He charged that this outfit collected over $102,000 last year an deducted about $97,000 "for expenses!" He named Joseph L. Brandt as the phony outfit's director. Can't you get the bus lines to take down the ads about this Get Rich Quick scheme?s . . . Also if you happen to see this Joseph L. Brandt before I do, sock him one for me. The rodent.

Governor Dewey may be invited before the grand jury probing the cops and bookies. . . . Marguerite Higgins, the lovely leading lady of the Korean war, returns for the H.-Trib. forum. . . . The specs who got their paws on tickets for 'Call Me Madam" got as high as $200 the pair last night. . . . Jane Froman's ex-groom, Don Ross, and Esta Silsbee on the Hotel Plaza's publicity staff are romantic. The reason it's an item is that his ex-wife, Jane Froman, is the star at the Plaza's Persian Room. . . . There are 11 college graduates in the chorus of Olsen & Johnson's "Pardon Our French."

Gorgeous Gussie Moran will wear her silly little lace panties when she returns to the Garden on the 26th. It says here she will make her quick changes of costume right before the crowd, but the lights will go out. Onowlookahere, girl! How sexy do you have to get—to get to be a bore? . . . Susan Yorke's new book, "The Widow," was completely sold out in Los Angeles and Boston the Monday-noon following your plug. She says it is selling like hotcakes in "this very dull market," so thanks. . . . Grace Oursler's new book just came in. It's "When Sorrow Come (Doubleday), and Grace celebrated the event by going to Doctors Hospital. . . . Roslynd Lowe, one of the navy nurses in "S. Pacific," becomes a bride week before Christmas. . . . General Eisenhower spurned that offer to do a col'm twice weekly.

The first dozen copies of "MacArthur, Man of Action" (by Frank Kelly and Cornelius Ryan), due on the 26th, were flown to President Truman so he can get to know Mac on the flight there. . . . Rudolf Bing of the Met firing the tall ballet dancers. . . . Judy Sinclair of "Gents Prefer Blondes" is Thoo With Men. "You get nothing but a broken heart sticking to one guy," she told me in an excloosive innaview. The Guy in this case probably is a South American mint, who suddenly flew back to Brazil. . . . Newest craze among The Copy cat Set is bent-wire ciggie holders a la Gloria Swanson in "Sunset Blvd". . . . Yonkers Raceway stock which was $1 on May 2nd is now $20 a share. Now they tell me!

Saw "State Secret" on your nod, and it is everything you applauded, but it certainly is a carbon copy of Metro's "Crisis" starring Cary Grant and Jose Ferrer. In fact, the same Hungarian author (who wrote the Fairbanks film) sold the "Crisis" thesis to MGM not too long ago. . . . Rodgers & Hammerstein tried to buy the Rivoli Theatre. Their bid was snubbed. . . . Dambdest thing happened to the elegant Ilka Chase. She femme-c'd a fashion show in a plane (between here and Cleveland) and got very inelegantly airsick. . . . Toots Shor's definition of Class: Not Forgetting Where You Came From.

Peggy Ferris, who was understudy to Patricia Morison, the star of "Kiss Me, Kate" (and now ditto for Anne Jeffreys), has never had a chance to go on—those leading ladies being too healthy. So Peggy, who decided she wanted some excitement, will marry Stanley Smith (an engineer) on the 21st. . . . The Haakon Chevaliers have Thrown Theirs Away. . . . Larry Finley's Progressive B'casting System expects to start with 400 stations and wind up with 700. Starts next month. . . . RAC-Victor is mighty blue about Eth Merman singing with Decca to disc the "Call Me Madam" score. Specially since NBC, an affiliate, backed the show! . . . Here's a tip I got from the Venezuelan embassy on how to prolong the life of an orchid. Dip the stem in boiling water (up to about 1½ inches) for 2 minutes. The heat forces up the sap and revives the flower.

Remember that T. Sullivan, 3rd, who got on the front pages via a brawl at the Mrs. Woolley-Hart charity-gamblers party? On Oct. 5th he was given 1½ years at hard labor (in Oregon) for beating up a 72-year-old man (brave guy), passing checks that bounced and trying to steal a woman's purse in a dept. store. . . . Western Union people are quaking. An amazing machine called Desk-Fax will throw thousands out of work and close up many regional offices, according to telegraph people. . . . Manfred Bockenheimer of the Stuttgarten Zeitung is one of 125 Germans brought here to study our way of life. Do him a big favor. Tell him not to visit or study in the home towns of vets from the 88th division. Because Manfred's company machine-gunned 14 GI POWs in Salzburg the day before it fell.

Wall street is buzzing about the return of Chas. C. Wright. He was the central figure in the aircraft and motor stock probe of the 30s. He moved to Canada when the SEC breathed down his neck, but now he is back all set up in business again. . . . I'm told that this is Big News. The Minister of Religion in Israel will call a Sanhedrin next year in Jerusalem. This'll be the first meeting of the Rabbis in 2000 years. The big idea is to modify many of the dietary and orthodox laws. . . . Kitty Kallen's Wedgwood warbling won her a spot on the Martin & Lewis TVehicle this Sabbath eve'g. . . . Big talk around Harvard is that one of H. Luce's top brass is trying like anything to become Pres. of Harvard, with Conant upping to Chancellor.

Please sign the $150,000 Runyon Fund check. It's for the annual Fellowships. . . . Harry Hervey, the novelist, is at Memorial. . . . Frank Gannett denies that he "has anything to do" with Joseph Kamp (who gets out of federal clink on the 15th) or Merwin K. Hart. Said it with a Straight Face, too. Gwan! . . . If someone decided to sponsor the Stork Club tv show, it would cost $2,700,000. . . . That word Edith Evans shocks you with in "Daphne Laureola" has never been dared on a stage before. . . . In his "Season in the Sun" summary critic J. Chapman explained that Fire Island vacationers "are familiar with the celebrities and androgynes." He means swishes.

—Your Girl Friday.

In Washington With

BASCOM TIMMONS

The tired American taxpayer wonders at the skyrocketing costs of war equipment in all fields, which have already made the Korean war the most costly per equipment unit in history, and will continue to keep the cost of every implement of war at an astronomical level, even as compared with World War II.

The army and air force, which now are the biggest buyers, say through their spokesmen that new models of all mobile weapons—airplanes, tanks, trucks and all others which are privately manufactured — are more expensive because new models are more complicated, and in some instances must be almost handmade.

The airplane manufacturers have a slightly different story. Their representatives in Washington, of which there are dozens, say that one of the main reasons for the costliness of aircraft is not the overall improvement in all types of planes, but the horde of inspectors for the air force, the navy and the civil aeronautics bureau, each with his own ideas (or those of his bureau chiefs) about what each type of ship should carry in the way of equipment and about changes in design.

"About all we can count on is that the basic design of each type of plane will bet the same for all three government purchasers," said the representative of one west coast manufacturer. "Above that each service wants changes —and expensive changes, involving a lot of extra work. It doesn't do any good to tell the navy that the army is using the same plane with certain equipment which has proved entirely satisfactory in tests, or vice versa. They want something different and they have the authority to reject the plane if it isn't finished according to their ruling.

"I've run myself ragged around the Pentagon trying to persuade some high brass that comparatively minor changes mean a delay of weeks in plane delivery, but the inspector is king. There is little coordination, and the result is a increase in overall costs, for you can't do much in the way of mass production under such a system."

At top army levels the battle of the tanks is still keeping blood pressures high. The Army ordnance corps clings to the idea of a light, highly mobile tank which can maneuver heavier tanks—if it can last that long. Most tank officers, who are a minority voice, and apparently most tank veterans of World War II are shouting angrily that the light tank has its place — a scouting role — but that the United States is far behind in fighting medium -heavy tanks to slug it out with the best Russian combat tanks.

On the very day that a blast against present American tank types used in World War II and in Korea by a tank veteran who had been severely wounded against the Germans was published by a national magazine, the

New York Day By Day

New York — I have known few men who loved life so enthusiastically as did W. E. Woodward, famed as a novelist and biographer, who died recently in his 76th year. His autobiography, "The Gift of Life," published by Dutton in 1947, expresses this appreciation of life and enjoyment of people.

Here is the last paragraah of that book:

"It may be noticed that this plan for the future consists mostly of work. To be sure, I hope and expect to have some fun and some leisure. But what I value most is the capacity for work. I mean that writing gives me great pleasure, even if at times it may be hard and exasperating. I do not know how I could life an idle life."

That got a great cheer from me in this column, at the time of publication, as did this, the first paragraph of the foreword of the same book:

"This book is called 'The Gift of Life' because I believe, after 72 years of living, that life — I mean just being alive, no matter what one's condition in life may be—is the most superb of all possible gifts to human beings. I have had a wonderful time all my life; and when I say wonderful, I mean it."

Isn't that a fine spirit for a man of 72?

Woodward, humbly born, was a worker all his life, and only workers are happy in this world. He became a great success as a banker made a fortune, and resigned at the age of 46 to "take it easy." He had plenty of money. He took his wife on a trip around the world.

All the newspaper obits that I have seen about Woodward have missed this, the most important circumstance or combination of circumstances in his life. He told for McNaught's Monthly, of which me about it when he was writing I was associate editor.

Relaxing in a deck chair on a trans-Atlantic liner, he read a popular novel. Mrs. Woodard, herself a writer, asked how he liked the book.

"I could do better myself," he said. "I'm amazed that such a shallow story should be a best-seller."

"Why don't you?" asked Mrs. Woodward, and W. E. went to work.

When he arrived in New York after the trip, he had the manuscript of a novel complete. it was titled "Bunk."

He mailed it from his hotel that very day to the first publisher that came to mind, Harper.

Henry Seidel Canby, editor at Harper, recognized something new in American fiction style. Back came a letter of acceptance, with advance check.

That's the way Woodward told the story to me in 1924 or perhaps a year later. It has been told by others with slight variations.

Woodward was a man of rather under-medium stature, inclined to plumpness, with a handsome, thoughtful face, and a habit of keeping his chin up. He had a rapid and decisive step which would become many much younger men.

I have most of his books, personally inscribed to me, also some inspiring letters.

One of his sentences: "It does not take a good, or even a clear mind to make a fortune."

He loved life. I am sure he will go on loving it, in his new environment.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE COURTS

Whenever I face elections, I become puzzled about how to vote, particularly for judges. Our freedoms depend upon our courts, upon the character of our judges. Those whom I am asked to vote for are, on the whole, mediocre persons, not particularly fit for judicial office. I should not like to have my future depend upon their experience and soundness of judgment. Of the half dozen candidates, I shall, unless I have some reason better than I know today, vote for only one, Charles D. Breitel.

It is a sad situation for the citizen. The basses pick his judges. Why should I vote for a judge selected by such a person as Boss Ed Flynn of the Bronx or someone similar to him? Why should any citizen be placed in that position? It is unfortunate enough that we are dependent upon these politicians for administrative and legislative candidates; it is a crime against our political structure that such men exercise so much power over our courts.

Some time ago, Mr. Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States supreme court said:

"A disorderly, obstructive, contemptuous or defiant demonstration within the courtroom can only be charged to lawyers. The problem would be less difficult if it were due only to a purpose to discredit courts and judicial proceedings.

"But the more subtle danger is from the growing attitude that judicial control of the proceedings is a sort of tyranny, that a courtroom ought to be a cockpit without rules, the trial a free-for-all, into which the participants are free to throw anything they please."

An obvious demonstration of lawyers' contempt for the courts was given wide exhibition in the trial of the Communists in Judge Medina's court, and this is undoubtedly the demonstration to which Mr. Justice Jackson refers. But what they did was unusual only in degree; many lawyers assume an attitude of disrespect in the courts for which there can be no excuse whatsoever. A client can be defended without disrespect.

The point is that this condition is bad enough when shyster lawyers use the courts to get publicity for themselves or to give the jury a vaudeville show, perhaps to impress clients and their families. It becomes increasingly dangerous to the preservation of American, justice when the lawyers have real and abiding disrespect for the judges, when every informed person in the courtroom knows how the judge happened to be nominated, even how much he paid into a campaign fund or directly to the boss for the nomination. No one can prove that these things happen, even though they are frankly discussed in political circles.

I have sat with judges discussing judges and with lawyers discussing judges over these many years. It is one thing when members of bench and bar question the knowledge or wisdom of a judge; it is another when they speak in frank contempt of a judge's character and his associations.

Some have said to me that after a lawyer has made money, he often seeks honor and that some of these men, who as lawyers pursued dubious courses, make excellent judges once they have taken the vow, as it were. This seems a doubtful formula, although I have known three or four instances which might prove that a political judge could develop into a judicial philosopher.

The fact remains, however, that when a few county leaders meet in a restaurant to pick judicial candidates, they also make deals. They also arrange about receiverships and references and all sorts of benefits to favored lawyers. And when men are nominated who cannot be regarded as fit, whose very names on the ballot surprise the citizens, then obviously the bosses have not selected in the public interest.

It used to be that in some cities like New York, the parties united in the renomination of sitting judges. This practice has now been abandoned in favor of strict partisanship.

But then if the people do nothing about it, why should not the bosses do what they can get away with?

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

"WHAT HAVE I DONE?"

Many a conscientious parent worries himself sick, asking, "What have I done, or left undergone, to make my child such a failure?" when he had nothing to do with the conditions that caused the failure. Parents are not always to blame for children's mistakes. Nature speaks louder than any wish, desire or example they may have used for the training of the child.

Pete is a nice boy, clear-eyed, clear-skinned, merry and childlike. He is immature in many ways when compared with boys his age and with older boys in his class. The teachers let him by with the B that meant 'a good child doing all that can be expected while not whining in any particular fashion." In this a titude he went along through the grades until he arrived in the eighth, the class that prepares boys for graduation from elementary school and for entrance to high school.

In this classroom he met a new kind of teacher, a man who was serious about his duty — the preparation of lads for the upper school, where maturity is expected and efficienty is exacted. Shocked by the carefree attitude of some of the boys, by the lack of earnestness, knowledge and maturity of purpose, he talked to them in blunt phrases and laid down the law, the gospel of hard work and top achievement. He also laid out a heavy program of lessons entailing much home-work. Into the bargain he called the boys men, and prefixed Mister to their names. Imagine Pete's predicament.

His first report card was red-inked from top to bottom. The teacher said he was unfit for this grade and should go back at least two years to get a thorough grounding in all subjects and to acquire some degree of maturity. The parents could not but agree that this picture was fairly accurate, but what about Pete? How would he feel about such a development in his life?

"If I don't pass I'll be exactly where I would have been had I gone back, so I'll stay where I am and try to pass," said he.

For the first night Pete worked hard and had his father check his work. The second night he was tired, plainly fatigued so that bed was imperative. The pace was too hard for his immature growth. It was plain he could not make the grade.

Now it would not be fair to blame Pete's father and mother. The school had allowed him to drift into a grade beyond his ability because its demands required a maturity he had not reached. That was not his fault either. Somewhere along the line a teacher should have said, "This child needs time for development. Better hold him where he is for a time while offering him experiences that may hasten his maturity."

Nature, like it or not, is a powerful partner in child rearing and education.

Have your children reached the "beau problem" stage? Dr. Patri gives his excellent advice to parents in his booklet No. 304, "Your Child and Other People."

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

PLAN FOR KOREA

Editors, in large majority, are optimistic that the United Nations plan for unification of Korea, approved by a general assembly vote of 47 to 5, with 8 abstentions will proceed steadily toward success without prolonged fighting. A considerable minority, however, fears that guerrillas, including Chinese Communists, may prolong the fighting for many months to come. And a smaller minority questions now whether Russia and Communist China will allow any United Nations settlement in Korea to stand after withdrawal of U. N. forces.

Dayton (Ohio) News (Ind.-Dem): "The plan involved, tacitly, the pushing of military action until the aggressor's striking force has disintegrated. It involves, then, a plan for temporary occupation by U. N. troops, for the holding of free, U. N.-supervised elections, for international economic action to rebuild Kore, and for creation of a special watchdog commission of the United Nations to see that the plans are carried out effectively. With predominant military force in the area, and with the blessing of . . . almost all sections of world opinion, we can now go about the necessary work with confidence."

New Orleans (La.) Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "The U. N. plan is an appeal to reason, directed to all Koreans. It remains to be seen, of course, whether the appeal is effective. . . . Russia has always opposed any other than rigged elections in Korea. She herself delayed the unification of that country in favor of a one-sided 'putsch' solution. Her inculcation of the spirit of brutality even toward fellow Koreans . . . continues to mark itself in Red Korean 'battle' conduct."

San Francisco (Calif.) Chronicle (Ind.-Rep.): "The swift effectuation of this program will go far toward reassuring the Korean people of the earnest intentions of the United Nations and the United States, and toward blowing down the Communist party line that seeks to place the United States in the role of imperialist ogre. There will be complications, of course The fact is that the fighting is still in progress—may well continue for some time to come. . . . It could be that the moral effect of the resolue inaugration of this program would weaken the resistance of the Communist holdouts."

South Bend (Ind.) Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "Guerrilla warfare seems a strong possibility. A prolonged task of 'mopping up' north Korean guerrillas may fall to the U. N. forces. Their ability to do that job also is not in doubt. If Chinese Communists, however, take part in guerrilla actions the complete ending of the Korean war may be long delayed. . . . If the Chinese Reds are thinking in terms of intervention now they may be plotting 'infiltration' with a hope that the U. N. strategists will not hold them accountable for support given to the Korean Reds."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "The Moscow press is now talking about 'guerrilla warfare' and 'growing partisan activity in the rear of the American lines.' Peiping is industriously raising the specter of a 'drawn-out war of attrition perilous for foreign aggressors.' . . . There have been infiltrators, and there has been 'guerrilla' action by scatterd and isolated remnants of the invading armies. There has been no evidence of any 'people's war' of the sort about which Soviet propaganda talks so endlessly. . . . Korea, which has nakedly exposed so many Soviet lies already, may well expose this one, also."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "This possibility is real enough. It will disturb those who remember the long campaign against the Greek guerrillas which did not really end until they lost Yugoslavia's support. . . . China would rather come into the U. N. than into the fighting. Yet there is Chou En-Lai's long speech about China's solicitude for her neighbors. . . . But the U. N. must have considered this risk. It must have conluded that, if necessary, the extermination of guerrillas must be part of the pacification and unification of Korea."

Wichita (Kans.) Morning Eagle (Ind.): "The hard fact remains that whatever we do in Korea, it will be in the face of the organized might of the Russian empire which is right on the scene. And we are 7,000 miles from our base of supplies. Russia, including Red China, can move in now. Or it can wait until the United Nations program is completed and the western forces withdrawn. Then it can attack once more. To oppose that menace we would have to keep heavy forces in Korea indefinitely, reorganize the Japanese armies and try to have enough on the scene to block the Reds."

Carl Brings Stray Contract Back Home

By Oswald Jacoby

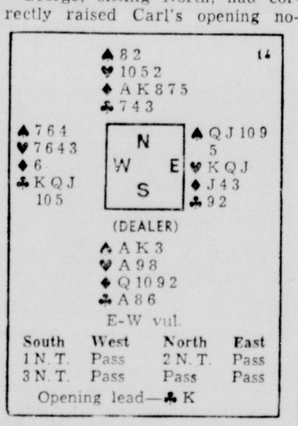

By Oswald Jacoby

"Carl, old boy," said Generous George, "your carlessness can sure make work out of a laydown hand."

"Well," replied Carl, "I did make it anyway."

"So you did," said East, "but if my partner had really been on his toes you would have thrown it out the window."

George, sitting North, had correctly raised Carl's opening no-trump bid to two. There was no good reason for George to confuse the bidding by showing his diamond suit. Naturally ,Carl had continued on to game. East opened the king of clubs and continued the suit when Carl ducked.

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 N.T.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♣ K

Carl won that trick and promptly started after what looked like five damond tricks. There owuld have been five all right if he had started by leading the nine or ten but Carl was careless and led the deuce. He won with dummy's ace, returned to his queen and jumped the least little bit when West discarded a low heart. You see, Carl's careless play had left him with the ten and nine and after he took the king one of those cards was going to block the suit.

Carl had to find a way to discard one of those two diamonds. Borrowing a leaf from George's book Carl played the eight of clubs. West won with the ten and East signalled with the queen of spades. He knew what was going on and hoped to persuade his partner to leave the clubs alone.

West did think for a moment. He did consider leading the spade. However, he was in the lead and knew that he never could get in the lead again. The temptation was too great. He cashed his two good clubs.

Of course, one club play was all Carl needed. He discarded one of the two diamonds on that lead and his losing spade on the next. Then when West finally led the spade Carl won with the ace and made the rest of the tricks. The stray contract had been brought home.

SOCIALISM RULES AND RUINS

It is not rule or ruin with socialism. It is rule and run. When socialism gets in power, its aim is neither the welfare of the people nor the safety of the nation. Its aim is the aim of socialism—complete control of wages and prices and production and distribution, regardless of the effect of this control.

This subservience of socialism to its own ideology was never better illustrated than in the case of recent vote in the house of parliament of Great Britain on the nationalization of the steel industry. Warned by both the leaders of the Conservative and Liberal parties that blind determination to go ahead with the nationalization of steel would intensify party strife, disunite the nation, and retard its rearmament program, it was nevertheless approved along strictly party lines by a vote of 306 to 300.

The steel industry has been the most efficient and successful of the industries of Great Britain since the close of World War II. It has consistently exceeded its quota of production and export, even though the government has recognizedly set these quotas high in an apparent effort to make them difficult in fulfillment and therefore gain an excuse for taking over the industry. Its current production of 16,000,000 tons of steel per year is far beyond any previous record and beyond what most people considered possible.

However, ignoring the need for national unity in the present time of crisis and ignoring the very margin by which it is possible for them to enforce their will, the Sosialists persisted in proceeding with government ownership and operation of the steel industry. It is generally felt that some of the Socialist leaders did not want to bring the matter to a head right now, but threatened with a revolt by the left-wingers if they did not go ahead, party policy was placed above national welfare and they went ahead with the vote.

And so socialism proceeds apace in Great Britain, and the socialists now have the most powerful weapon they have yet seized to control British industry as a whole. The use of steel enters into practically all industry, and the government can now say what industries can operate by deciding who gets steel and who doesn't.

This whole procedure should be a powerful object lesson to those people in the world who may still believe that the so-called welfare governments, as represented by the Socialist Government of Great Britain, can ever retain any vestiges of democracy, of belief in private initiative and individual freedom. Nor is there any such thing as a permanent system of part socialism and part free enterprise. People either have freedom or they don't have it. People either control their government or the governme✱ controls them.

What will be the result of nationalization of steel in Great Britain? We have seen that it was not actuated by reason. There was no reason for it — except that the Socialists were committed to it. Some of the left-wingers are making capital out of the fact that it will take the profits out of the steel industry and out of rearmament. It will do that all right. Profits have disappeared in every other nationalized industry and losses have taken their place! But one of the great pleas of the trades unions for increased wages in the steel industry has been based on the profits being made by the industry. The basis for that plan will now disappear. The price of steel will go up; prices have gone up in every other nationalized industry in an effort by the government to offset the inefficiency of government operation. The industry will be operated by political appointees without regard to their knowledge of the production of steel. And with the price of steel going up, the cost of living will go up in Great Britain, whereas the Government is committed to holding the wage line.

And so the standard of living will go down — and the British people will have one more link fettered in the chains that bind them to the slavery of state control and the planned economy.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, as a rule. Psychologist Lester Beals, Eugene, Oregon, found that in broken homes there were 17 per cent more children with below average personalities than in homes that were still intact. Even more significant, three-fourths of all the children with below average personalities came from "un-cooperative, un-democratic" homes. Other studies show that the home is a tremendous force in developing personality in children. Young people should think of their future children before saying, "I do."

Answer to Question No. 2

There's nothing better. It makes you feel at home with everybdoy anywhere—whether of high or low social standing. Anybody can learn the art. Rule one is: ceease being interested in yourself. Two: cease trying to get other people interested in you. Three: induce the other fellow to tell you about himself. This will set him going. You'll find many other rules for becoming a good talker in our booklet, "The Art of Conversation," by an expert—Milton Wright. Sent at cost, 15 cents (coin only), plus self-addressed stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. It's very doubtful. Hardly one student in 100 or 1000 ever learns a foreign language well enough to speak or write it, or will ever use it if he does. Researchers show that the average college graduate with two years of foreign language can rarely read it as well as a fifth grade child reads English.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

MUSIC GOES 'ROUND

A couple of years ago one of the staff musicians at NBC—a trombonist I'm going to call Charlie Michaels—decided he was finally in a position to realize his two big ambitions: one, to marry the swing harpist he had been keeping company with, and two, to buy a house and a piece of land in New Jersey.

For the first year everything was peaches and grade-A for the Times Square tots—there was a garden to putter around in, a house to do over, and neighbors to get acquainted with. Charlie got quite a kick out of telling the suburbanites what an artist his wife had been, and showing them a studio picture of her seated at a harp with a big Spanish comb in her hair.

But last January, when TV started using a lot of live music, their marriage ran into its first snag. Charlie, who had been doing an afternoon stint on radio, was shifted to one of the TV motor car programs, and a few weeks later was assigned to two other video spots. These involved a certain amount of late rehearsals, which meant that several nights a week, instead of catching the 5:15, the trombone player didn't arrive home until after midnight—that is, when he managed to get home at all.

His city-bred spouse, of course, didn't take kindly to this new routine—the country without a fella around the house wasn't much fun—and when it became clear that Charlie was going to be spending moe and more of his evenings at the studio, she suggested selling the house and moving back to town.

"I'd hate to give this place up," said the trombonist. "I get a big kick out of it, even if it's only week ends. As for an apartment, they're pretty tough to find right now but I'll see what I can do."

For the next couple of weeks Charlie answered ads and talked to real estate agents but without any luck—either the rent was more than he could afford to pay, or it involved plunking down a couple of thousand dollars for a few sticks of furnitue.

When he told his wife what the situation was, she said, "I know it isn't easy but you've got to do something. I just can't take it out here any more."

One evening not long ago, while grabbing a sandwich during a rehearsal break, Charlie picked up a paper and an item caught his attention: A young woman had committed suicide by throwing herself out of the window of a midtown apartment house.

On the spur of mood and moment, the musician hopped a taxi and went around to the address mentioned. "I understand you've got a vacancy," he said to the superintendent, "and it's worth a couple of hundred to me if I can have first crack at it."

The super took him up in the elevator and showed him the apartment—four cheerfully-furnished rooms.

"It's hard to believe anyone with such a lay-out would jump out the window," Charlie small-joked. "Did the woman live here alone?"

"Just between us," said the superintendent, "I think some guy was paying the bills. He leased the place in her name about two months ago and at first used to show up pretty regularly. Lately he hasn't been around, and I guess that explains why she took the dive."

"Was she as good looking as the papers said?"

"She was quite a looker," said the super. "There's a picture of her on the bureau."

Charlie went over and examined it.

It was a photograph of a girl seated at a harp with a big Spanish comb in her hair.

For a delicious sandwich filling, mix a half cup of pimiento cream cheese with a third cup of finely chopped cooked shrimp; season with a little chili sauce and lemon juice.

VFW AUXILIARY HAS ELECTION

Names Mrs. Christine Hendry Junior Vice-President Of Organization

The auxiliary to Rodney J. Hobbs post 1809, Veterans of Foreign Wars, met in regular session Thursday night at the V. F. W. club room with good attendance. The president, Mrs. Martha Newman presided.

The main business of the meeting was the election of Mrs. Christine Hendry as junior vice-president of the auxiliary, and the presentation of a beautiful past president's pin to Mrs. Mary H. Brooks.

Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas party for the benefit of the patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Alexandria, and a Halloween party to be given at the last meeting in October, Thursday night the 26th. Members appointed to serve on committees for the Halloween party were Mrs. Christine Hendry, Mrs. Juanita Tynes, Mrs. Mary Brooks, Mrs. Nan McKeithen, Mrs. Willie Mae Austin, Mrs. Isabelle Mercer, Mrs. Carrie Chandler, Mrs. Aline B. Hunt. All auxiliary members and their families are invited to attend this party. There will be spooks galore, with prizes, favors and refreshments.

President Newman announced that the 1951 membership cards would be available at next meeting and dues are now payable.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Most every American school boy remembers that Lord Fairfax was the patron who gave George Washington his start, engaging the young Virginia orphan as a surveyor to make an accurate estimate of the extent of the vast Fairfax holdings, direct grants from the English Crown. But they will be surprised to learn that two hundred years after the friendship between Fairfax and Washington, there is still a Lord Fairfax in the U. S., and that he has a 1,000 acre estate in Maryland, the sole remnant of the vast holdings of colonial days remaining in family hands.

The present holder of the title is Thomas Lord Fairfax, thirteenth Baron of Cameron. Of course he lives in England where he is the conservative whip in the house of lords, but his recent inheritance of the big Maryland estate, called Northampton, where the gardens and terraces were drawn up by Major L'Enfant, who planned the city of Washington, will bring him here every year. As a matter of fact, there are a lot of descendants of the Fairfaxes of Washington's day in Virginia and Maryland, all U. S. citizens.

In Hollywood With

JIMMIE FIDLER

Hollywood, Oct. 14.—How come Hollywood gossip has failed to identify Lou Riley, Dolores del Rio's fiance (some say her secret husband) as the former U. S. army corporal to whom Bette Davis lost her heart during World War II . . . June Havoc is mulling an offer from a Norwegian studio to play the lead in a picture based on Ibsen's "The Doll House." . . . Romantic: Actress Nancy O'Brien and George Baker, Jr., creator of the "Sad Sack" cartoons.

Mae West, traveling fast on Comeback Road, is dickering with radio sponsors who want her to turn disc jockey. . . . Altar-bound: Directo. Dick Bare and Singer Julie Van Zandt. . . . Water Pidgeon's return to the U. S. A. (he's in Europe) is being delayed because doctors have advised against travel until he recovers from a virus infection. . . . Frankie Carle's new venture—a coast-to-coast chain of schools teaching piano playing—has at least one unique feature; students learn without using a piano. . . . Gloria de Haven has been inked by Decca to record an album of Xmas stories for kiddies.

The real heart interest of Swedish Actress Marta Toren (often erroneously reported romancing with Dr. Peter Lindstrom) is a well-known novelist, now scripting for Columbia Studios. . . . Wotzis about Paramount bosses, who still own Mary Martin's contract despite her long stay on Broadway, forcing her to nix several big money offers for TV shows?

The talk of Hollywood, these days, is the change in Nancy Sinatra. Always beautiful, and always charming, she was, nevertheless, content to remain in the background before her errant spouse went on his present romantic rampage. Since the separation, she has come out of her voluntary "retirement" like a butterfly out of its cocoon. She's being seen frequently in the better nighteries and her beauty and sparkle have a small army of Filmville's most eligible bachelors at her feet. Unless Frankie-boy is even more blind than his past record indicates, he's very apt to awake, one of these days, to the realization that the wife he's lost is more "glamorous" than the girl for whom he sacrificed her.

Preview nights: Pic of the week: Universal-International's "Woman on the Run" (Ann Sheridan-Dennis O'Keefe). A fast-moving, always engrossing melorama which stands, for a change, on its writing and acting, rather than relying on "shocker" scenes to hold attention. . . . Good: MGM's "To Please a Lady" (Clark Gable-Barbara Stanwyck-Adolphe Menjou). Gable in the role of a two-fisted, rough-and-tough racing car driver, will undoubtedly please many a lady—as it will most men. . . . Fair: Paramount's "Tripoli" (Maureen O'Hara-John Payne). Based on one of the most colorful chapters in marine corps history, this one is entertaining in spots, but suffers from contrived "love interest." . . . Allied Artists' "Southside 1-1000" (Don DeFore-Andrea King). Satisfactory fare for crime dramadicts: just another "B" for more discriminating fans. . . . Low bridge MGM's "The Miniver Story" (Greer Garson-Walter Pidgeon). A sorry sequel that never should have happened to so nice a screen heroine as "Mrs. Miniver". . . . Best performance: Ann Sheridan in "Woman On The Run."

I hope the men who head MGM's exploitation department will pardon one comment on the irony of waging in behalf of Singer Vic Damone. It seems a bit silly to find movie publications flooded with photographs showing him pitching hay, carrying water buckets, etc., etc., all intended to break down his "sophisticated crooner" reputation. If his popularity as a sophisticated crooner was great enough to induce the studio to give him one of the fattest contracts passed out in several years, it should also be enough to sustain him with movie audiences. Chagning his "build-up" at this date, makes about as much sense as it would for a manufacturer to change his advertising on a thoroughly established commodity.

According to a current trade paper, at least one big exhibitor blames poor box office returns on the present wage demands of baby sitters—and once more I'm forced to admire the genius with which alibis. The box office records of pictures released this year tell the whole story, very clearly, and very simply. Good pictures are making money—doing just as big business as ever they have done; poor pictures, lacking in originality and entertainment value, are flopping. Never has the time-honored line, "There's nothing wrong with the industry that good pictures won't cure," been demonstrably true.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

The Lake Providence High School homecoming football game will be played on Hamley Field in Lake Providence, against Block High School of Jonesville, La.

Miss Sara Ann Schneider, popular and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Schneider, Jr., has been elected queen of homecoming, with Miss Doris Jean Ross, as maid of honor. Maids of the court are Peggy Schwartz, Amanda Brown, Annette Proctor, Bobbie Jean Vining and Bobbie Jean Parker.

Friends regret to learn that East Carroll's popular clerk of court, Mrs. J. H. Guenard, had the misfortune of falling and breaking her right wrist. Mrs Guenard went to Vicksburg for X-ray and setting and is convalesing nicely from the accident.

Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Terral were in Shreveport for the Louisiana Academy of General Practice. Dr. Frank Cain, Lake Providence physician, was also in attendance at the session.

Mrs. J. B. Graham and daughter Jackie and Mrs. Beulah Dunham were Vicksburg business visitors on Monday.

WILD TURKEYS FOR NORTHEAST LOUISIANA

More than 500 turkeys will be turned loose in the woods of northeast Louisiana through the efforts of local game enthusiasts with the cooperation of Major James Brown, director of the fish and game division of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife. Major Brown is shown above as he greets Wilson Karam with his truckload of 504 turkeys as they arrived here from Hancock county, Maryland. (Staff photo by Marvin DuBos).

State Of Louisiana Puts Up Most Of School Money

Only Six Other States In Union Give Bigger Proportion

By Edmond Le Breton

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Most Louisianians who follow their legislature's appropriation policies probably are aware that the state treasury provides a big proportion of the cost of the school system, as compared with the contributions of the parishes and local districts.

A recently published study by the federal security agency confirms this impression by listing only six states in which the central treasury contributes a greater proportion of school costs than in Louisiana.

Figures in the book-length survey, "Public School Finance Programs of the Forty-eight States," boil down to this:

While in the country as a whole county and local units bear more than half the cost of the public school system, in Louisiana their contribution is not much more than a quarter and the federal government puts in nearly six per cent, while the state pays more than two-thirds of the total bill.

The figures are all based on the 1949-50 school year. They show Louisiana's school revenues divided as follows:

Federal 5.9 per cent, state 67.4, parish and local 26.7.

In comparison, the average for the 48 states is:

Federal 1.9, state 42.7, county and local 55.4.

All but one of the states in which the state contribution runs relatively high—more than half the total—are southern or western. They are Delaware, which has no county school taxes, wit h89.2 per cent of the school funds provided by the state; New Mexico with 84.7; North Carolina 78.1; Alabama 75.8; Washington 68.5; Georgia 67.7 Louisiana 67.4; South Carolina 64.0; Tennessee 63.3; Arkansas 62.7; West Virginia 62.4; Michigan 57.6; Florida 53.4; California 53.3; Utah 53.1 and Mississippi 51.7.

Only two states were listed in the survey as receiving a greater proportion of their school support from the federal government than does Louisiana. They were Nevada, with 6.4 per cent, and Louisiana's neighbor Mississippi with 6.3.

Property taxes, by and large, are still the mainstay of school finances in most of the country, but not in Louisiana, the survey shows.

The median figure for the United States is 58.7 per cent of school revenues from property taxes. In Louisiana only 26.4 per cent came from this source. State taxes other than property taxes supplied nearly two-thirds of the school budget —63.6 per cent—and parish non-property taxes 10 per cent.

The FSA's figures bear out the often-repeated statement that south erners and westerners, by and large, devote more of their income to taxes for education than do their fellow-citizens from the wealthier northeastern states.

Louisiana ranks high in this respect. In a table of school expenditures in proportion to total individual incomes in each state—not tax receipts by the state itself—Louisiana is seventh in the nation, third in the south. Its percentage is 3.46, only a hair's breath behind that of North Carolina, Texas and Oregon, tied at 3.50. New Mexico leads with 4.11, followed by Utah and Arizona. Souther, western and midwestern states occupy the first 27 of the 48 places on the list.

FRANKLIN FAIR OPENS OCT. 18

All Schools In Parish To Close All Day For Opening

Winnsboro, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—The fourth annual Franklin Parish War Memorial Fair will get underway here Wednesday, October 18, and go through the 19th, 20th and 21s Friday, October 20, will be school day. All schools in the parish will be closed on this day and school buses will be used to bring children to the fair. As has been the custom in the past, Saturday has been set aside as Negro day at the fair.

This year the fair has three permanent buildings (two new cinder block buildings and a livestock barn) and only two tents will be used. In addition to the commercial exhibits, all kinds of farm produce and livestock, there will be booth exhibits by veterans organizations, home demonstration clubs, garden clubs, schools, F. F. A. chapters and 4-H clubs.

The exhibits will be judged Thursday morninng and $2,000 in prize money is ready for the top award winners.

A bookmobile from Concordia parish, driven by Mrs. Marjorie Brown, will be at the fair for exhibition purposes to show the people of Franklin what to expect when their own demonstration library is established here in November.

The state X-ray trailer will be at the fairgrounds Thursday and Friday to enable the general public to have chest x-ray pictures made.

The gaily lighted midway will be bigger and better this year with more rides and more sideshows. There will be a grand stand performance each night.

Directors of the Franklin Parish War Memorial Fair are: H. W. Gilbert, L. M. Calhoun, W. M. Snyder, S. R. Walters, K. C. Lofton, George M. Baskin, Allen L. Price, Ben D. Pardue, C. J. Grayson, B. S. Landis, Jr., Don K. Mayer, F. A. Massony, B. I. Berry, C. R. Adams, Dr. M. H. Greer, Yelvie Cuney and W. B. Scriber.

Drainage Solves Problem For Area Near Corey, La.

The Christian Science Monitor recently published an interesting story with dateline of Corey, Caldwell parish, La., telling how well directed effort had been used to protect a large area of farm lands thereabouts. Three main drainage ditches solved the problem.

The story in part is as follows:

As far back as people living in Caldwell parish could remember, the 1,200-acre Hopewell Plantation had been bothered with "water trouble" almost every spring during the big overflow.

Situated along the west bank of the Ouachita river where it curves into a horseshoe bend, the famous old plantation always was noted for its rich land but it changed hands with monotonous regularity after a few years. Most of the operators fought back vainly at the flood waters but after a time their money, ambition and patience were gone and they left in disgust with their nopes buried in bayou mud.

In 1939 the owner, Mrs. C. E. Speed, put the plantation up for sale. The Farmers Home Administration took an option on the place and established the 20 Negro families now living there with farm ownership loans. Farms were subdivided into tracts averaging 60 acres each and the units sold for around $5,300, the loan including the cost of a farm dwelling and outbuildings.

At the time there were a few usable shacks on the plantation but not nearly enough to house the families decently. Before many of the farm houses could be built for them wartime restrictions went into effect and most of the families had to be content with so-called "Victory Shelters." These were simple three-room jerry-built shanties, similar to a drop shed, roofed and sided with tar paper. They were built on contract at $200 each and gave at least the illusion of shelter from the elements.

The families had as difficult a time with the land as their predecessors. Too much of the rich delta land was wet too long and too often. But unlike the former owners they elected to stay and fight it out. It was probably a desperation decision for many of them had no other place to go.

After much study and planning, the Farmers Home Administration, with others, concluded that a better drainage system was necessary if the families were to farm efficiently and with profit. Some fields drained so slowly that spring planting was delayed for several weeks. Others were catching water from adjoining farms and maximum use could not be made of winter legumes. The soil conservation service was asked to help. The nearest district was 40 miles away at Rayville in Richland parish, the technicians there already had their hands full.

In view of the need and the size of the undertaking, however, H. B. (Joe) Martin, Louisiana soil conservationist; Doug McSween district supervisor; Jimmie Wyche, an engineer; and John F. Boughton, a conservationist, of Boeuf river district arranged to survey the property without cost to the borrowers.

Soil conservation experts found that to drain the land effectively there should be three main cross-ditches emptying into the Ballard bayou.

Also, each farm unit should have an individual draining ditch emptying into one of the three main ditches. The agency contracted to build the V-type ditches at cost with its own equipment. It was the largest development of farm land and involved more families than any Soil Conservation Service had worked with in Louisiana. The estimated cost for the total job was $6,148.

Ditching was also needed along the public road skirting the plantation. Furthermore, a good road into the center of the development, accessible to each unit, was also necessary, and there were bridges to be built. Sufficient loan funds to bear the cost of these undertakings were not available and financing the development posed a major problem.

George D. McKnight, parish supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, who knows his way around among the personnel of other agricultural agencies and organizations in his area, refused to be stymied by this turn of events. He, together with Homer . Echols, state field representative, and Barry W. Wilson, Jr. assistant parish supervisor of the agency, met with the 20 borrower families and explained the need, estimated cost, and long-time value of the proposed drainage project.

County Agent W. C. King was available throughout the development taking pictures and assisting in the over-all planning and execution. I. E. Lucas, production and marketing administrator of the parish, met with the families with respect to help they could get from that agency. He was helpful in obtaining an additional $100 ditching allowance for each and Home Administration and P. M. A. committees worked closely together on the details and all declared this drainage project was worthy of any assistance that could be obtained.

Mack Rowland, a member of the police jury in Ward 1, in which the farms are located, obtained lumber for the road culverts and use of the parish grading machines to dig the ditch that parallels the road.

Instead of the original estimate of $6,148 to complete the job the drainage project actually cost $5,924, with each borrower paying.

TECH DEBATERS PLAN ON CLINIC

First Event Of Year To Be Held At The College October 27

Ruston, Oct. 14.—(Special)—The Louisiana Tech debaters will hold their first annual clinic at the college on Friday, October 27, according to Miss Wilma Baugh, speech instructor.

High schools throughout the north Louisiana area have been invited to participate in furthering their study of the national high school debate question: 'Resolved, That the American People Should Reject the Welfare State."

The schedule of events includes a talk on fundamentals of debate by R. L. Ropp, president of Louisiana Tech; a panel discussion composed of Woodrow Hearn, Pi Kappa Delta president as chairman; Dr. Paul Hendershot, head of the economic department, and Dr. H. J. Sachs, professor of English.

In the afternoon there will be an exhibition debate between two Louisiana high school teams. A team from Castor High School will take the affirmative to oppose a team from Byrd High School in Shreveport, who will take the negative. That will be followed by a critique an informal reception, a non-decision debate by all those desiring to participate, followed by a critique and question period.

BLOCKED PUNT, LONG PASS GIVE ENGINEERS WIN

Loss Spoils Homecoming For About 42,000 Bengal Followers

By Warren Rogers, Jr.

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A 52-yard pass and a blocked punt gave Georgia Tech a 13-0 Southeastern Conference victory tonight over Louisiana State in a football comedy of errors.

The pass, high and wobbly, went from Tech Quarterback Bubba Sykes to Tech End John Weigle. It traveled 52 yards and Weigle fell over the goal.

The blocked punt set up Georgia Tech's other touchdown, scored also by Weigle, sitting behind the goal line on a pass from Halfback Joe Cobb. End Sid Williams broke up L. S. U. back Jim Barton's punt at midfield and Tackle Lamar Wheat scooped it up. The tally came a few plays later.

Tech back Jim Patton converted one out of two tries.

The comedy of errors, played to the hilt in the first half and toned down in the second, saw offensive units of both squads pedaling in reverse. Fumbles, flubbed passes and stumbling backs were the keynotes.

It was Georgia Tech's second conference win and L. S. U.'s second S. E. C. loss, spoiling the L. S. U. homecomings which brought out about 42,000 disappointed fans.

The game started and picked up momentum like an ailing Model-T. Neither side's T quarterback could muster a protective screen from his line. Jim Barton, L.S.U.'s man under after a week's practice at that post, had to run almost as often as he passed.

Sykes scrambled around like a startled stag trying to find receivers, until his desperate heave to Weigle clicked in the third period. Soph T-Quarterback Norm Stevens consistently overshot his L.S.-U. receivers.

If there was a bright spot in the fracas, it was in the defensive lines. L.S.U. End Armond Kitto, at 155 pounds, was pound for pound the best lineman on the field. He boxed in any number of Tech attempts to swep his end and did his share of hauling down ball carriers.

Reverse ofenses in the first quarter started the squads out with yardage gain averages of: L.S.U. minus ten yards and Tech, minus 51.

Georgia Tech

Centers—Bossons, Brown, Morris.

Right Halfback Johnnie Lessing scored twice and kicked an extra point to give Selman Field Grammar School a 13 to 6 victory over Bastrop yesterday, leaving the Selman gridders with a safe grip on the Seventh Grade League-lead.

An intercepted pass was good for Lessing's first touchdown and the next followed on a fast end run.

Barnett, right halfback for the Bastrop eleven, scored on a pass from Lofotn, speedy quarterback, for Bastrop's only big moment in the game.

Hot Springs Ball Club Up For Sale

Hot Springs, Ark., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Hot Springs Cotton States Baseball League franchise is for sale.

Owner Herbert W. Anderton, whose Bathers won the league championship this year, said he wanted $16,000. He added that the club lost $15,000 this season.

Anderton said he would announce his offer at the Cotton States League meeting In Greenville, Miss., tomorrow.

S.M.U. CRUSHES AGGIES, 56 TO 0

Oklahoma A. And M. No Match For Might Of High-Ranked Ponies

Dallas, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Southern Methodist power on land and in the air wrote a dirge of doom for Oklahoma A. and M.'s "thin thirty" tonight, knocking the Aggies from the unbeaten ranks by the unmerciful score of 56-0.

The valiant men of Aggieland—exactly 30 strong—never had a chance after the first period when miscues kept the Methodists bottled up in their own territory.

But from then on it was easy. Virtually everything S. M. U. tried worked and names uncommon to the crowd of 75,968 jammed into the Cotton Bowl bobbed up in the long-gainers on runs and passes.

Southern Methodist, ranked No. 2 in the nation, was winning its fourth straight victory of the season. The Aggies were unbeaten but had been tied before tonight, holding wins over Arkansas and Texas Christian, two other Southwest Conference teams.

Fred Benners, the mighty Methodist bomber, softened the Aggies up with prodigious throws and after the second period it was a rout.

Val Joe Walker, who had been used on defense until tonight, stepped into rack up three of the Methodist touchdowns.

Keyle Rote, the S. M. U. powerman, played little. He was in long enough to crash over from the six-inch line for the first Methodist touchdown.

The second Methodist touchdown came on a 72-yard passing foray with Benners at the throttle. One pass to Bennie White made 25 yards and the other—to Benton Musslewhite—ate up 41 with the latter running across from the Aggie six.

The third was scored on a 14-yard end run by Walker after Benners' passing had set it up. In this splurge Benners completed passes for a total of 75 yards.

The fourth was on a 55-yard punt return by the fleet Walker—a hurdler in track—and the fifth was on an end-around by Jimmie Hawn from the Aggie eight-yard line after Benners passes had sent the Methodist into scoring position.

The sixth was on a pass for eight yards from Musslewhite to Walker and the seventh was on a 13-yard blast by Bill Forrester. The final came when Dave Powell intercepted a desperation Aggie pas on the A. and M. four and fell across.

Bill Sullivan kicked all eight points after touchdown.

A fumble on the Aggie one-yard line by Bill Richards robbed S. M. U. of a ninth touchdown.

Southern Methodist romped for 254 yards on the ground and passed for 219. The Aggies could get only 47 rushing and 55 throwing.

It was Southern Methodist's biggest score since 1936 when the Methodists slaughtered Texas A. and I. 61-0.

SYRACUSE STOPS PENN. STATE, 27-7

Hard-running Ground Attack Too Much For Nittany Lions

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Syracuse University's football team unleashed a fast, hard-running ground offensive tonight to whip Penn State 27 to 7 before 17,500 fans.

Syracuse rolled for its first touchdown in the opening minutes of the game in a nine-play march from its own 25-yard line. The Orange ran the Nittany Lions ragged for the rest of the half but failed to score.

The Orange squad exploded in the third period and tallied three touchdowns on three runs, totaling 171 yards.

Avatus Stone, Syracuse's sophomore defensive safety man, ran 85 yards on an intercepted pass for one of the Orange's four tallies, and set the stage for two other scores by intercepting Penn State passes.

Penn State scored its touchdown on the final play of the game when Bill Abbott broke loose on his own 48-yard line and scampered 52 yards to the Syracuse goal line. Joe Grafson converted.

Syracuse gained 321 yards on running plays against 139 for its opponents. The Orange made another 48 yards in nine pasess completed by Quarterback Bernie Custis out of 14 tries.

RUSTON ELEVEN MEETS BENGALS IN GAME FRIDAY

Bearcats, Tigers In Conference Clash; Lions, Indians In 'AA' Scrap

The Ruston High School Bearcats, always rough on Neville elevens, faces the Tigers in their homecoming football battle here Friday night at Neville Stadium, and the Ouachita Parish High School Lions, ambitious to throw the north "AA" race into a muddle, will be playing the Fair Park Indians at Shreveport the same night.

Coach "Hoss" Garrett's Ruston outfit is considered the best bet right now to halt Neville's chances of repeating as northeast district Class A champions, and the Tigers, who lost eleven straight games to Ruston teams before hitting the win streak the last two seasons, expect to have their hands full.

Meanwhile, Ouachita definitely sees nothing but trouble ahead. Fair Park currently is leading the north district twin-A race with a 34-12 win over Haynesville. Ouachita dropped its conference opener to Haynesville here Friday night, 20-14.

By beating Fair Park, if that's possible, the Lions will be back in the thick of the title race, but a defeat Friday would erase the Lions as contenders. It will be a rough row for the Lions even if they win, and they'll still be facing the tough ones as they march along with Byrd, Baton Rouge High, and Istrouma of Baton Rouge.

Neville, using reserves plenty, coasted past Farmerville, 32-0, Friday in the tuneup for Ruston, but the Bearcats see the coming contest as probably their own district championship clincher. In fact there seems to be little left to keep the winner of the Tiger-Bearcat game here from going on to the district title.

The homecoming program at Neville Stadium will begin at 7 o'clock Friday night, and all Tiger alumni are being urged to attend. A special booth will be set up at the stadium entrance for the registering of all alumni. Crowning of the homecoming queen, yet to be named, and other features will be billed on the pre-game program. The Tigerettes, Neville pep organization, will sponsor a party for alumni and students on the stage of Neville auditorium following the game.

Xavier Scores Early, Coasts Past Louisiana Tech By 35 To 21 Edge

Musketeers Register All Their Points In 1st 20 Minutes Of Play

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Xavier University ran its victory string to eight straight today with a 35-21 win over an outbunched pack of Louisiana Tech Bulldogs, scoring five touchdowns in the first 20 minutes play.

After the Musketeers racked up a 35-0 bulge over the southerners Coach Ed Kluska generously drew back his front line players and sent in a herd of replacements.

Halfback Cliff Wilke blasted over from the one for the first touchdown, marking the 16th consecutive game in which the Hamilton, O., hammer has scored. Gerry Keefe added the first of his five conversions.

George Gilmartin, Xavier's top quarterback, passed 50 yards to Hughie O'Brien for the second marker. The Muskies' third scoring drive covered 83 yards, Halfback Bob Finnell rocketing over from the one to make it 21-0.

Bill Rankin crunched 82 yards to touchdown on a second period handoff. Xavier's final marker came moments later when Bernie Roeckers scored after interception set up the play.

Tech's Bulldogs scored touchdowns in each of the second, third and final quarters. Halfback Gene Yarborough filched an "X" pass and scooted 70 yards late in the second. Gene Knecht belted over from the one after seven for the final touchdown, Ed Michael booting all three placements.

Score by quarters:

Louisiana Tech	0	7	7	7	—21
Xavier	21	14	0	0	—35

Louisiana Tech scoring—touchdowns—Yarborough, Kneecht, Mathews. Points after touchdowns—Michael 3 (conversions).

Xavier scoring, touchdowns—Wilke, O'Brien, Finnell ranking Roeckers. Points after touchdowns—Keefe 5 (conversions).

TAR HEELS UPSET BY WAKE FOREST

Demon Deacons Take Measure Of North Carolina, 13 To 7

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 14—(AP)—Quarterback Dickie Davis connected with end Ed Butler for a 40-yard touchdown pass in the final 10 seconds today to give undefeated Wake Forest a 13-7 upset victory over North Carolina.

Wake Forest's winning touchdown came with dramatic suddenness shortly after the deacons had stopped a North Carolina drive inside the one-yard line.

The jubilant Deacons who had seen victory snatched from impending defeat so suddenly, carried their coach, D. C. (Peahead) Walker, from the field.

North Carolina appeared to have victory within its grasp as the fourth quarter minutes clicked off. As North Carolina strove desperately to score, there came the break that turned the tide. A pass by fullback Billy Hayes was intercepted by Soph. halfback Larry Spencer on the North Carolina 40.

Davis, a second string quarterback faded to pass. He hooped the ball to Butler who snatched the ball on the five and scampered over.

Wake Forest had spotted the Tar Heels a one touchdown advantage in the first quarter. Hayes from his own 48, whipped a pass to tailback Bud Wallace who grabbed the ball on the 16 and ran for the score.

The Deacons tied the count in the third period.

VANDY RALLIES TO NIP OLE MISS

Air-Minded Commodores Stay On Ground To Whip Rebels, 20 To 14

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Mixing the precision passing of Bill Wade and the rushing of big Jim Tabor, the air-minded Vanderbilt Commodores drove over three touchdowns on the ground today to whip the Mississippi Rebels 20-14.

Wade, the nation's leading passer in yardage gained, flipped six passes for 126 yards, but the payoff punches came the hard way—through, over or around the big Mississippi line. Six other Wade passing attempts were grounded, but none was intercepted.

Tabor outshone Mississippi's bucking John Dottley, the nation's third rushing ground-gainer, as the Commodores came from behind twice to outscore the Mississippians.

The Vanderbilt fullback scored two of the Commodore touchdowns and he gained a net of 94 yards in 10 rushing plays for an average of 9.4 yards per carry.

Dottley lugged the ball more often, carrying it 19 times for a net of 134 yards and an average of 6.7.

The Mississippians kept End Bucky Curtis, who leads all 1950 pass receivers in yardage, pretty well bottled up but the Commodores unveiled a new pass-snagging threat. Sophomore Halfback Terry Fails gobbled up three aerials good for 78 yards while Curtis was able to pull in only one 10-yarder. Another soph, Malcolm Cook, took two Wade passes for 38 yards.

Halfback Showboat Boykin was the best ground gainer for the Mississippians, garnering 81 yards in 10 carries—an average of 8.1 yards per carry.

Score by periods:

Mississippi	7	0	7	0	—14

ARKANSAS TRIPS BAYLOR, 27 TO 6

Ray Parks And Battling Line Spark Razorbacks To Conference Win

Fayetteville, Ark., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Ray Parks, an almost-forgotten halfback, and a fired-up line gave the Arkansas Razorbacks a 27 to 6 victory over Baylor in a Southwest Conference football game here today.

Parks scored two touchdowns, one on a 74-yard sprint in the final period, to lead Arkansas from behind and put it back in the conference race. It was Baylor's first conference start.

The big Razorback line stopped the Baylor Bears cold after the first five minutes and rushed passers Larry Isbell and Hayden Fry off their feet. They completed only five of 27 tosses for 58 yards.

Baylor, which had led the conference in defense, yielded 274 yards by rushing and 70 by passes. The Bears were held to 79 yards on the ground.

An intercepted pass led to Baylor's touchdown early in the game. Frank Boydston lugged one misfired pitch 37 yards to the Arkansas three. Two plays later, Don Carpenter dived across for the score. In the second period, Arkansas held Baylor for three downs on the two. That was the Bears' last big moment.

Frank Fischel blocked a punt in the second period to set up Parks' first score from the ten. George Thomason converted to put the Porkers ahead for keeps. Bill Jurney tallied the second Arkansas touchdown in the third on an eight yard pass from Jim Rinehart. The other touchdown was scored in the final period by Bob Griffin, a center playing his first game at tackle. He intercepted a pass and jogged 46 yards for the score.

Parks, who had been a reserve back, piled up 180 yards on 21 carries. He shared honors with defensive back Louie Schaufele, tackle Dave Hanner and Guard Buddy Brown.

Seventeen thousand saw Arkansas beat Baylor for the first time since 1946 and raise their conference standing to 500 per cent.

Score by quarters:

Baylor	6	0	0	0	— 6
Arkansas	0	7	6	14	—27

Baylor scoring: touchdown Carpenter.

Arkansas scoring: touchdowns Parks 2, Jurney and Griffin. Conversions Thomason 3.

THIS IS OIL PROGRESS WEEK

"How are things in the oil business?

—Mister, let me tell you...

"There are now some 45 million cars, trucks and busses operating in the U. S.—and with 250,000 service stations covering the country from coast to coast, the competition for this business—your business—is simply terrific.

"You benefit—because this competition pays off for you in higher standards of service, helps bring you better and more efficient oil products.

"Yes, Mister, outfits like ours are out to beat everybody and his brother in winning and holding your trade. We'll pull out all the stops in keeping your car serviced and rolling smoothly. That's plain good business for us.

"We're just one of the thousands of individual companies that make up the oil business. The same spirit of rivalry that makes us tick is working for you in every branch of the industry—refining, production, transportation, research and marketing. Competition produces better and better oil products—better service for you and your family.

"This is Oil Progress Week. But the way we figure, Oil Progress Week is every week of the year."

NORTHEAST PREPARES FOR PANOLA CONTEST

REDSKINS. PONIES CLASH THURSDAY AT CARTHAGE, TEX.

Game Will Be Last Of Four Straight On Road For Tribe This Year

Making their last appearance of the season away from home, the Northeast Louisiana State Indians head for Carthage, Tex., Thursday night and a meeting with the Panola Junior College Ponies. It will be the fourth road game for Coach James L. Malone's Redskins who are battling through the roughest schedule ever attempted by the Monroe School.

Panola, undefeated last year but held to a scoreless tie by Northeast here, has a record of 24 victories in the Ponies' last 26 games. The only blots are the Indian tie in 1949 and a 25 to 17 loss to Kilgore this year. Kilgore holds a 27-0 win over Northeast this season.

With 22 lettermen back to give the Pony eleven strength, Panola has registered victories during the current campaign over Paris, 13-12, Henderson, 45-0 and Nicholls Junior College, 33-0. The Paris victim later tripped Northeast, 30-13.

Coach Malone, who came up with a quartet of changes in his lineup for the past week and was barely nudged by NcNeese State in the last four minutes of play, 19-13, yesterday indicated other changes ight be in order this week as he strives to strengthen his machine.

He wouldn't comment to any extent on planned changes but was full of praise for Tackles Joe Harrison and Otho Williamson, Quarterback Billy Joe Milstead, Guard "Mo" Stark, and End Kenneth Greer.

Milstead and Greer got starting assignments at McNeese, coming through with good performances. Harrison, the big boy from Burkburnett, Tex.; Williamson, of Tallulah, and Stark, of Charleston, Mo., looked mighty impressive in substitute roles. All are freshmen and due to win more attention as the season progresses. They'll probably figure in any proposed changes Malone has in mind.

Quarterback Lloyd Ray, held out of the McNeese game because of a dislocated finger, will be ready to go again against Panola. The squad came out of the McNeese scrap with no further injuries and is due to be in good shape for the Ponies. Nothing but hard work in store for this week.

Six Irish Gridders Hurt In Wave Tilt

New Orleans, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Six Notre Dame football players were injured in the 13-9 victory over Tulane today, but most, if not all, will be able to return home with the team tomorrow.

Right Halfback Billy Barrett and Left Guard Paul Burns suffered slight concussions in the second half. Burns' injury was described as more serious than Barrett's.

Dr. Sherman Egan, Notre Dame, team phisician, said Barrett definitely will return with the team tomorrow and Burns "Probably" will.

X-ray examinations showed no fractures in either case, Dr. Egan said.

Left Halfback John Petitbon, a New Orleans boy who should be accustomed to the heat, suffered heat exhaustion.

Center and Captain Jerry Groom has a hemmorrhage in his thigh.

Star Quarterback and All-America Candidate Bob Williams has a bruised left shoulder. He is a right handed passer.

Fullback Jim Landry got a black eye and many bruises.

3rd Round Of Skeet Shoot Slated Today

After experiencing its biggest day of the season last Sunday, the Monroe Skeet Club' range at Plum and South Sixth streets opens again this afternoon for the third round of the five-Sunday shoot for the Howard Brothers Jewelry trophy, a sterling silver ice bucket. It's a classified shoot with all contestants having a chance to win.

Vernon Hobgood cracked 127 out of 135 last week for a top skeet score, and Ross Graves got 48 of 50. In the one-day trap event, T. O. Bancroft, Sr., had a perfect 25 for 25.

Other scores:

Skeet - Glen Anderson, 43x50; Charles Marx, 37x50; Duke Yates, Jr., 59x75; Lonnie Calhoun, 84x100; E. W. Andrews, 68x75; Pete Gonzales, 102x125; J. D. McAdams, 19x25; Dr. Lee Kaylor, 12x25; Bill Snyder, 64x75; Buddy Rizzo, 19x25; S. K. Bernheim, 44x50; T. O. Bancroft, Sr., 44x50; T. O. Bancroft, Jr., 44x50; Howard Morgan, 55x75; Tom Wolff, 45x75; Charles Cheshire, 20x25; Bob Sims, 42x75; R. L. Fuller, 16x25; Roger Larsen, 19x25.

Traps-Pete Gonzales, 20x25; Dr. F. P. Rizzo, 16x25; T. O. Bancroft, Jr., 21x25; and Dr. Kaylor, 16x25.

Relay Tussle Headlines Mat Card At Kallio's Arena

CURTIS BROTHERS MATCHED AGAINST 'PHANTOM,' LAYE

Arthur Skidmore Coming Back As Referee On Tuesday Night Card

The Curtis brothers, Champion Jack and the youngster George, team against "Black Phantom" and Charlie Laye in a tag team main event on Gus Kallio's wrestling program here Tuesday night.

The Phantom and younger Curtis were on opposing relay teams here last week when the Phantom-Garza Lozano combination defeated George and Henry Harrell.

Promoter Kallio got busy trying to rematch them, but the masked villain, while agreeing to return, said he would bring in Laye, the former world's light heavyweight champion, from Knoxville, Tenn.

Advised of the change in the Phantom's lineup, George Curtis decided he'd do some shifting as in the place of Harrell.

well, bringing in his big brother "If the Phantom thinks he's helping his cause by bringing in an ex-champion, I'll just see if I can't make the situation stronger for my own corner by bringing in the champion himself," young Curtis told Kallio.

Arthur Skidmore, the Jackson, Miss., referee who worked his again officiate. Skidmore, a brofirst matches here last week, will ther of Claude Skidmore, already well known ring official here, was well received by the fans in his debut here.

The relay scramble Tuesday will have a time limit of 90 minutes with two falls to win. A pair of one-fall preliminaries, offered a tuneup matches for the main event talent, will start the program at 8:15 o'clock.

Next Saturday's Games

Barkdull Faulk vs. Georgia Tucker, 1 p.m.

Central vs. Mitchell, 2 p.m.

Ouachita vs. Lida Benton, 3 p.m

Georgia Tucker, with two victories already in the bag, remained the only team in the Sixth Grade Football League that has neither tied nor lost a game. Central bowed to Georgia Tucker, 33 to 0, Saturday.

Henry Thomas, Georgia Tucker right halfback, scored four times against Central, intercepting two passes for two of the scores. The other pair of touchdowns by the busy halfback came on an end run and a pass. Genusa made the first touchdown for Georgia Tucker early in the game when the passing attack first began to click.

Mitchell took its first triumph in four tries by downing Lida Benton 27 to 0, with Quarterback Gallein accounting for every touchdown on end runs. Gallien kicked three extra points to back up his four tallies.

Sherrouse and Ouachita struggled to a 7 to 7 tie, with both teams making their touchdowns in the second quarter. Yerger, the Sherrouse quarterback, tallied on a line play, while Bryan, left halfback for Ouachita, made his score on a pass. Yerger and Gonzales kicked the extra points.

Illinois Wins Over U.C.L.A By 14 To 6

By Bob Myers

Los Angeles, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Fullback Dick Raklovits of Illinois needed only one yard for a first down, but he took 76 and scored a touchdown.

This spectacular scoring jaunt proved the decisive blow against the University of California at Los Angeles last night. The final score was 14 to 6.

There were two major regrets at U. C. L. A. today. The team failed to avenge a defeat by another Illinois team in the 1947 Rose Bowl game, and the loss ended a nice winning streak held by their coach, Red Sanders, over Big Ten opposition.

Sanders-coached Vanderbilt teams twice whipped Purdue, once won from Northwestern and last year his Uclans defeated Iowa. Illinois, Raklovits and Co., ended the string.

Associated with the charging Chicago footballer were several outstanding Illini, chiefly Left End Tony Klimek, who not only scored the first touchdown on a pass, but also was a terror on defense throughout the game.

The touchdown pass to Klimek was tossed by cool Fred Major, Jr., quarterback, just a moment after the same combination executed a 52 yard aerial that set up the scoring play. Sam Rebecca converted for the seventh point.

Illinois clung to the thin lead going into the third period, and just when U. C. L. A. appeared ready to begin a serious counter attack, Raklovits exploded through the line and was off for six more points. Again Rebecca converted.

TALLULAH PRIMED FOR DARE DEVILS

Stock Car Races Day's Feature Of Fair; Crenshaw In Crash Roll

Tallulah, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—A dare-devil crash-roll expert, Claude Crenshaw of Monroe, and six new drivers joined the roster of drivers who risk their lives here Sunday in the five-event auto races.

The races will be held at the Louisiana Delta fair grounds in Tallulah, beginning with the time trials at 1 o'clock and starting the main events an hour later.

A winner-take-all race begins the show with the three cars hitting the highest speed in the time trials earning entry. The next race will include the next six fastest cars, lasting for ten laps.

Cars clocked at a flat rate of 100 to 128 miles per hour are already entered, and several previous winners added their names to the list Saturday.

Cecil Hill of Monroe, Ruell Henry of Marshall, Tex., E. T. Darr of Keithville, La., R. L. Collins "Snuffy Smith and Shorty Foster, all of Shreveport, also entered Saturday. E. T. Smith of Springhill, La., winner of several races, informed officials that he would probly arrive in time to complete.

Entry blanks will be available at the fair grounds Sunday and may be filed until time trials get underway.

All non-money winners in the first three races get a shot at the consolation fourth race. A sweepstakes event is featured as the highlight of the whole show, and will bring together all entries for the fifth run.

"Red Dowdy" of Shreveport, who has copped six of his attempts in the past two years, will be a big favorite to win. Dowdy took second money on one race by screaming across the finish line on a brake drum. The wheel had fallen off four laps before he finished, and the brake drum was smoking when he skidded across.

Early entries included besides Dowdy, Orville Mills of Ladonia, Tex.; Herbert Craig of Summer Grove, La.; Woody Ramsey, Herschel Buchanan, Ralph Dyer and Wendell Gentry, all of Shreveport, and Claude Crenshaw of Monroe.

After entering as a race competitor, Crenshaw agreed to double with his dare-devil crash-rolling stunt.

Jimmy Butler, Bob Jackson and "Red Givens," all of Shreveport, are among the latest drivers to enter.

Intermission fun will be provided by Ed Miller and his Playboys.

Glass Pitches Undefeated Rice To Victory Over Pitt

Pittsburgh, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Rice Institute ran an unbeaten football string to three for 1950 and 12 over a two-year span today on the throwing arm of star Quarterback Vernon Glass. He pitched the Southwest Conference Champion Owls to a 14-7 win over the University of Pittsburgh.

A rain-soaked crowd of 21,061 saw the underdog Pitt Panthers step out to a 7-0 lead in the second quarter only to falter as the Texans punched out their pair of touchdowns just before and after half-time.

LOUIS COMEBACK PLANS OFFICIAL

Bomber Lines Up Series Of Build-Ups For Another Charles Shot

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Still convinced that he can beat Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles, Joe Louis will hit the road for a series of bouts to get in shape for another crack at his conqueror.

Confirming the Associated Press' story of last night, James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, announced today the 36-year old Brown Bomber will continue fighting to earn another chance.

Norris said negotiations are under way for a Louis-Cesar Brion ten-rounder at the Chicago Stadium, Nov. 29. The I. B. C. chieftain is dickering with Hymie Wallman, manager of the 26-year old Argentine contender.

If that match is made, and if Louis is successful, the ex-heavyweight titleholder will take on Veteran Lee Oma in Detroit and Rocky Marchiano, undefeated Brockton, Mass., slugger, in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Other possible opponents for Louis include Lee Savold, the British-recognized heavyweight king from Englewood, N. J., and Tommy Farr, the aging Welshman who also is making a comeback.

All this preparatory work is aimed at getting Joe another bout with Charles, who defeated Louis Sept. 27.

There is a possiblity of a huge radio-television fee for a second Charles-Louis scrap. The air rights fo the last one were sold for $146,000. The second one may be worth $500,000.

Norris said Louis advised him of his fighting plans in a telephone conversation from Norfolk, Va.

Louis said he plans to resume training next week at West Baden, Ind. On Wednesday, Norris said Louis plans to apply in Chicago for a renewal of his boxing license.

Behind all this activity are two factors:

1—Louis needs money, lots of it.

2—He still thinks he can beat Charles and wants to become the first heavyweight champion to regain the crown.

Local Bulldogs Beat Minden Negroes, 13-0

Friday the 13th was a lucky day for the Monroe Colored High School Bulldogs as they used 13 first downs in rolling to their third victory of the season, 13 to 0, over the Minden Wolves.

After a scoreless first half in which the Bulldogs had the aid of two bad Minden kicks but couldn't score, the Monroe Negroes opened up with some spectacular ball handling in the last half to grab two touchdowns as Darnell Cowan, Worthy, Spears, and Walker paved the way with fancy runs.

Monroe's line held the Wolves to four first downs while the Bulldogs were getting 13.

The Bulldogs rest through an open date this week, and on October 27 they meet the Ruston eleven in their homecoming game at Neville Stadium here.

Large Entry Due For Ladies' One-Day Tournament At Bayou DeSiard Course

Mrs. Perrin To Defend Title; Mrs. Miller Regarded As Threat

It will be Ladies' Day in a big way at Bayou DeSiard Country Club here Wednesday when the second annual One-Day Women's Golf tournament gets underway with an expected entry of 130 contenders. First matches are scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The first foursome to tee off will include Mrs. Gordon Perrin, defending champion from El Dorado, Ark., and current women's amateur champion of Arkansas; Mrs. George Miller, Monroe, runner-up in the event last year and Louisiana amateur titlist; Mrs. E. P. Blankenship, 1948 Mississippi amateur champ from Vicksburg; and Mrs. Elizabeth McKenny, 1947 Mississippi titlist from Natchez.

Other matches will follow in seven-minute intervals with 16 players to each flight.

Three awards, first and second low gross and first low net, will be presented in each flight, with the presentation of prizes to be made by S. J. Rogers, Bayou DeSiard Club president, at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Miller, the Monroe hope, set a new course record for women at Bayou DeSiard Friday with a nine-hole score of two under par 35, and she is expected to make a strong bid for Mrs. Perrin's crown.

Thirty-five other Monroe golfers are already lined alongside Mrs. Miller and the list is expected to swell to 60 by Wednesday morning.

Entries out of town are coming from Jackson, Vicksburg, and Natchez in Mississippi; El Dorado, Ark.; Vincennes, Ind.; and Bastrop, Shreveport, Alexandria, Minden, Hodge, Springhill, Ruston, Delhi, and Tallulah in Louisiana; and Memphis, Tenn.

Tournament officials are "Shep" Girault, W. W. Kellogg, George Miller, John Sherrouse, and Winnie Cole.

MISSOURI'S FIRST WIN

Manhattan, Kas., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Missouri Tigers won their first football game of the season by defeating Kansas State 28 to 7 in a sloppily played contest before 15,500 fans today. Missouri scored a touchdown in each quarter in the Big Seven conference game.

PRIMED AND WAITING for the opening of the stock car races at Tallulah's Louisiana Delta Fair this afternoon are the two driving daredevils above, Orville Mills (left) and Bruce Rains. Both are front-running drivers in events held throughout the South and southwest and promise standout performances on today's five-race program.

MIAMI HURRICANE STUN PURDUE, 20 TO 14

FLORIDA ELEVEN SURPRISES TEAM THAT BEAT IRISH

Frank Smith Steals Show For Lightly Regarded Southern Outfit

By John Jameson

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A twisting halfback, Frank Smith, scored twice after dazzling runs today to lead the University of Miami from Florida to a surprising defeat of Purdue, 20-14.

The Hurricanes smeared the Purdue offense, which Notre Dame couldn't stop last week, and kept the Boilermakers in the midfield a good part of the afternoon.

Purdue was able to score only on a blocked punt and a 31-yard pass.

Miami's other score came on a surprising 53-yard run by Guard Joe Lyden, who scooped in a blocked pass which bounced into the air. End Leo Martin had knocked the ball into the air as Dale Samuels threw it.

Purdue's brilliant passing back, Samuels, had a bad day as the visitors intercepted six Purdue passes.

Particularly effective was the trap play which twice fooled the boilermakers both times for touchdowns.

It was in the fourth period that Smith exploded. One run was for 18 yards. Four minutes later he broke into the open at midfield and ran back and forth across the field, leaving a trail of Purdue men on the ground as he crossed the goal line.

Purdue opened the scoring when End Leo Sugar blocked Elmer Tremont's kick. The big Purdue end ran the 18 yards to the goal line.

In the fourth quarter Samuels led the frantic try of the Boilermakers with long passes. One of them hit for a score. It was to halfback Neil Schmidt, who was on the goal line, and was good for 31 yards.

Score by quarters:

Miami	0	0	7	13-20
Purdue	7	0	0	7—14

Three Stations To Air Pre-Game Whoopee For Bulldog-Demon Battle

Ruston, Oct. 14.—(Special)—Pregame whoopee anent the annual football game between Louisiana Tech and Northwestern State College will be broadcast Thursday night in a three-way hook-up over Shreveport, Ruston and Natchitoches radio stations.

The pep rallies, heralding the State Fair gridiron classic to be played Saturday afternoon between the Bulldogs and the Demons, will be divided into two 15-minute periods for each college. The programs will be aired by KENT in Shreveport, KRUS in Ruston and KWCJ in Natchitoches.

Leading off will be the Demon rally scheduled to originate in Natchitoches at 8 p.m. Thursday. Don Carr, radio director at Northwestern, is in charge of the program.

At 8:15 p.m., the ballyhoo for the Bulldogs will be programmed from the stage of Howard auditorium at Tech. E. W. Bundy, radio director at Tech, and students in radio classes at the college here, will handle the festivities here. Among the local speakers for the broadcast will be President R. L. Ropp; Leo Sanford, Tech football captain; Melvin Barney, alternate captain; and George Belin, president of the student senate.

Band selections, football yells and other pep-arousing offerings will be included in the broadcasts.

Cornell's Big Red Takes Measure Of Harvard, 28-7

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Cornell's terrific offensive power sputtered and backfierd much more often than it ignited today as the Big Red rolled up a 28-7 victory over a radically improved Harvard football team today.

While launching their drive for their third straight Ivy League football title, the Ithacans shocked a skimpy 16,000 gathering with their amazing waste of scoring opportunities.

In fact they performed in such lose-handed fashion that they had to come from behind to gain their third straight win.

Big Jeff Fleischmann provided two touchdowns and Bob Engel and Stu Merz the others after Harvard scored on an 18-yard pass from Carroll Lowenstein to Johnny West early in the second period.

Fumble-Grabbing Lines Paves Way For Georgia Win Over Miss. State

Bulldogs Take Southeastern Conference Encounter To Tune Of 27-0

By George McArthur

Athens, Ga., Oct. 14 —(AP)— The Georgia backfield matched prowess with a fumble-snatching line today as Quarterback Mal Cook accounted for two touchdowns in leading the Bulldogs to a 27-0 victory over Mississippi State.

Georgia'a charging linemen rendered the State attack all but impotent all day while Art De Carlo and Marion Campbell scooped up fumbles that figured in Georgia scores.

About 20,000 fans saw Georgia win its first Southeastern conference outing.

For the first time this season, the Georgia aerial game began to look like the game for which Coach Wallace Butts is known. Cook set up one score with a 20-yard heave and his teammate Ray Prosperi accounted for another marker on a 36-yard toss to Gus Hlebovy.

State's little 130-pound quarterback, Frank Branch, was rushed throughout the game. Even for the few passes that State tried, the passer had littl etime.

State's standout runners, Pete Polovina and Tom Rushing, accounted for most of their team's yardage but it was mostly limited to short gains.

Georgia's Halfback Lauren Hargrove, a high school All-America, also came through for his first varsity touchdown today as he skirted left end for 22 yards.

The longest run was a 53-yard punt return by Patsy Rocco that was called back. Rocco picked up blockers all along the way and crossed the goal line all alone.

The first half was a story of Georgia making its own breaks and cashing in on its own gambles.

With less than four minutes gone in the game De Carlo scooped a fumble by Mississippi State's Branch. DeCarlo grabbed the ball on the State 10 and bulled to the one. Mal Cook bucked it over.

Georgia's second score was started when Polovina fumbled in mid-field and cambell fell on the ball. Cook gambled on a handoff to Mixon who went eight yards to the State 40 to get a first down.

Two plays later Cook arched a 21-yard pass to Walston on the 21. From there Sophomore Halfback Lauren Hargrove took off around end to score.

Cook made his second touchdown after Zippy Morocco moved to the State 10 on a 31-yard run. Cook scored four plays later after being trapped attempting a pass.

Georgia's final touchdown came midway in the final period when Ray Prosperi arched a long spiral pass to Gus Hleborey.

Hlebovy caught the pass on the 10 and outran two tacklers to score.

Georgia's place kicking end, Bob Walston, missed his only conversion of the day on the Bulldogs first touchdown when his kick was wide.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—President Joe Enge of the Chattanooga Lookouts announced today Selma of the Southeastern League has become an affiliate of the local club.

Selma will get no less than 10 players on option during the coming season.

Engel also announced the outright release of veteran infielder Charley Letchas. Letchas joined the Lookouts in the middle of June after serving as manager of Anniston in the Southeastern League.

Army Gets Scare But Rallies To Rout Michigan, 27-6

WOLVERINES GIVE CADETS FITS FOR FIRST 3 PERIODS

Three Fast Touchdowns In Last Half Snap 6 And 6 Deadlock

By Gayle Talbot

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Fought to a 6-6 standstill for 30 rugged minutes, Army's awesome foctball forces turned on the power in the second half to crush Michigan under an avalanche of touchdowns and run up a 27 to 6 score on the Big Ten co-champions before 67,076 in Yankee Stadium today.

An upset of majestic proportions appeared in the making when the Wolverines, fighting like their namesake to avenge three previous defeats by the Cadets, scored first in the opening quarter and barely missed a field goal which would have put them in front again early in the third period.

But then the big Army machine began to roll, spearheaded by a bruising 190-pound fullback named Al Pollard from Los Angeles. And before the shouting crowd well knew what was happening, the West Pointers had smashed across three touchdowns in a matter of five minutes and threatened to turn the game into a one-side rout.

Chuck Ortmann, Michigan's All-America half-back candidate, played all the way and played brilliantly. He was the heart and soul of the Michigan attack which rocked the nation's No. 1 team back on its haunches for a half. But in the end he wasn't enough to turn the tide, and the Army eleven strengthened its claim to premier ranking among the country's college teams.

Although Pollard, the heralded yearling from the west coast scored only one of Army's four touchdowns, it was the thunderous power with which he battered down the Michigan wings in the third period which turned the course of the conflict and sent the Cadets bowling towards another victory in their string of 23 games without defeat.

Up to the time Pollard began throwing his 190 pounds off the tackles and around the wings, Michigan's stout defense had thwarted Army's T attack except for one quick thrust late in the second quarter. After Pollard had softened them up, the Wolverines were beaten. It was only a question of how high the score would mount.

Vic Pollock, a 160-pound junior half-back, scored two of Army's touchdowns, driving across each time from one yard out. Jack Martin, a scampering runner all afternoon, scored another on a 37-yard pass from Bob Blaik, quarterback son of the Army coach, Earl. Pollard's score came on a 12-yard sweep around Michigan's left end.

The Wolverines, entering the game 10-point underdog, demonstrated from the start that they had no intention of being sacrificial lambs. They piled the Cadets back on their heels the first two times the pointers got the ball, and the second time they hit Jim Cain, Army's first string halfback, so hard that he fumbled.

Tony Momsen recovered for Michigan on the Army 36, and in six plays, Ortmann drove the scrapping team from Ann Arbor across the goal line. Two passes from Ortmann to Bill Putrich brought a first down on Army's 10 Then, as the crowd stared in disbelief, Don Dufek, Wolverine fullback, sliced through the vaunted Cadet defensive line for a touchdown in two tries.

Harry Allis' try for the extra point failed when his holder, Leo Koceski, fumbled the pass back from center. But it seemed not important at the time. Michigan, at 7:20 of the opening quarter, appeared to be on its way.

For the remainder of the period, the invaders held the uppr hand and every Army attempt was futile. Early in the second quarter Michigan recovered another Cain fumble on the Army 48 and began driving again. Ortmann hit End Lowell Perry for 11, Putich hit Ortmann for another 11, Ortmann shifted through for eight, and the first thing the Cadets knew, the enemy had a first down on their nine.

Two bulldozer drives by Dufek carried to the Army three, but the effort finally failed on the one—and that probably was the big turning point. If the Wolverines had scored the second time, they would have been hard to head off. Minutes later, they missed still a third scoring opportunity when Ozzie Clark, an end, fumbled as he caught a pass from Putich near the goal line and was hit hard by Gil Reich of Army.

MORE

Up to that point, the Cadets had been outclassed. They scarcely had held possession of the ball. And then, quickly, they displayed their class. They returned a punt to their own 48, and drove to a score in 11 plays. Martin provided the main impetus when he broke off his right tackle, cut out and sprinted 28 yards down to the Michigan six.

Pollock, on his third straight smash at the Wolverine guards, went across. Pollard's try for point was blocked by the center of the Michigan line, and the two embattled rivals took their midgame rest deadlocked at 6-6.

The lineup:

CROWVILLE ROLLS TO SIXTH VICTORY

Undefeated Bulldogs Storm Past Block Of Jonesville, 33 To 0

Crowville, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—Still undefeated and un-tied, the Crowville Bulldogs casually swept another threat out of the way here Friday night, with a 33 to 0 triumph over Block High School of Jonesville.

The powerful and well-seasoned Bulldog eleven held the Bears almost motionless, as Jonesville failed to register a first down in the game. Coach Leo Kay of Crowville threw in every player available as it became apparent that the Bulldogs would hold their ground, missing no chance to season his green players.

Buford Ashley highlighted the game with two long-run touchdowns in the first quarter, going 25 yards for the first and returning a punt 60 yards for the second. J. D. French, a backfield letterman who has scored at regular intervals throughout the season for Crowville, kicked one extra point and failed on one.

Floyd Mixon cracked the line for two yards in the second quarter and again French made the conversion. The half-time score stood at 20 to 0. French averaged 22 yards on every run for the night's work.

Fay Riser and Tommy Moore furnished bright spots w-th good running performances during the game.

A 30-yard touchdown run by Royce Parker started the third quarter off with the same fast pace that typified the whole struggle. French failed on the conversion, but made a touchdown from the 10-yard line on a break over the Jonesville guards. His next conversion was good.

A half-dozen teams, Valley View of Iowa Park, Tex., Clarks, Sicily Island, Newellton, St. Matthew's Parochial School of Monroe, and Block have fallen before the Crowville squad.

Early in the season, Coach Leo Kay predicted, as probably no other coach in the state has done, that the Bulldogs were a good team and would take a big portion of their games this year. His Bulldogs, braced solidly by eight seniors, have backed his confidence by refusing to lose.

A double tug at school spirit developed before the hapless Block eleven arrived in Crowville. The game was "Dad's Night" to the Crowville boys, and their fathers were seated in special benches right behind the players. The other half of the incentive came from four previous victories which Block has accumulated over the Bulldogs in the past four seasons. The date, Friday 13, added interest.

Start High School gets the next crack at discovering whether Coach Kay's team is really invincible, or just playing good football. Start will have the dubious advantage of playing on home territory, as three of the teams already defeated had.

The 1959 University of Arizona freshman football team boasts a line averaging ten pounds more per man than the Wildcat var-

PENN'S ONE-MAN SHOW PAYS OFF

Bagwell In Record-Setting Performance To Beat Dartmouth, 42-26

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 —(AP)— Red Bagnell, a dazzling All-America hope, set a new collegiate record today by running and passing for 490 yards in a spectacular one man show to lead Pennsylvania to a 42-26 victory over Dartmouth.

The flashy Bagnell broke the old mark set by Indiana's hunchy Hoernschemeyer who picked up 458 yards in 1943.

Not since the golden days of Red Grange has a ball player so completely dominated a major game here as this carrot-topped kid who used to be a water boy for the Penn Clubs of years ago.

Completing 14 straight passes from the second period to the fourth, Bagnell eclipsed an old record set by Pete Dorset of Cornell against Princeton in 1947.

The durable Penn captain, a 22-year-old six-footer hit the bullseye with 20 of 29 pitches for 276 yards. One toss was good for a touchdown.

Squirming through the Dartmouth defenders for three touchdowns, Bagnell legged his way for 214 yards along the ground. He lugged 13 yards for one touchdown, bulled from the one for a second and streaked 64 yards for his final score in the dying minutes of the game.

Playing tailback in Coach George Munger's single wing attack, Bagnell carried the ball 18 times. The Penn Club made only 314 yards on the ground and he contributed 214 in the air he accountedfor everyone of their 276 yard gains.

Bagnell's eye-filling job completely overshadows a fine job by Dartmouth's Johnny Clayton, the Ivy League passing leader of 1949 Clayton hit with seven of 11 for two touchdowns.

Score by quarters:

Dartmouth	6	7	0	13—	26
Penn.	0	14	7	21—	42

English Derby Hopeful Claims His First Start

London, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The American-bred two-year-old bay colt Turco II, which is expected to be a leading candidate for next year's English Derby, made his first start today and won by a length and half at Sandown Park.

The handsome colt is owned by William Woodward, New York banker, who owned Prince Simon, favorite for the 1950 British Derby. Prince Simon ran second.

Willie Carr, the king's jockey, rode Turco II and never touched him with hands or whip.

Glowing reports had preceded the appearance of the son of Fighting Fox-La Rose, and he started the 10 to 11 favorite in the seven furlong event. The winning purse was $2,800.

Marteline was second, with Sun Compass third.

PLAY SIX WINNERS

Annapolis, Md. —(AP)— Six of Navy's nine 1950 football opponents had winning records in 1949. The teams are Maryland, with a record of eight wins and one loss: Princeton, 6-3: Southern California 5-3-1: Notre Dame, 10-0: Tulane, 7-2-1: and Army, 9-0. Columbia and Northwestern lost more games than they won, while Navy's ninth opponent, Pennsylvania, broke even in eight contests.

Ohio State's Power Overwhelms Indiana

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 14—(AP)—Ohio State had too many capable ball carriers today and whipped Indiana University, 26-14, in spite of a record-smashing passing attack by Indiana's lefty Lou D'Achille.

Ohio State sent four different players across the Indiana goal line while D'Achille, sophomore quarterback, scored one touchdown, passed for another and place-kicked two extra points.

That was the difference—too much Ohio State depth against Indiana's talented but shallow squad.

Ohio State also had the better of the blocking, especially in a 97-yard kickoff returned by halfback Walter Klevay in the second quarter.

D'Achille completed 20 of 38 passes for 232 yards. His total attempts broke the western conference record of 31, thrown by Iowa's Glenn Drahn against iWsconsin last year. His completions equaled Otto Grahma's record total for Northwestern against Michigan in 1942.

Score by quarters

FUMBLES SPOIL TULANE CHANCE TO TAKE BATTLE

Notre Dame Held To 34 Yards Rushing, Greenies Pile Up 224 Yards

By Sterling Slappey

New Orleans, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Notre Dame, her magnificient 39-game unbeaten string snapped last week, barely came back to victory today over fumbling Tulane 13-9 with short, staccato passes by Bob Williams.

Williams' fine and often great passes set up the margin over a Tulane team which lost repeated chances to score during sags in their otherwise keyed up offensive.

The Tulane line was the master of the Irish forwards practically from beginning to end. That big, slow line found speed and ability it hasn't shown in earlier games to blast Notre Dame's running game.

A giant crowd of 76,000 in hot but windy Sugar Bowl Stadium saw Tulane's line slaughter Notre Dame's running game and hold the Irish to only 34 yards on the ground.

After the Tulane line stopped the Irish ground game early during a series of downs, Quarterback Villiams turned to his own passes to gain ground, and he usually did. Sixteen of his 35 passes were completed for 225 yards.

Very late in the game Tulane's Don Brignac fumbled on Notre Dame's three-yard line and Irishman Jerry Groom recovered. Just a few plays later Tulane again fumbled after it worked up a powerful drive.

Notre Dame and Tulane smashed at each other's goal line with great fury the first five minutes of the game with risky, wild football but a brand that paid handsomely.

In six quick plays Tulane bolted from its 36 to a touchdown which shocked practically everybody. Harold Waggoner did most of the damage in the one minute 15 second drive and George Kinek did the scoring.

Kinek turned the Irish left end for the score after a four yard burst. Bill Bonar converted.

Tulane's lead lasted seven plays. Williams threw once to Jim Mutscheller for 22 yards. Three plays later Williams sent the ball to John Petitbon for a 54 yard gain and the score. Joe Caprara kicked the tieing point.

After the flurry, a line battle developed with Tulane getting the edge. Williams was rushed, and overworked for a "T" quarterback by the big green wave's front liners.

Three times in the first half Tulane carried inside Notre Dame's 25.

The touchdown which gave Notre Dame a half-time 13-7 lead was scored by Fidel Gander on a 10 yard guard cracking run. The drive moved 58 yards.

The half ended with Tulane on Notre Dame's five after a wild push from the wave 27. Weak looking but effective passes by Joe Ernst won most of the ground.

The offensive battle of the first half stagnated into a defensive game in the third quarter but flared up again in the final period.

The rousing finale produced only a safety for Tulane but the play often swept up and down the field.

Tulane Tackle Don Joyce, who with end Mike McLean pestered the Irish all afternoon, dropped Williams in the end zone for the two pointer.

Notre Dame

Right tackles—Toneff, Dunlay.
Quarterbacks—Williams, Mazur.
Right halfbacks—Barrett, Marchand, Bush, McKillip.
Fullbacks—Landry, Gander, Pao one, Caprara.

Centers—Maddox, Dedeaux, Brinton.
Right guards—Doyle, Johnston.
Right tackles—Fugler, D. Rogas.
Right ends—Kibodeaux, Harper.
Quarterbacks—Bonar, Ernst.
Right halfbacks—Kingery, Brigac.
Fullbacks — Waggoner, Hahn, Jones, Kent, Burr.

Score by quarters:

Notre Dame	7	6	0	0	—13

Notre Dame scoring: Touchdowns, Petitbon, Gander. Conversions, Caprara.

Tulane scoring: touchdowns, Kinek. Safety, Tulane (Joyce tackled Williams). Conversions, Bonar.

TRADE

Toronto, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League announced today they had traded Shortstop Alex Carbowski to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League for Outfielder Frank Colman.

Paul Pettit Called Up By Pirates With 3 Other Farm Hands

Pittsburgh, Oct. 14. —(AP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates today called up prize bonus pitcher Paul Pettit and three other farm club players for major league action next spring. Five players were cut off the Buc roster.

Pettit accepted baseball's largest bonus of $100,000 to sign with the Pirates. He had a disappointing first season with the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern Association, winning two and losing seven.

But the Pirate management said the 19-year-old hurler from Lomita, Calif., was hampered by a sore arm and is expected to show great improvement as a Buc next spring.

Others joining the Pirate roster are Pitcher Bob Friend from Indianapolis and First Baseman Al Grunwald and Harry Fisher from New Orleans.

Leaving the squad to make room for the new quartet and recently purchased Pitcher Con Dempsey of the San Francisco Seals are Second Baseman Johnny Berardino, unconditional release; pitcher Francis Barrett, returned to New Orleans; outfielder John Fiscalini and southpaw Hurler Fred Uhlman, outright release to Indianapolis; and Outfielder Ted Beard, sold to Indianapolis.

The Beard sale is conditional. Under the terms of the agreement the Indians will not have to make a final decision until 30 days after the opening of the 1951 season.

PANTHERS SOCK START, 39 TO 18

Lake Providence In Homecoming Next Friday Night With Block

Lake Providence, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—The Lake Providence High School Panthers defeated Start High School on Hamley Field here last night 34 to 18 in a night of hectic football as a result of a multiple fumbles and pass interceptions.

This is the fourth victory of the season for the local squad, other victims being Winnsboro, Ferriday and Farmerville. Only Delhi's powerful Bears have thus far found Lake Providence vulnerable, to the tune of 14 to 9.

A Panther scatback, George Hopkins, scored first for his team during the early minutes of the game by making several nice gains on the ground. A blocked punt accounted for the next Lake Providence score. Tackle Hackworth fell on the ball over Start's goal line.

As the half was about to end and the Panthers ready to score again, Start's right end, Moore, intercepted a Fred Phillips pass and galloped 90 yards to pay dirt.

Lake Providence once again made a marker without letting go of the ball at the beginning of the second half. Phillips skirting end for the count. At that point the count was 20 to 6. Not by any means pleased with the situation, Start passed 15 yard sfor a touchdown as the third quarter drew to a close.

For another touchdown, John Hopkins of the Panthers hastened around right end to increase his team's total to 27. A not so regular back, McGee, who played like a demon, added six more points before the fourth quarter was old by squirming through the line.

Scoring for the night ended with Start's right half, Hogan, making a beautiful 60-yard dash around his right end.

Panther Coach Charles Newman substituted freely during much of the last quarter.

The Panther's homcoming game, to be played on the local field against Block High School of Jonesville on October 20, will have the added feature of Queen Sara Ann Schnieder and Maids Peggy Schwarts, Doris Jean Ross, Amanda Brown, Annette Proctor, Bobbie Jean Vining and Bobbie Jean Parker.

Yale Nips Columbia In Thriller, 20 To 14

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Fighting, alert Yale turned back its most serious challenge today by thumping Columbia 20 to 14 in a football thriller. The well deserved victory was unbeaten Yale's fourth in a row and shot the Bulldogs to the top of the Ivy League. It was Columbia's first loss.

Jim Ryan, a courageous sub quarterback, filled in admirably for the injured Stu Tisdale, and tallied two of Yale's three touchdowns. Columbia's Mitch Price and Wesley Bomm, a brilliant passing and receive-combination, proved a dangerous threat throughout.

Yale led throughout, scoring in all but the final period, but it was not until the final minutes when Alan Peters twice stopped Columbia assaults with eagle-eyed interceptions that the outcome was not in doubt.

Score by quarters:

Columbia	0	7	0	7	—14

Slashing Sooners Dump Longhorns In Thriller, 14-13

BAD CENTER PASS SETS UP WINNING OKLAHOMA SCORE

Greatest Collegiate Football Winning Streak Goes On Unbroken

By Harold V. Ratliff

Dallas, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Oklahoma's slashing red shirts stormed on undefeated and untied with college football's greatest winning streak today with a breathless, last-minute 14-13 victory over Texas.

A low pass from center which Bill Porter, back to kick in the lengthening shadows of the Cotton Bowl, could only fall on and give the ball to Oklahoma on the Texas 11 yard line, was the deciding point in the Sooners' magnificent victory that was their twenty-fourth straight over a period a little more than two years.

Billy Vessels, keyman in the lacerating ground game of the Oklahomans, dashed around right end for a touchdown and Jim Weatherall, the Texan who plays tackle for the Sooners, kicked the extra point that threw a crowd of 75,968 into pandemonium.

Minutes before, slender Bobby Dillon, Texas' ace safety man, had skittered 50 yards with an intercepted pass to give Texas a 13-7 lead.

Only four minutes and five seconds remained to play when Oklahoma scored the winning touchdown.

Statistically, Oklahoma was the leader with 190 yards on the ground and 104 in the air. Texas gained 80 rushing and 116 passing.

Twice the Longhorns smashed within a bean-shooter's distance of the Oklahoma goal line. Once the powerful Sooners piled up the Longhorn drive on the one-foot line. Another time, Texas lost the ball on the five with a fumble.

It was the forty-fifth game in this storied gridiron series and Oklahoma's third straight victory. Oklahoma ranked third and Texas fourth in the Associated Press football ratings poll.

Oklahoma scored the second time it had the ball, slashing 52 yards in five plays. The Sooners had bogged down after Don Menasco fumbled the opening kickoff on the Texas 32 and Buck McPhail recovered. They could get no where and Dick Heatly kicked out on the Texas three. The Longhorns were forced to punt and from the Oklahoma 48, the Sooners launched their touchdown drive. Vessels and Leon Heath alternated at pounding the Longhorn line with the latter's 29-yard run setting up the score. Vessels made it on a two-yard smash over right tackle. Weatherall kicked the extra point.

Texas took the kickoff and crunched from its 37 to the Oklahoma 14. A 30-yard pass from Byron Townsend to Paul Williams was the big gainer but the next Texas pass, this one by Ben Thompkins, was intercepted by Jack Lockett on the one. Lockett squirmed out to the five. Arnold picked up five in line blasts then fumbled on the Oklahoma 12 with Bill Milburn recovering but the Oklahoma line threw Texas back for long losses and from the Sooner 30 Bill Porter kicked over the goal line.

Early in the second period Texas got moving and smashed 46 yards to a touchdown. Townsend blasted over guard for 15 yards and a touchdown. Porter converted.

As time ran out for the half, Texas had staged a drive of 74 yards to the Oklahoma 1-foot line. Oklahomans ganged Tompkins on third down as the gun shot.

Texas shot ahead in the fourth period. Claude Arnold, the Sooners' gifted quarterback, pitched out to Heatly on the Oklahoma 40 and Heatly tried a pass down the sidelines. Dillon, Trackman at Texas, gathered in the throw at midfield and scatted to a touchdown. Porter's try for point was wide—and that eventually was the ball game.

The lineups:

Oklahoma

Centers—Moore, Catlin.
Right guards—Mayes, Horkey, F. Smith.

Right halfbacks—Levine, Ochoa, Shands.
Fullbacks—Townsend, Price.

Score by quarters:

Oklahoma	7	0	0	7	—14
Texas	0	7	0	6	—13

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns, Vessels 2. Conversions, Weatherall 2.

Texas scoring: Touchdowns, Townsend, Dillon. Conversion, Porter.

struck at the Wolverines through the air.

Blaik's passes set up one touchdown and accounted for another—a 37-yard scoring toss to Jack Martin. Pollard scored one touchdown and kicked three extra points while Vic Pollard tallied twice from the one-yard line. Bob Dufek scored for Michigan on a four-yard plunge.

A break late in the game preserved Oklahoma's long winning streak at Dallas. Billy Vessels scored for the Sooners in the game's dying seconds after a low pass from center caused the Texans to lose the ball on downs on their own 11-yard line.

Georgia Tech. rode over the Louisiana State Tigers 13 to 0.

Maryland, developing into one of the giants of the south, continued its upward swing by smashing Georgetown, 25-14. Maryland is ranked eighth nationally.

Wisconsin, Ohio State and Northwestern won important conference victories in the Big Ten, which annually provides the quest team in the Rose Bowl.

Unbeaten Wisconsin subdued Iowa, 14-0; Ohio State won a wild scoring melee from Indiana, 26-14, and Northwestern scored its third straight triumph by beating winless Minnesota, 13-6.

Vanderbilt emerged as the "dark horse" of the Southeastern Conference, turning back Mississippi, 20-14, for its fourth straight victory.

In other major games in the south, Duke turned back North Carolina State, 7-0; Wake Forest beat North Carolina, 13-7, and Georgia rolled over Mississippi State 27-0.

In the east, Cornell and Penn, favorites for the Ivy League title, came through easily. Cornell's big red topped Harvard, 28-7, and Penn turned back Dartmouth, 42-26.

Princeton found Navy unexpectedly tough before winning, 20-14, while Yale kept its season record clean by subduing Columbia, 20-14.

In intersectional conflicts, Michigan State triumphed over William and Mary, 33-14, while Rice smacked Pittsburgh, 14-7.

Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament Billed Here Tomorrow At Municipal Course

State's Leading Professional Linksmen Coming For One-Day Event

Louisiana's professional golfers, headed by their own champion, Johnny Myers, move into Monroe tomorrow for a one-day pro-amateur tournament at Municipal Golf Club.

Host Pro H. A. Britt makes the event, sponsored by the Louisiana Professional Golfers Organizatio his first big show since taking over as pro at Municipal last January. The tourney is one of a series conducted each month in various sections of the state.

Myers, who won the state championship last summer in the P. G. O. event at McGuire Park in West Monroe, will be here from Bastrop along with such other well known Louisiana professionals as Henry Costello, F. E. Ammon, Ned White, Everett Nelson, Milo Mattinson, "Pop" Evans, Gray Little, Frank Champ, John Finley, Sammie Jenkins, Leonard Warren, Winnie Cole, C. J. Shirah, Johnny Hayne, S. J. Gossett, and J. W. Creed.

Amateur golfers from throughout this section are invited to be on hand and participate in the event along with the pros.

First matches are scheduled to begin at 12:20 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The event was originally scheduled for Municipal Park last May but was rained out.

Hapless Minnesota Falls To Northwestern 13 To 6

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 14.—(AP)—End Don Stonesifer speared a Big Ten record of 13 passes, including two touchdown heaves, and winged unbeaten Northwestern to a 13-6 triumph over Minnesota's groundfast Gophers today.

Stonesifer, six-foot, 194-pound Wildcat captain, grabbed a five-yard touchdown shot from Quarterback Dick Flowers in the first period and a 10-yard scoring Flowers flip in the third quarter.

JUSTICE DECIDES TO JOIN REDSKINS

Plans To Make Professional Grid Debut Against Cards Next Sunday

Washington, Oct. 14—(ap)—North Carolina's All - America halfback, Charlie (Choo-Choo) Justice, finally made up his mind today to play pro football with the Washington Redskins.

After four months of negitiations which apparently ended last week when Justice said he would "definitely not play pro football," Choo-Choo said today:

"The offer has been made so attractive that I didn't feel I could afford to turn it down."

The 26-year - old tailback who led the College All-Stars to a stunning 17-7 upset victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, earlier this year told newsmen in Chapel Hill, N. C.:

"This is the hardest decision I have ever made in my life. My previous decisions not to play pro football were made in good faith and were based on my honest conviction at the time. I realize I have appeared to be wishy-washy, but the truth is that since my negotiations with the Washington Redskins a week ago there have been new developments."

Justice told Tribe President George Preston Marshall by telephone that he would be here Monday to sign the three-year contract which reportedly calls for more than $50,000.

In the absence of Head Coach Herman Ball, Backfield Clach Wilbur Moore said Justice would practice with the Tribe Monday and would make his debut against the Chicago Cardinals next Sunday.

Moore also said a backfield man will be released to make room for the fleet 175-pound Tar Heel but a decision on who it would be would be held up until Justice signs Monday.

The Tribe is expected to make room for Choo-Choo by moving "Bullet Bill" Dudley, a former All-American from Virginia, to right halfback and installing Charlie in his regular left halfback position. The other first-string backfield spots are held down by Harry Gilmer from Alabama and Rob Goode from the Texas Aggies.

PASS MASTER

Nicknamed "Mud-jack" by his teammates is Norman Stevens, Louisiana State's sophomore quarterback, who hails from the lowlands of Mississippi's Delta country.

BEVERLY HANSON WINS TEXAS OPEN

Successfully Defends Women's Title Against Patty Berg Challenge

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Beverly Hanson successfully defended her Women's Texas Open crown with a see-saw 1-up victory over Patty Berg in the 36-hole championship battle today at River Crest.

The lean Indio, Cal., ace, recently crowned the Women's National Amateur titlist, scorched the back nine of the afternoon 18 with a glazing 33, three under men's par, to overhaul the Minnesota pro and save the victory on the final hole.

After finishing the morning round all square, Patty swept to a one-up advantage on the outgoing nine when Beverly's putting went awry. But after deadlocking the duel on 10 with a birdie three, Beverly moved to a two-hole margin through 15 and came to the final tee with a one-up lead after Miss Berg captured 17 with a birdie three.

Both split the middle with 225-yard drives on the par five hole, but Patty half smothered her second wood shot 40 yards to the left and short of the green. Beverly's second shot dug in pin high on the right edge of the carpet.

When Patty pitched short 15 feet from the hole and Beverly's approach putt wound up little over three feet from the cup, it looked like Hanson was in with ease.

But the veteran campaigner from Savage, Minn., calmly rolled her difficult putt into the cup for a birdie, leaving Miss Hanson with a breaking, side-hill stroke for a halve.

Beverly lined up the putt and deliberately stroked the ball into the back of the cup to join Mrs. Mildred (Babe) Zaharias as the only repeat titlist in the history of the 17-year-old tourney. Mrs. Zaharisas turned the trick in 1945 and 1946.

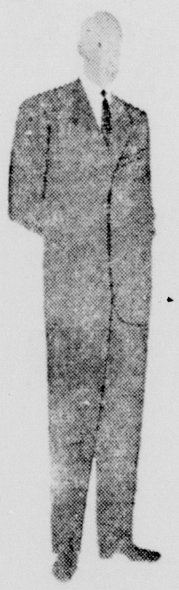

Syracuse University has eight sophomores on its starting eleven this fall.

Dulles Says U. S. Always Ready To Talk With Russia

Lake Success, Oct. 14.—(AP)—John Foster Dulles, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, said today the U. S. is always willing to negotiate with Russia if there is a chance of getting somewhere. But he contended, the Russian pleas for big power negotiations are intended to keep the U. S. and the U. N. from becoming strong.

They were designed to continue a situation which for years has screened flourishing aggression, Dulles charged. He said objections by Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky to a U. S. "get tough with Russia" policy really meant that Russia is opposed to either the U. S. or the U. N. getting strong.

He told reporters here that Russia now is opposing moves to strengthen the U. N. assembly for peace because Korea showed how strong the world can be and that obviously Russia does not like it.

Dulles explained the U. S. viewpoint during discussion of revisions written into a seven-power resolution debated on the so-called Acheson proposals that Russia would come "halfway" in new great power negotiations.

Dulles talked at length with newsmen but declined to allow his words to be repeated as direct quotations. He said Vishinsky had talked about a get tough policy but that he, Dulles, would call it a policy of get strong. No doubt, he said, the Soviet Union would like the U. S. and the U. N. would like policies which would make the U. N. strong.

The U. N., he said, through the action in Korea and the resolution now before it, has proved it can be strong and that is why Vishinsky rejects any proposal for armed U. N. contingents.

The U. S., Britain, France, Canada, Turkey, Uruguay and the Philippines are the sponsors of the resolution.

It calls for emergency assembly sessions in 24 hours when the peace is breached and the security council will not or cannot act. It calls for nations to set up U. N. forces in their armies to be ready for U. N. pleas for help to stop an aggression. It calls for U. N. peace patrols to hurry to trouble spots and make impartial reports to the assembly. It provides for a commission to study methods on how U. N. forces can be used when aggression begins.

The revised draft also contains will try with the other sponsors to push through the political committee next week for possible assembly action at the end of the week now includes two Chilean proposals.

They insist on the necessity for decent economic conditions and observance of human rights as conditions for real peace.

The rrvised draft also contains suggestions from eight other countries, including Egypt's proposal that the U. N. help equip troops trained for U. N. duty, and a Yugoslav-Israel proposal that the assembly be called into action only when there is a breach of peace, not just a threat.

Australia helped redraft a section which would limit the committee on collective security measures to studying methods for peace so it could not be accused of trying to get military secrets from member nations. It was indicated Australia may now support the whole measure.

The sponsors declined, however, to go along with another Egyptian suggestion that priority be given to equipping any region—Egypt favored Arab countries in the middle east for that—with U. N. arms.

Dulles said that Russia's dislike of both U. S. and U. N. policies is perhaps a tribute to them. These policies, he said, are creating security in the world because they constitute a shield against aggression. Dulles said he supposed that Vishinsky would like to see that shield abandoned.

If there is to be no need for that shield, Dulles continued, the fact must be shown by Soviet deeds, not words. Soviet deeds caused the policy of getting strong and Soviet deeds should show anything otherwise.

There were plenty of places to show it, he said. He listed:

Austria—where negotiations have gone on, he said, for nearly four years about a treaty, and the other big powers made concession after concession. If the Russians wanted peace and good will in the world, they could take up that Austrian treaty tomorrow, Dulles said. It doesn't need more negotiation because it has been negotiated on for four years.

Germany—the powers have been trying for four years to get the unity promised at Potsdam. The Soviet Union could tomorrow lift the iron curtain that divides Germany in two, call off the one-ticket elections scheduled for tomorrow, and go on to unify Germany, Dulles said.

Korea—a long and bloody campaign remains ahead because aggressors with Russian-supplied arms go on resisting, he said. He knew it would stop at once if the Soviet Union gave the word.

Prisoner Keeps Bees, They Keep His Money

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A. A. Wynn served as keeper of the bees during a 14-year stretch in prison and the bees, in turn, served as keepers of Wynn's bank roll.

He spent his spare time building a miniature carnival—merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels, hoochie koochie girls, and all. For 12 years he put on carnival shows, charging whatever his prison audience could pay.

After each performance he stuffed the "take" into a jar. When the jar was full, he stasheed it away in a beehive.

The 46 year old Wynn, who went to prison for killing a man at Paris, Tenn., was released today. He made a bee-line for the bank with his saving which he estmiated at about $600.

Complete Record Number Of Wells In La. In September

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A record for the year of 231 oil wells were completed during September, bringing the nine - month total to 1762, Louisiana's department of conservation reported today.

September's 231 total, four higher than August, included 146 producers, of wich 109 gave oil and 37 gas. The nine-month total of completed producers was 1258, including 973 oil and 285 gas.

Completions in September added 11,758 barrels of oil to daily production.

September completions listed 33 wildcat wells, three of them discoveries in new producing areas —Sinclair's No. 1 A. H. Campbell in Concordia parish, E. C. Cook's No. 1 lock in Bienville parish and Humble's No. A-3 state lease 1426 in the Gulf of Mexico.

At the beginning of October, reports showed 305 rigs active in Louisiana and 62 wildcats (exploratory wells) either drilling or on location.

August oil production figures showed a daily average of 595,163 barrels. District daily averages were: Monroe 69,370; Shreveport 61,756; Houma 102,179; Lafayette 154,214; Lake Charles 65,347, and New Orleans 142,297.

August daily average gas production was 3,027,931,000 cubic feet, with 58,980,068,000 cubic feet sold, 1,935,581,000 used in gas lift, 32,950,287,000 for other purposes and 1,039,225,000 returned to earth.

Refinery runs to stills in August averaged 495,615 and stocks on hand at month's end were reported at 3,819,753 barrels.

MARKETS

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Stocks lower; selling wave hits TV and motors. Bonds off slightly; trading light. Cotton easy; hedging against new crop movements.

Chicago—Wheat weak; unsettled by drop in soybeans. Corn weak; general liquidation. Oats weak with other cereals. Hogs nominally steady. Cattle nominally steady.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A flood of selling orders beat down motors and radio-television shares today in the stock market.

The market extended to as much as $3 a share at times before a partial recovery cut back the net loss to around $1 and $2 a share in those two divisions.

The volume of business amounted to an estimated 1,000,000 shares compared with 970,000 shares last Saturday.

COTTON

New York

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures experienced a wave of general selling today. Most of the pressure was attributed to hedges against increased movement of new crop cotton.

The decline in the market encountered very little opposition, with mill buying limited to the scale down.

REPORTER, 11, SEES BARKLEY

Gets Personal Interview After Other Newsmen Are Finished

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 14. —(AP)—The Wilson Grammar School newspaper gave the splash treatment—by-line and front page—to Reporter John Kine's interview with Vice-President Barkley.

John, 11 years old and in sixth grade, is assistant special features man on the bi-weekly mimeographed Wilson Hi-Lights. He got permission of the principal to attend Barkley's press conference Thursday.

With pad and pencil in hand John cornered Barkley after the professional newsmen were finished.

Mouths dropped and flash bulbs popped when he asked: "Who's holding down Washington with you and President Truman away?"

Barkley smiled back: "Son, we've got it so well organized we don't need any one holding down Washington."

John didn't mention that in his Hi-Lights story.

Here, in part, is what he wrote:

"In the belief that American children should be up to date on national affairs, I went to the press meeting to interview Vice-President Barkley at the Davenport Hotel.

"Mr. Barkley, who had come directly from the airport, talked on the national crisis.

"The 'Veep' is serious but very humorous at times.

"After the meeting was over I asked for an interview of my own and it was granted. I asked these questions:

"'What do you think Russia will do now that we went into North Korea?'

"He answered that since they haven't done anything yet they probably won't do much.

"'Do you think we should start putting troops in Europe?'

"He answered that Europe need it.

"Then we talked about baseball. Mr. Barkley said he would fish all day if he got a bite. His favorite sport is baseball and he played catcher and first base.

"I will never forget Mr. Barkley."

1859—The news of America's first oil well was barely mentioned in the press. Much more interest was aroused by the coal-burning steamship "Great Eastern"—the biggest and most powerful ship afloat. In 1866 she made the Atlantic crossing in 11½ days.

TODAY, modern oil-burning liners make the Atlantic trip in 4½ days and maintain fast, regular schedules to every part of the world. Oil is now the fuel for three-quarters of the world's shipping.

1859—The farmer was tied to his soil from sun-up to sun-down. Even with these hours of labor the average farmer raised only enough to feed himself and four other persons. Town was a long, jolting wagon trip away. Most shopping was done at a crossroads general store.

TODAY, the farmer can count on petroleum to do most of the hard work on his highly-mechanized farm. It drives and lubricates his tractors, trucks and autos . . . fertilizes his land, kills weeds and insect pests. As a result, one farmer can support himself and fourteen other people.

SELLING SCHOOL OPENING MONDAY

Retail Managers And Employes Will Get Two-Week Course

Classes in distributive education for retail employes and managers will begin Monday morning in the Maple Room, Virginia Hotel, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Pugh Hickerson retail training specialist.

At a meeting held Tuesday, the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce made arrangements with retail businesses for the employe training.

The classes are open, Mrs. Hickerson explained, to anyone at least 16 years-old, working in or planning to work in a distributive business. They will be conducted for two weeks.

The courses offered will be:

Selling Today: A course for salespeople, dealing with modern technique, merchandise information and human relations. It is geared to assist salespeople in rendering better service to their customers.

Textile Fabrics: This course includes fashion trends, fabrics, and how to increase the average sale by suggestion.

How to Train an Employee: This is primarily for buyers and assistants, department heads, managers, and owners. It is designed to aid supervisory personnel in giving merchandise information to sales personnel, in conducting store meetings, and offer better methods in supervising employees.

The two-week vocational program is being brought here through the Ouachita Parish School Board. It is sponsored by the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Beginning Monday the course, Selling Today, will be offered at 8:30 to 9:30; 9:30 to 10:30, and 3 to 4 p.m.; Textile Fabrics will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. for the two week period, and How To Train Employes for managers will be conducted from 6 to 8 p.m.

All classes will be held in the Maple Room, Virginia Hotel. They will be held five days a week.

Attending the meeting Tuesday, when the plans were laid for the program, were Herbert Fink, Herbert Bailey, Mack Avants, and Richard Cryar, coordinator of Distributive Education; E. G. Skogsberg, Harry Silverstein.

Classroom Teachers Elect New Officers

An election of officers was held yesterday at the first meeting of the Fifth District Classroom Teachers Association in the educational building of the First Baptist Church, Monroe.

Elected president was Mrs. Floye Kemp, of Union parish. Mrs. Mildred Moore, of Bastrop, was elected first vice-president, and Mrs. Edna McConnell, of Columbia, was elected second vice-president; Miss Debbie Nettles, Farmerville, was named recording secretary and Miss Ruth Johnson, of Ruston, was named treasurer.

Reviewed at the meeting was recent legislation and teacher's welfare laws by D. W. Griffith.

Mrs. Eleanor McClendon presided over the meeting.

COLOR TV LIKELY TO GROW SLOWLY

Sprague Forecasts 'An Increasing Audience' For Plain Sets

Washington, Oct. 14.—(AP)—President Robert C. Sprague of the Radio - Television Manufacturers Association today forecast "an increasing audience" for black and white television despite authorization of color.

He said that "most informed persons in the industry" believe that color, as matters now stand, "will have a very slow growth indeed."

It was Sprague's first statement since the federal communications commission's final selection of Columbia Broadcasting System's color plan as the National Color Television System.

The R. T. M. A. president, who is also head of the Sprague Electric Co. of North Adams, Mass., joined with other leading manufacturers in criticizing "the incompatibility" of the C. B. S. System, which will make it necessary to put additional equipment into present sets to get Columbia color programs even in black and white.

Sprague forecast that "Within a reasonable time a satisfactory commercial color system" which existing sets can pick up in black and white without additional cost will be available. He expressed the view that if and when this happens, F. C. C. will consider it for licensing.

"In the meantime," he said, "all the many fine black and white TV programs now on the air and the new black and white programs coming on the air this fall will continue to be enjoyed by an increasing audience of over 25,000,000 people who will see these programs on the 8,000,000 black and white sets which have already been purchased by the American public and those which will continue to be manufactured and sold in large numbers in the months ahead."

P.-T. A. CHIEF IS PLANNING WORK

Mrs. Stringer Outlines Programs Desired In 14 Districts

Mrs. J. H. Stringer, president Louisiana state P.-T. A., outlined plans for the regular fall district meetings which are being held in the fourteen districts throughout the state. Mrs. Stringer says, "We hope to do three things during these tours. 1. Teach locals to use own resources; 2. To devolpe leadership; and last, to instruct. We will also use a panel discussion on two topics. 1. Why extend our interests geographically? And how can we strengthen relationships between the home, school, community and other areas? There will be the traditional question box giving every member an opportunity to have their doubts cleared before leaving the meeting." The fifth district meeting will be held at the St. Matthews School, Monday, October 19, 1950. Every unit in the district is urged to send delegates to this meeting which will be the guiding light for the year.

Mrs. Stringer would like to urge all members, as parents and teachers as individuals to enroll in the General Lucius D. Clay is national chairman, by adding their names to the Freedom Scroll.

"The Crusade for Freedom", Mrs. Stringer said, "puts America on the offensive to carry the message of friendship and good will to people enslaved in Europe—a message they would never hear otherwise." Projects of the Crusade for Freedom are the Freedom Scroll, to be signed by millions of Americans and installed at the base of the Freedom Bell in Berlin on United Nations Day, and Radio Free Europe, an American broadcasting station in Berlin, beamed to Russian-dominated countries.

GETS DIPLOMA

Mrs. Cecil Chapman has returned from New Orleans where she attended the Formfit Foundation School. This is the first time that this school has ever been in the south and was well attended. After going through the school where she learned about figure types, proper fitting, and the basis of perfect figure control, she received her diploma as an expert corsetiere. Mrs. Chapman invites her many friends to visit with her at The Palace and learn about the latest fashions in proper figure foundations.

STUDIES PURSUED AT RESTAURANTS

New And Better Ways Of Serving Customers Are Demonstrated

Restaurant sales personnel in Monroe are studying new and better ways to serve their customers. Many are attending discussion groups in a course made possible by the state department of education and the Baton Rouge Trade School in cooperation with the Louisiana Restaurant Association.

Mr. Bobby Pappas announced that classes are being held now and will continue for two or three weeks. Sales personnel from seven restaurants are enrolled.

The classes for restaurant sales personnel are meeting in several restaurants. The courses are conducted by Miss Ruth Parkman, restaurant training specialist, who is on the staff of the Baton Rouge Trade School. Miss Parkman has had excellent practical experience in commercial food establishments in addition to training in the food field.

Included in the present enrollmen are sales personnel from the following restaurants: Charlie's Cafe, Virginia Hotel, Frances Hotel, Hollywood, Rendezvous, Bacall's, and Hemp's Cafeteria.

The program of training for the restaurant industry being conducted in Monroe will be made available to other cities in Louisiana, announced Donovan R. Armstrong, state supervisor of distributive education. This training program is part of the vocational education service offered for management and personnel in retailing, wholesaling, and service occupations.

Senior Officers At O.P.H.S. Are Elected

Senior officers were elected and academic gowns for graduation given the official approval of the class at recent elections at Ouachita Parish High Scholo.

Tommy Trawick was chosen president of the graduating group, with Joe Milner elected vice-president, Peggy Tousineau, secretary and Albert Donald, treasurer.

Trawick was president of both his sophomore and Junior classes and has been a cheerleader for three years. Both Milner and Miss Tousineau are editors of the school paper, "The Ouachita Lion," and Donald is active in school clubs and has been home room president for two years.

In another matter, seniors voted to approve the use of maroon academic gowns for boys and white gowns for girls at commencement exercises. Official approval of the use of gowns awaits action by school officials.

WOMAN ADMITS STRANGLING BOY

Says She Killed Five-Year-Old Nephew Because 'Would Be Better Off Dead'

Richmond, Calif., Oct. 14 —(AP)— Delores Gatto, 33, Oakland, was held by Richmond police today after, police sergeant Frank Cutshall said, she admitted she strangled her five year old nephew, Larry Holloway, because "he would be better off dead."

Cutshall said the police department received a call yesterday from Miss Gatto saying she had just strangled the boy with a stocking and a silk scarf.

Officers found the boy's twisted body in a rear bedroom of the Holloway home.

Police said Miss Gatto was a guest in the home of her sister, Mrs. Clyde C. Holloway, while she was sick and unable to care for her two children, Larry and Judith 2.

Miss Gatto told Cutshall that she had meant to remove Holloway and Judith, too, but when she went into Judith's room after strangling Larry she couldn't do it because "she's so cute."

After stangling Larry, Miss Gatto told Cutshall, she telephoned the grandmother, Mrs. C. C. Holloway, San Pablo, to come and take Judith.

She then called police, asking them to come quietly so not to awaken Mrs. Holloway who was sleeping in a front room.

Miss Gatto is employed in a San Francisco insurance firm as a clerk. Mrs. Holloway's husband, Clyde was working at the nearby American Radiator Works when Larry was killed.

Officer Condemned To Die For Misconduct In Korea Tells His Side Of Story

By Reiman Morin

Tokyo, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Lt. Leon A. Gilbert, an American Negro infantry officer condemned to death on charges of misconduct in battile in Korea, told his version of the incident today and declared: "I thought I was doing the right thing; I still think so."

The 31-year-old York, Pa., officer was convicted of "mis-behaving himself before the enemy by refusing to advance with his command which had been ordered forward by Col. N. V. White, the regimental commander, to engage with North Korean forces, which forces the said command was then opposing."

Gilbert was arrested July 31. His court-martial death penalty was reviewed by Maj. Gen. William B. Kean, commander of the U. S. 25th division, who upheld it. The papers are now in the Judge Advocate general's office in Washington for another review before submission to President Truman.

Gilbert was a combat officer in World War II. He re-enlisted, he said, in order to "make a career in the army." He is married and has two children, a daughter, 4, and a son 12 months old. His wife is expecting a third child.

Gilbert—husky, intelligent, quiet-spoken—is optimistic about the final decision in his case. During an interview in the empty office of an army stockade on the outskirts of Tokyo, he made these three points:

1. "I did not refuse to obey the order. I was trying to explain why it couldn't be carried out. There were 12 men in my command then I considered it my duty as an officer to show why the order meant certain death.

2. "I am not a coward and I was not afraid at the time. I would walk back to combat now if they would let me.

3. "I think the trial was not complete. I do not say it was unfair. But there were points that were not brought out which were important. There were two lieutenants with me in the same action. One was killed later and so could not testify. The other was wounded and evacuated and has given a statement but that is not the same as having him present to testify and answer questions.

"None of the 12 enlisted men was called, although I understand—this is hearsay—that they wanted to come to the trial."

Gilbert related the following account of events on the night of July 30:

"The whole regiment was withdrawing, somewhere around Sangju (44 miles northwest of Taegu). My company—that was a company— was assigned to cover the withdrawal of the battalion.

"The Jo-Kos—that's what we called the North Koreans—were coming down a draw between the hills. Our job was to delay the Jo-Kos while the regiment broke contact and pulled back. They were in close rifle range."

Gilbert was given a terrain feature—a ridge—and told to take his 30 or 40 men forward. They went up the road, found the ridge and took position.

"We had no machineguns or automatic weapons. We had rifles and some grenades," Gilbert said. A command post was established and the men were spread out to cover the road below. There were no communications with the rear.

Gilbert said he organized a patrol—a first sergeant, two messengers, a company clerk and a radio operator—and let it go two miles forward to a high point where they looked for the retiring regiment and for the enemy. They saw nothing, but heard a firefight "somewhere behind us."

On returnining toward the command post, "I saw what was happening. Some Koreans were on the opposite side of the ridge and were simply spraying the top. They must have seen us cross it and were shooting at anybody on that ridge line."

Gilbert and the sergeant began throwing hand grenades over the crest at the enemy.

Gilbert located a missing platoon as his patrol withdrew toward the command post. The platoon set up a roadblock but was quickly ambushed, and was forced to scatter into a rice paddy.

"As far as I could see, we were no more use up there on that hill," said Gilbert. "Our job was to pin down anything coming down the road while the regiment pulled back. It was the next day by that time—almost 10 or 12 hours as I remember. The Koreans had infiltrated our position and set up that ambush on the road. So there was no use our staying up there any more.

"I ordered the men to get ready to go and I led them."

Gilbert and his men circled to the south and east and came to a dry river bed where they found some other troops and a lieutenant colonel.

"The colonel told me to take the men back to the main line of resistance. That was the first time I heard where it was. He said to go down to the riverbed and turn right and I would meet a battalion down there."

On his way, Gilbert said, he met a captain who wanted some men to rescue two vehicles ambushed near the base of the hill he had evacuated. Gilbert offered to help with 12 men he then had with him.

Then a messenger came up and said the colonel wanted to see the executive officer of company A.

"The colonel ordered me to go back up there on the hill to that place where we had set up the command post. He didn't ask about the situation. He just told me to take the men back there the back way. . . . But I had just come down that way and I knew you couldn't go through. I said the road was covered and so was the base of the hill.

"But the solonel just said again for me to take the men and go by the back way up to that hill.

"It seemed to me that, as an officer, part of the decision was mine. I kept thinking there must be some way to make the colonel see you couldn't go back up the hill.

"Then a major came along and said, 'get going, lieutenant. You heard what the colonel said.'

"I said, 'major, I'm afraid nobody can get through the Jo-Kos and get up to that position.'

"And he said, 'oh, so you are afraid to go back. Is that it?'

"I said, 'no sir, I'm not afraid.' I said—or rather what I meant—was that you can't get through. I know. I just came through one ambush and the Jo-Kos have infiltrated that whole position.

"The major said, 'well, now get going. No more ifs, ands, or buts.'

"I started to say something else. I guess we were all tired and confused.

"I don't remember exactly then whether it was the major or the colonel himself, but somebody said to put me under arrest and they marched me to the rear."

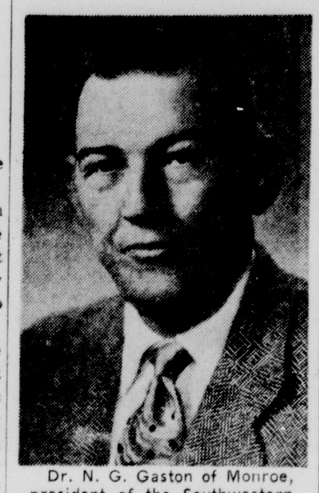

Gilbert said he was tried twice, the second time at the forward division command post because that was where the colonel was.

"There was gunfire just 400 yards away. You can't hold much of a trial in circumstances like that," Gilbert concluded.

REWARDS FAITH

Detroit —(AP)— Jim Cain moved from the University of Alabama campus to the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League. His pro coach was Buddy Parker. When Parker shifted to Coach Bo McMillin's Detroit Lions, one of his first acts was to institute a player trade that brought Cain to player trade that brought Cain to the Lions. Cain justified Parker's faith by winning a defensive end position with the Lions.

PRESIDENT

Dr. N. G. Gaston of Monroe, president of the Southwestern Society of Orthodontists, who will preside at the thirtieth annual session of the group here beginning this afternoon.

DENTAL GROUP TO MEET HERE

Expect 150 Delegates To Start Registration Today At Frances

Business sessions, a golf tournament and a stag dinner open the thirtieth annual convention of the Southwestern Society of Orthodontists here today.

The dental organization, which expects about 150 delegates to register today and tomorrow at the convention headquarters in the Frances Hotel, is headed by Dr. N. G. Gaston of Monroe, president of the group for 1950.

Registration will begin this afternoon for the four day session which will attract members of the profession from the entire southwestern area of the country and outstanding lecturers on professional problems and procedure.

Among the nationally known speakers who will appear on the program are Dr. Harry Sicher, member of the faculty of Loyola University, Chicago College of Dental Surgery and great lecturer at Northwestern University Dental School. He is the author of several definitive works on anatomy and embryology of oral structures.

Also scheduled to speak to the assemblage is Dr. Spencer R. Atkinson, professor of dental research at the University of Southern California, professor of Odontology at the National University of Mexico, honorary professor and visiting lecturer to several American and Mexican colleges and universities.

The president of the American Association of Orthodontists, Dr. Joseph E. Johnson of Louisville, Ky, lecturer in dentistry at Columbia University, New York and visiting lecturer at Washington University, St. Louis, will attend the meeting an daddress the delegates on the subject "Your American Association," and will discuss growth and development after normal occlusion has been reached in professional sessions.

Business session for the general membership and guests will open tomorrow morning at 9:30 with an address of welcome by Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe.

A meeting of the board of directors Sunday will precede open members sessions.

In addition to parties and dinners planned for the membership and their guests, the Ladies' Entertainment Committee, under the direction of Mrs. Gaston, has planned social activities which include a buffet supper Sunday and luncheon Monday.

Dr. Gaston announced that all general dentists in the area had cooperated in setting up a comprehensive program for the convention in the Twin Cities, and he invited local dentists and members of the medical society to the sessions as guests of the group.

CHURCHILL WARNS OF RED DANGERS

Says West Shouldn't Get Too Involved In Asia, Remember Europe

Blackpool, Eng., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Winston Churchill warned the west today against getting too deeply involved in Asia's troubles because the danger from communism in Europe is far greater.

The threats in the far east, the wartime prime minister said, "are on a very small scale to those which, as the government has told us, tower up against us on the continent of Europe."

Churchill was addressing a mass meeting winding up the annual conference of the Conservative party, of which he is leader.

He said he did not believe war to be inevitable and described western Europe in these words:

"The famous and ancient states and races who have no thought or aim not to dewell in peace—and who, at present, are protected from Soviet Communist ambitions only by vast American superiority in the atomic bomb."

Then he added:

"Hopes of reaching a peaceful settlement with Russia have been improved by what has happened in Korea. The Soviet onslaught upon South Korea has made many people realize the perils which menace us. . . . But successful military action in Korea must not lull us into a false sense of security."

Churchill criticized the labor government on the ground it had been "tardy and inadequate" rearmament.

"It is impossible to understand why they could not even find in three months a brigade group to go as a token symbolic force . . . to Korea," he said. The British have some units fighting in Korea.

Churchill devoted only a small part of his 64-minute speech to world affairs. Most of it was concerned with domestic politics. He assailed socialism because it carries the danger of "clearing the way for a Communist advance" and said communism was the "great menace to the world."

He said the main reason for inter-party strife in Britain now, during a time of world tension, was the fact that a general election is likely next spring.

"It is not good for our society or for our survival as a leading power that we should continue for long periods to be dominated by party politics," Churchill said. But, "we are ready for the election whenever it may come."

It could be, he told his 7,000 listeners, it will take "just one more heave" to throw the labor government out.

OIL DECISION WILL BE MADE

Will Determine Whether Production To Continue At High Levels

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Texas officials next week are to make a decision which will determine whether national crude oil production is to continue at current high levels.

Executives of 15 major oil companies have been asked to advise the Texas railroad commission Thursday the amount of crude oil they believe should be kept in above ground storage.

The average estimate submitted wil become a factor in the determining of monthly crude production allowables in Texas.

The outcome will have important bearing on the national picture in that Texas, with 1900 oil fields and 122,000 producing wells, now is furnishing about 45 per cent of the nation's crude output.

The commission wants to know the most efficient amount of crude that should be kept above ground in order to permit the oil industry to meet demand.

Storage fluctuations over or above this desired level then could be expected to go a long way in determining whether Texas crude output is increased or decreased.

No estimates of desired working stock levels have been made since start of the Korean war. The last survey said crude storage on September 1 should approximate 245,000,000 barrels.

But on Sept. 2 crude stocks totaled only 238,000,000 barrels and had increased to only 241,000,000 four weeks later.

Estimates to be submitted Thursday will form the commission's "target" for 1951.

The oil executives have been asked to estimate a desired working level for next April, the start of the heavy gasoline consuming summer season, and for next September, start of the heating fuels winter.

Some oil circles believe Texas crude production has been increased too rapidly since the sharp cutbacks of 1949.

Texas production approximated 2,040,000 barrels per day last year. The daily average last month was close to 2,700,000.

One of two things probably will undergo sharp revision next week—the working stock estimates or the crude production rates.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

The backstage work for "Boy Meets Girl" got into full swing the latter part of the week. Dr. K. Albert Ringo tells us that he is going to instruct the large cast of 19 in the art of stage make up in order that they will be able to assist with the big job. Albert and Dorothy Fountain will supervise and attend to the finishing touches.

Jackie Voorhees and Nell Entrican were excited about the authentic signed photographs of Hollywood stars which they have procured to hang on the walls of the producer's office. Complete with venetian blinds, modern office furniture from Monroe Office Equipment, pictures of the stars, a piano and an intercommunications system, the set of "Boy Meets Girl" should be one of realism and inspiration for the guys and gals who will enact this uproarious comedy.

Included in the properties for the play is one item that our mind keeps wandering back to and now is as good a time to mention it as any. We have run upon some strange and unusual items in property lists these past few years of Little Theatre work but we believe this one just about tops them all. Jackie and Nell will have to provide ham hock and cabbage for one scene in the play every night of production. Since this "Jiggs and Maggie" dish happens to be a favorite of ours, we incidentally might get caught slipping backstage to eat the properties.

Incidental info—good news of the week—a Little Theatre favorite and a former director of the organization is back in town to live. Lorenzo Smith and his wife Elroy and their two children are enlisting the aid of all their friends to find them a house before their furniture arrives from Paris, Tenn. on Monday next. Lorenzo specified a house with a roof even if it leaked. Guess what? They got their tickets for opening night of "Boy Meets Girl" —Congratulations to Little Theatre member Mary Peterson who is now Welcome Wagon hostess for Monroe and West Monroe. They couldn't have picked a more progressive representative. Mary signed up in September and went to Memphis, Tenn. for a 10-day course in personalized advertising and public relations. She took over her new duties after graduation from the school. Attention board members of L. T., Mary wants to include an illustrated folder on Little Theatre in her gifts to newcomers.

Little Theatre Sketch

Garland Shell—local advertising man whom we sourced into the perfectly tailored role of C. F. Friday, Hollywood producer in the forth coming comedy production of "Boy Meets Girl," is a Monroyan who proudly claims Chatham, La. as his birth place. Garland graduated from high school in Chatham and came to Monroe in 1934 to attend Northeast Junior College.

The News Star-World carried a special feature story lo' these sixteen years ago about this enterprising young man who was holding down five jobs at one time while attending college. He was a newspaper carrier salesman, a filling station attendant, cashier at the Lotus Club, a grocery clerk and a drug store clerk. After finishing NJC, Garland joined Terminix to earn enough money to finance further study at L. S. U. and was with them about two years when the army gently tapped him upon the shoulder.

He began his army carer in the Infantry and was in charge of music for the chaplins, later going on to Officers Candidate School in Fargo, North Dakota where he graduated as Lt. Shell in special Services. He was stationed in Boston, Mass. As head of army entertainment for the whole New England area.

Looking over his scrap book some months back, we remember newspaper clippings of Capt. Garland Shell working with such stellar personalities of the entertainment world as Hope, Crosby, Groucho Marx, Ida Lupino, Jane Wyman, Diana Lynn, Frances Langford, Milton Berle and the Ritz Bros. Many of his friends in Monroe will remember the A. P. picture of Greer Garson removing his army insigna and sewing on his U. S. O. camp show patch.

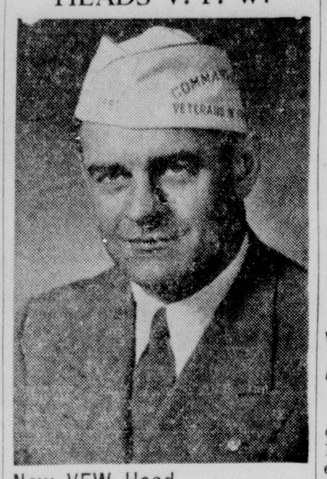

When his separation from the army came Garland took off for Hawaii. Iwo Jima and other Pacific Islands with an Irving Berlin Musical, U. S. O. unit. He had the singing male lead in this show which toured the Pacific for eight months. After the camp show ended he returned to New York where he worked and studied the advertising business. And by the way of Baltimore for two years, it was not until October of 1949 that our wandering boy made his way back home to Monroe, La.

Garland is owner and manager of Shell Advertising Agency, another new business added to the growth of Monroe and West Monroe. Even with all the problems of opening up a new concern, he has found time to identify himself prominently with civic work in his home town. He was publicity chairman for the Ouachita Parish Red Cross fund drive last March and appeared on the publicity panel for the American Red Cross at the national convention held in Detroit. He is up to his ears in "Democracy versus Communism and Socialism" for the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Of course, he said that he really didn't have time to take a part in "Boy Meets Girl" but his desire to help and our persistance since he fit the role so well, was a combination that gives you Garland Shell as C. F. Friday the producer.

Asking about his hobbies, he majored in music at N. J. C. and studied at the New England Conservatory in Boston, so music must top the list of things interesting to him. He sings at the Christian Science Church each Sunday morning and at the Jewish Temple on Friday night. The Capitol Kiddie show for Tender Crust Bakery is one of his chief hobbies.

HEADS V. F. W.

New VFW Head In Top Combats

The military background of Charles C. Ralls, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, includes two "hitches" in the U. S. Marine corps—a peacetime tour as an enlisted man, and combat service in World War II as a commissioned officer.

Commander-in-Chief Ralls resides in Woodinville, Wash., but maintains law offices in Seattle as a member of the firm of Ralls and Burns.

Ralls was born in Missoula, Mont. March 29, 1904. He attended grade school in Wallace, Idaho, was graduated from Gonzaga High School, Spokane, Wash., then attended Gonzaga University where he received his law degree in 1930. He was a star halfback on the Gonzaga football team in 1928 and 1929.

Ralls served his first hitch in the marines some time before the outbreak of World War II, and was discharged as a corporal. He was commissioned shortly after the war started, and during most of his three-and-a-half years of service was overseas with the fifth amphibious corps, taking part in some of the top campaigns in the Pacific. He was released from service after the war with the rank of major.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

In our last installment Minnie the Melder had just completed a canasta in nines and discarded an ace. Left in her hand were two kings, two eights and a deuce. Minnie's partner, Hold-up Harry, held ten cards and her side had also melded three fours and three queens.

The pack was frozen and the opponents still needed 120 for an initial meld. Minnie's ace discard got by, and her next draw was another ace. She discarded this one also, whereupon the roof finally fell in. Her opponent on the left had finally acquired his count and had always held two aces. He took the discard pile and made several melds.

Harry drew and as usual melded nothing at all. George drew and completed two canastas and added cards to some of his partner's other melds. Minnie drew and failed to go out. The next player drew and completed two more canastas for his side. Then Harry drew and finally came to life and made a couple of melds. On her next play Minnie drew a third eight and went out.

The final result was that Minnie's side lost almost a thousand points net on the hand.

Now for some ifs. If Minnie had been willing to follow Harry's hold-up play from the start we can't tell what would have happened. The worst that could have happened would be that George's side would be very lucky and go out before Minnie and Harry made much of a score. The best that could happen would be that Minnie and Harry would control the discard pile right through a long successful hand and would score enough poinis to win the game then and there, in spite of the fact that they had started with only 2470 points.

However, Minnie abandoned that play and tried to play for out. Once she took the two-card discard pile and melded down to six cards Harry should have stopped holding up and completed the canasta in nines right away. Then Minnie would have been able to go out before her opponents had melded and would have gained about a thousand points on the hand. Harry's mistake was the really serious one.

Finally Minnie made a mistake when she completed the canasta in nines. She should merely have thrown the ace and retained her two pairs and two wild cards. Then, when the opponents got the pack, Harry could have completed the canasta and Minnie would have been able to go out before the opponents won the game.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

BOOST IN ARMS TO INDO-CHINA EXPECTED SOON

Considered Necessary To Meet Major Threat Of Red Drives On French

WILL BE MAJOR TOPIC AT WAKE ISLAND TALKS

Washington, Oct. 14. —(AP)— Top officials, with an eye on the Wake Island conference, today predicted a quick increase in American military aid to Indo-China. They said it is needed to meet the threat of a major drive which the Communists might make there to offset the Red disaster in Korea.

The speedup was forecast specifically on the basis of agreements being worked out in French-American arms talks here, and as a result of the fact that the Indo-China problem was one of the major topics for President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur at their weekend meeting.

The president notified Secretary of State Acheson and Defense Secretary Marshall of his plans to talk about Indo-China and had them advise him on all the latest developments there. His move indicated, first, that he is determined to do everything possible to strengthen that point in the anti-Communist front in Asia and, second, that he wants to get MacArthur's views on what may be done and whether at some point arms assigned to Korea may be diverted to Indo-China.

In the Washington talks, French Defense Minister Jules Moch appealed to Marshall and Secretary of State Acheson yesterday for a faster delivery schedule for arms to Indo-China. Marshall promised to do all he could. He assured the French defense chief he would try to find promptly some attack bombers to support French ground troops in the jungle fighting.

Acheson insisted, and Moch tentatively agreed, on a revision of the French list for arms shipments to Indo-China so that some of the arms would be delivered to native units rather than having them all go to French troops.

This is in line with an American policy—presumably also a trend in French policy—to strengthen the Viet Namese forces so that eventually the bulk of the French troops which are among France's very best, can be pulled back to Europe.

bands in Los Angeles, Calif., at the head of the American Legion's annual convention.

Mr. Gaushell was formerly director of the band at Neville High school here and his success after he left Monroe is greeted with deepest interest by a host of local Monroyans. Both Mr. Gaushell and his wife were highly active in social and musical circles when here. As yet we lack knowledge of how the band was rated in the contest but we are sure it made a creditable showing for both Louisiana and its director.

Christmas is weeks off but in West Monroe the Business Men's association has announced prizes totalling $325 in cash to be awarded for Christmas lighting. An entertainment program of interest is planned for the holidays by the same association. Also the West Monroe Kiwanis club is already holiday minded and plans a 1950 toy auction. The proceeds of this event will go to the fund for underprivileged.

The Louisiana State University classes of 1935 and 1936 which number state wide about 1700 were vitally interested in homecoming on the campus yesterday. Numerous reunions were held.

These classes comprised a number of well known men and women of Monroe, Among these are: Howell H. Heard, Mike John, Jasper J. Joyce, Jr., Mr. and Mrrs. Vernon Lacour, Joseph W. Lea, D. Ross Banister, Miss Frances Flanders, Mrs. Estelle L. Lea., Louis N. Blair and Charles D. Cason.

This is "Freedom Week" called by the sponsoring Jaycees, "Democracy versus Communism and Socialism" week. The first day's events, will be "Go to Church Day" which leads off the week everyone is emplored to attend one's church of his choice today. Ministers will have special messages and 40 civic clubs and 60 committees have been named to assist in the cause, states Haynes Harkey, president of the local Jaycees.

Al Newburn, co-chairman of the week's program, urges church attendance today and calls attention to the fact that the radio broadcasts will be suited to the day and cause.

Monday is "Freedom Day," with Jack Wyatt chairman. The highlight of the day will be the noon luncheon of the Jaycees on Hotel Virginia roof when John Temple Graves, noted columnist, will give an address.

Tuesday is "Citizenship Day" with Charles E. McKenzie Jr., chairman. Wednesday is "Investment Day" directed by Chairman Chevis Sherrouse. Thursday is "Freedom of the Press Day" with Garland Shell and Jim Reynolds chairman. Friday is "Civic Responsibility Day" with Phil Duncan Jr. chairman while "Youth Day" is Saturday with David Russell in charge.

Wednesday night there will be a great meeting known as "Inter-Faith assemblage." This was first planned at the Memorial ball park but later changed to Neville High School Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The bands of Neville High school and Ouachita Parish High School will play and short talks will be given by representatives of three different faiths. They will be Rabbi F. K. Hirsch, of Temple B'Nai Israel; Msgr. J. C. Marsh, pas-Church and Rev. Jaroy Weber, pastor of the First Baptist church in West Monroe.

The public is urged to attend this quite unusual night program.

Friday the 13th held no occasion for alarm as to any possible untoward features for President Travis Oliver of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company. After illness that has kept him for some weeks confined at his home, he appeared once more in fine spirits at his desk at the bank Friday the Thirteenth. His many friends were delighted to see him back again.

There's a scaffold at DeSiard and Jackson Streets and all that it takes, as well as many yards of coiled rope for use in a lethal event. The platform was erected by Contractor W. C. Salley last Saturday.

So far as known, the personnel of those selected to pay the final penalty is not made known, but it will all come out in full measure about 3 p.m. Monday.

Just to cause worry, Jes' Ramblin' was informed Saturday that the gallows was not there just for lawyers, doctors and other misbehaving professional men, but also for newspaper men in some instances and also some preachers.

Rev. Roger C. Johnson, passing by, added that some of his congregation might desire to see him hanging at the end of a rope.

Anyway, it will be best for all those who have not attended church lately to be sure to be present Sunday when it's "Go to church day."

Charles II of England was a quarter Scottish, a quarter Danish, a quarter French and a quarter Italian.

DEATHS

Isaac F. Marlatt

Bastrop, La., Oct. 14.—(Special) The funeral of Isaac Frank —Marlatt, 87, who died at his home here yesterday after a long illness, will take place Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Robinson Funeral Home Chapel with Rev. Jack Midyett, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiating, and Rev. O. M. Anderson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, assisting. Interment will follow in the Christ Church cemetery.

Marlatt, a resident of the parish for 30 years and a member of the Methodist Church, is survived by his wife and son Fred of Bastrop, one daughter, Mrs. Doss W. Nelson, Jacksonville, Miss.; two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Sullivan and Mrs. Myrtle Battieger, both of Columbus, Ohio, his birthplace; two granddaughters, two grandsons, and one great-granddaughter.

imately 5,000,000 men under arms today, and all are located at strategic points. Mobilized forces, consisting of men, tanks and planes, are located on the borders of Indo-China, Burma, and other surrounding countries. These men are standing guard and will give aid to the Communists in these areas if it is deemed necessary," reported General Chennault.

"The Communist dictator of Indo-China, Ho Chi-Mink, who calls the country Vietnam, has prepared a full-scale offensive to bring the whole country under the flag of the Reds," announced the retired major general.

"The United States and the United Nations should train men in these countries by some of the same means which the Communists have used. The time has come when we will have to go all out in the mobilization of Asiatic countries to meet the threat of Communism. So far we have done only part of the job, and this must be improved upon by sending instructors, equipment, supplies and men to carry out the job.

"The Philippines are not a danger to the welfare of Democratic nations at the present time, but if measures are not carried out in the near future, it is more than likely that they also will develop into a not bed of communism."

General Chennault is at the present time operating a Civil Air Transport line in Taipeh, Formosa. He and his wife are visiting with friends in Monroe.

Defense, State Dept. Cold War Seems Over

Washington, Oct. 14. —(AP)— The cold war between the defense and state department seems to have ended.

Relations between the two big agencies, once cool, are now downright cordial.

The answer is George C. Marshall's three weeks in the Pentagon as the new defense secretary. Marshall is both a five-star general and a former secretary of state.

TRUMAN

MacArthur did a "magnificent job" of presenting the Korean situation. The two discussed Korean rehabilitation.

Shortly before he left, Mr. Truman decorated MacArthur with a fourth Oak Leaf cluster to the distinguished service medal.

Both principals agreed not to have a press conference because of the shortage of time.

A communique will be issued later, the dispatch said, quoting "statements by the president concurred in by MacArthur."

It was Saturday, U. S. time, but Sunday on Wake, which is west of the international dateline.

The conference, at the president's bidding, embraced the reconstruction of Korea and possibly American policy throughout the far east, but Wake's scanty radio facilities prevented prompt reporting of the full details.

White House correspondents of the Associated Press, International News Service and United Press had to pool brief messages from Wake to Honolulu over the civil aeronautics authority radio.

Their joint account, as sent chronologically, follows:

Wake Island, Sunday, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Truman-MacArthur conference began here today shortly after dawn in the pink concrete office building on the southeast tip of this tiny island.

General MacArthur preceded Mr. Truman from Tokyo (a 1,985-mile flight) by more than 12 hours, and the two men met for the first time when the president's plane arrived from Honolulu at 6:30 a.m. local time (1:30 p.m. Saturday EST).

They chatted briefly while posing for pnotographs, then crawled into a battered Chevrolet sedan for a brief drive to the conference site.

The automobile belonged to the civil aeronautics authority—a red-wheeled 1948 model and the only sedan on the island.

The constellation Dewdrop, carrying Gen. Omar Bradley, Special Assistant W. Averell Harriman and other top advisers of the president, arrived 15 minutes ahead of the president's plane.

General MacArthur was not on hand to greet General Bradley, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, but he reached the field in time for a brief chat with the Bradley party while the Independence circled the field for its landing.

Conference principals went right to work around an improvised table in the small, new one-story block concrete and frame office hut.

The conference table actually consisted of ten small folding tables pushed together in oblong form and surrounded by more than a dozen chairs.

The hut is just off the main airstrip one mile from the Quonset hut settlement surrounding the air terminal.

Thus with a handshake and a smile, the president started his first face-to-face conference with the United Nations Korean commander in a strange setting on a barren, treeless sandspit far in the western Pacific.

The setting was all the more unbelievable considering the fact Mr. Truman was at his White House desk less than four days ago and more than 7,000 miles away.

After General MacArthur first greeted Mr. Truman, the president smiled broadly, saying, "How are you, General? I'm glad you are here."

The pair stood handclasped for several minutes in response to "one more" shouts from photographers.

Finally the president cut off the picture session and started for the car with the general. At the door of the car the president stood aside and motioned the general to get in first.

The officers and MacArthur were all tieless in open-throated khaki shirts in contrast with the full, beribboned uniforms of the presidential defense aides.

Admr. Arthur W. Radford, Pacific Fleet Commander who was added to the party last night at Honolulu, joined in the handshakes at the side of the plane.

Admiral Radford was invited to join the party by Mr. Truman to give the Navy participation in the conference, on account of the illness in Washington of Rear Admr. Robert L. Dennison, Naval Aide to the President.

Also in the Dewdrop party was striking Bernice Anderson, Secretary to Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup. She was the only woman in the party.

She came down the plane ramp attired in a chic cocoa-colored shantung suit and wearing several strands of floral leis.

Party members stressed that the first time on the agenda here would be plans for the reconstruction and rebuilding of Korea.

Once that item was entertained, the entire field of Far Eastern problems was open for discussion.

While the Prsident and Mac Arthur waited to leave the airfield the President said:

"I have been a long time meeting you, General."

MacArthur replied:

"I hope it won't be so long the next time."

Before sitting down across the conference table the President and the eGneral drove to a near-by quonset hut, painted white, for a personal chat before continuing to what the army has dubbed "conference house."

The President used the quonset hut as temporary White House during his brief stay on Wake.

Both MacArthur and Mr. Truman had breakfasted before their rendezvous.

After the airfield ceremonies the principals motored to the sun-blistered quonset on the edge of the ocean, facing the rising sun.

The President and General went into a tiny living room. The President selected a hard bamboo chair and MacArthur chose a settee.

Presidential Secretary Charles G Ross expressed the opinion that "I think the conference started in the car."

The formal conference was suspended temporarily at 9:10 a.m. Wake time (4:10 p.m. Saturday, EST), and the President went to his quarters for a rest.

They concluded their shirt-sleeved conference (time not available but this portion of the dispatch was sent about 10:00 a.m. (Wake time) and bothe were expected to be airborne by noon.

Mr. Truman termed his personal meeting with General MacArthur "very satisfactory and pleasant."

The brevity of the formal conference confirmed that the basic business was done solely by the two principals in their hour's face-to-face isolated talk shortly after the President's arrival.

Even more significant was the fact that President Truman and MacArthur spent the first hour alone in intimate conversation with out any staff members present.

Associates of both men were of the opinion that more actual work was done in that one hour than during the entire ful conference with all 12 participants present.

The conferees included General Bradley, Admiral Radford, Harriman, Jessup, Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Dean Rusk, Undersecretary of State in charge of Far Eastern Affairs; Charles S. Murphy, the President's speech writer; U. S. Ambassador to Korea John L. Muccio, Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney of MacArthur's Civil Government section, and Ross.

TRAPS THOUSANDS

ish and Australian soldiers who captured Kumchon trapped the estimated 20,000 Reds south of the city.

These Reds apparently were still offering bitter resistance. A spokesman for the U. S. eighth army said the first cavalry had to battle fiercely to clear the highway from Kumchon back to the outfits South Korean jump off point of Kaesong, near parallel 38.

Five bridges on the Yesong river just west of Kumchon were secured by the first cavalry. Other bridges to the south, however, were still held by Reds.

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commander of the first cavalry, said the trapped Reds "will not get out any tanks, guns or vehicles."

Nine Red tanks were knocked out in the battle for Kumchon.

The South Korean first division to the east was operating independently of the first cavalry. Its location before it struck to Singye was given as four and one-half miles northeast of Kumchon.

Wonsan, on the east end of the 130-mile allied front, developed as the split-up point for two South Korean divisions.

While the capital division was jumping 15 miles toward Pyongyang, the third division rolled 18 miles north from Wonsan in less than 24 hours to Yonghung. That is 30 miles southwest of the North Korean port of Hungnam.

In a congratulatory message to his troops, Gay told them that their push of more than 200 miles from the old Pusan perimeter in Southeast Korea to Kumchon was "the most rapid advance ever made in the history of American arms." The first cavalary led the Allied breakthrough that began Sept. 16.

That general offensive from the old beachhead and the Allied landing at Inchon Sept. 15 turned the tide of the Korean War in favor of the United Nations forces.

Since the Reds began the war with an invasion of South Korea June 25, their ever mounting casualty total has risen to 248,000, a spokesman at General Mac Arthur's Tokyo headquarters said. The figure included 60,000 prisoners, he added.

Still facing the Allies as they close in on the remnants of the Red Army are an estimated 68,000 Communist troops.

The staggering Red ranks are reported laced heavily with forced conscripts.

There was nothing new from the 37-ship Allied Task Force, led by the U.S. Battleship Missouri, which rained exploding steel on Red coastal supply lines from Soviet Siberia Thursday and Friday.

Whether there was significance in this lack of news was not known.

But there was no question that the war was in its final phase.

General MacArthur, the United Nations Commander, was on Wake Island, conferring with President Truman. They were expected to talk over the problems of unifying war-torn Korea and the problems of holding the line against communism in the rest of Asia.

Spaht Heads L.S.U. Alumni Federation

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Judge Carlos G. Spaht of Baton Rouge was elected president of the Louisiana State University alumni federation at the group's annual election meeting held on the L. S. U. campus today in connection with homecoming festivities.

Other officers elected were Dr. Abe Mickal of New Orleans, first vice-president; Thomas C. Glaze of Baton Rouge, second vice-president, and Lewis Gottlieb of Baton Rouge, athletic council representative.

them to the New Iberia Junior Chamber of Commerce, New Iberia, La.

One night during the week the mayor of Shreveport will proclaim a 10-minute period of silence during which time all attention will be directed to a radio address by a nationally-known speaker who will enumerate the dangers of communism and socialism. Animated cartoons in Shreveport theaters will depict freedom and what happens to liberty when the "isms" take over.

Lake Charles will feature communistic speeches every day on soap boxes on the streets. Communistic figures will hang in effigy in Monroe and elsewhere.

In New Orleans doctors will stress the dangers of socialized medicine by talking three minutes to each patient about how socialized medicine operates in England.

Throughout the state churches will select their best Bible student, boy or girl between the ages of 16 and 20. Local contests will decide winners eligible for competition in the state finals to be conducted in Monroe on Saturday afternoon, October 21. The boy and girl state winners each will receive a scholarship to Harding College in Searcy, Ark.

President Jack Howard and the entire state Jaycee organization are anticipating enthusiastic response from all quarters on this vital week. "Indications are that the people of Louisina will definitely be made aware anew of the advantages of democracy and the importance of the individual in protecting those advantages. . . and therein will be the success of all our months of planning and work," states Mr. Howard.

The mayors of Monroe and West Monroe have issued a prociamation in observance of the week. It is as follows:

"Whereas, the forces of communism have posed a serious threat to the American way of life, and

"Whereas, the Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce has organized a program entitled Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism Week to combat these forces, and

"Whereas, it is the obligation of every citizen in this community to exert his utmost effort to preserve our way of life and heritage.

"Now, therefore, under the authority vested in us as mayors of the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, Louisiana, be it proclaimed that the week of October 15, 1950, through October 21, 1950 shall be designated Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism Week in the Twin Cities.

"Thus done under our bond and seals this 14 day of October, 1950.

"JOHN E. COON,
"Mayor of Monroe, La.
"C. C. BELL, JR.
"Mayor of West Monroe, La."

BIG PARADE MONDAY

"Freedom Day" chairman, Jack Wyatt promises a Freedom parade that will stand out as one of the largest and most colorful parades ever witnessed in Monroe. Police officer J. C. Kelly will act as marshal for the event which will include bands from Ouachita Parish, Neville and Monroe Colored High School, bands from Winnsboro, Delhi, Bastrop, and Jonesboro. Also taking part will be Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, R. O. T. C. units from Northeast State College, color guards from major veterans' organizations, 15 motorized National Guard detachments, the fire departments of Monroe and West Monroe and representatives from approximately 100 civic clubs in cars with appropriate placards. Some 2000 individuals are expected to participate in this freedom parade which begins forming at 2:30 at the old city hall in West Monroe. Actual marching will start at 3:30 proceeding across the old traffic bridge down DeSiard street to Eighth street. Photographs of the parade will appear in Life magazine. Anyone interested in taking part may do so by contacting Mr. Wyatt at telephone 5900 or 10045-W.

SELECTIVE SERVICE

nental European nations which have UMS, each man called would get basic training, then go through a period of actual service with the regular armed forces in which he would be available for combat duty at some fixed minimum age if need arose.

After expiration of his service period—21 months has been suggested, the spokesman said—the man automatically would go into the military reserve, subject to call in event of war or other great need. So much for a briefed-down description of UMS.

Universal Military Training would be just what the name says. It proposes that boys 18 years of age be called up for basic training only. As now proposed, they would get no actual service with the armed forces during this training, and would be exempt from combat duty until after they had returned to civilian life and at least reached the minimum draft age.

The present selective service draft law has some features of both UMS and UMT, but allows deferment for various reasons. It called to the colors non-deferrabl young men 19 to 26 years old, and gives them basic training and field service including, at this time, combat overseas.

Reds Try To Keep Secret Terrible Famine In China

20 Million Acres Of Crops Wiped Out, 50 Million Affected

By Fred Hampson

Hong Kong, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Last winter's famine in China proves that the Chinese Communists can keep a secret.

Nobody knows its toll.

But enough information has leaked through the bamboo curtain to show:

1. It was one of the worst if not the worst such disaster in modern Chinese history.

2. More than 50,000,000 people were affected, and, through malnutrition, will continue to be affected.

3. Crops of at least 20,000,000 acres were wiped out.

Not even a rough estimate of the death toll has come from inside Red China. All that has sifted out is an occasional admission that a few hundred had succumbed in this or that town or county, or that refugees had died by the road trying to reach greener fields.

The total death score, if anyone knows it, has been slipped into the pigeonhole of things the Reds want to forget.

The famine followed the march of the Communist armies into China. It started in 1949 in the northeast provinces and parts of Manchuria after a drought which burned thousands of acres of grain crops.

Then the Yangtze and Yellow rivers overflowed, destroying long, broad belts of crops one-fourth the width of China. Not in a hundred years had the two big rivers flooded simultaneously. To make matters worse, most of China's smaller rivers flooded, too.

The damage hit Anhwei, Kiangsu and Shantung provinces in populous east China. Honan suffered greatly. The whole nation was dotted with smaller local famines—even in southern Kwantung province which is supposed to be famine-free.

An observer in Hong Kong kept a record of flood information coming from the Communist press and radio and from trustworthy private sources.

He refused to make any estimate of the deaths, but called attention to the highest figure ever mentioned by the Reds themselves. That was last November when the Reds said 40,000,000 people were affected, a fourth of them seriously.

After that, official admissions were cautious and contradictory. A few independent reports dribbled out later, indicating that more than 40,000,000 people were hit by famine; that the famine was far-flung and scattered, that the Reds themselves had only a sketchy idea of its extent; that the scourge hit areas which normally produce an excess of food, and that China would pay in undernourishment for years.

The Reds became inconsistent in their famine information. Sometimes they admitted conditions were desperate. Later they said relief food had arrived in time. This would be followed by advice to famine sufferers on how to live on bark and roots.

From 1931 to 1937 China produced 141,000,000 tons of food annually with an additional 2,000,000 tons imported annually.

Production for 1949 has been estimated at 94,200,000 tons—and there were practically no imports.

How much belt tightening does the nation have to do to cut its annual menu by 50,000,000 tons? And how many of its 450,000,000 persons still starve?

Some area of Red China still are plagued by floods, but generally the crops have been good in 1950. Communist headquarters at Peiping estimates production of food at 120,000,000 tons but that includes Manchuria.

China's pre-war production including Manchuria was about 157,000,000 tons, so it looks as though China this year still is at least 20 per cent under its pre-war average, which was insufficient.

The Chinese is off the bark diet, apparently, but he's in for more thin eating unless imports are resumed.

The food situation isn't all that's bad in mainland China.

Travelers coming out of the Red country say unemployment is widespread though possibly not as serious as it was last winter.

They can't however, confirm Communist reports that conditions are improving economically and hard times aren't knocking quite so loudly.

If there has been any betterment in the lot of the common man, they say, it is only in a fortunate few occupations and in lucky localities such as Tientsin, where the remnants of China's foreign trade are located.

And if a man lands a job the wages will be low.

A technician who visited the Associated Press Hong Kong bureau recently said his pay before the "liberation" was the equivalent of $200 a month.

We went to work in a Red industry, he said, and his pay amounted to not quite $18 a month. He had to pay a third of that to the kitchen at the factory for his food, leaving him the equivalent of $12 a month on which to feed his family of six. He said prices were lower than ever in Shanghai but not low enough for that.

Man Chokes To Death While Eating Steak

Milwaukee, Oct. 14. — (AP) — John Ash, 63, ordered "the biggest steak in the house" at a local tavern late Friday night, then choked on it and died.

The tavern operator said that after the local man took a bite, the cook asked him how he liked it.

"It's just what I wanted,' Ash replied.

But following the third bite, he gasped, rose unsteadily from his chair, and sagged to the floor. Bystanders applied artificial respiration and called the fire department. Firemen worked on Ash with an inhalator, then took him to Johnston Emergency Hospital. He was pronounced dead from suffocation.

A doctor found a large piece of steak lodged in his throat.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of James P. Scalia, Sr. my beloved husband and father
on his birthday, October 15.

Today is your birthday Sweetheart,
Yet no gift can you receive,
Only the flower on your grave,
From those on earth that grieve.

How lonely and lonesome is our home today
For our Sweetheart who has passed away.

Sadly missed by Mrs. James P. Scalia and children

In memory, Father
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name;
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death just the same.
Mr. & Mrs. G. A. Oden

HONOR COURT HELD THURSDAY

Many Awards Are Presented To Boy Scouts For Achievements

A large number of awards were presented to many Boy Scouts in the central district Thursday night at the district's court of honor, which was held at Central Grammar School. John I. Neel, former scoutmaster of Troop 31, presided over the court.

One of the highlights of the court of honor program was a report by Scouts and Scouteres on the recent National Boy Scout Jamboree held at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. District Commissioner W. W. Stevens called on the following Jamboree Scouts, who told those present about some of their experiences: Frank Mobley, Harold Bolton, Bill Wheelis, Sam Thompson, Wilma Lawson, Julian Nichols, and Gayle English.

Several announcements of importance were also made to the Scouts attending the court. These announcements included information about Scout participation in the Democracy vs. Communism program beign sponsored by the Monroe Jaycees. The Scouts were also told about an event which would be held on October 28 for all explorers in the council at Louisiana Tech in Ruston. Explorers attending this event will have the complete exploration program of the Tech facilities and also have an opportunity to see one of the Tech football games.

Institutions To Get 'Poetry Day' Gifts

Libraries in schools, hospitals and other institutions, as well as public libraries in many cities and parishes, will be the recipients today of volumes of poetry, in connection with the state wide celebration of "Poetry Day."

Mrs. Violet Brown Shay, Louisiana state chairman of the National Poetry Day committee, announced the opening of a drive for donations of books of verse in connectin with the state celebration. "The books need not be new," she said, "just so long as they can still be used to bring hours of real enjoyment to people everywhere."

Donors were requested to put their names on the volumes and note on the inscription that the books were presented especially for Poetry Day.

FREEDOM DRIVE CONCLUDES

Cub Scouts Dewayne Roark and Jimmie Crawford of Pack 13 are pictured presenting a copy of the Freedom Scroll to Mrs. J. C. Crawford of West Monroe for her signature. Cub and Boy Scout groups joined with adult volunteers in gathering signatures of citizens of the Twin Cities for the "Crusade For Freedom."

CUB LEADERS TO TAKE STUDY

Course Planned For Group Starting Monday Night

A training course for all Cub Scout leaders of the central district of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council is to begin Monday night, Oct. 16, and to be conducted on three successive Mondays, it has been announced by A. C. Lea, Cub Scout commissioner for the district. Each of the sessions is to be held at the Ouachita Parish Courthouse and will begin at 7:00 p.m.

This Cub leaders' course is offered by the Ouachita Valley Council each year at this time to inform all Cub leaders of their duties and to give them an opportunity to learn and practice new ideas which can be put into use in their Cub Scout units. All den mothers, cubmasters, pack committeemen, and parents of Cub Scouts are invited to attend these training sessions.

Each of the three training meetings is to be full of interesting, helpful information about Cub Scouting—the younger boys' program of Boy Scouts of America. Program features during the training will include interesting dramatizations, Cub films, the achievement program, handicraft, ceremonies, program themes, Cub literature, badges and uniform, records, the outdoors program, program planning, tricks and puzzles, stunts, skits, songs, plays and games.

The first session, to be held Monday night, will include several Cub ceremonies, information on the available Cub Scout literature, several games, a Cub achieve ment program, and interesting dramatizations and other important information for Cub leaders. The session will close promptly at 8:30 p.m.

The Boy Scouts of America is a member of the Twin City Community Chest.

W. O. W. CIRCLE DISTRICT HOST

Large Attendance At Enthusiastic Meeting Here Thursday

Parlor City Grove No. 288, Woodmen circle, was host to the northern district of Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, Thursday in the Woodmen Hall with a large number of members present. Following the registration there was an elaborate luncheon at the La Casa tea room.

The business meeting was called to order at 2:00 p.m. by Mrs. Bertha Abr ms of Independence Grove, Shreveport, president of the northern district. The following guests were introduced and welcomed: Miss Ione Burke, state manager and national committee woman from New Orleans; Mrs. Gladys Hess, state president of Shreveport; and Mrs. Verna Hinderlaing of New Orleans, state secretary.

The flag was then presented by Mrs. Opal Thompson, district attendant, assisted by Independence Grove No. 15, of Shreveport. Mrs. Daisy Wetzel, Monroe chaplain, delivered the invocation, after which Mrs. Mattie Edney, past president, delivered the welcome address and the response by Mrs. Gladys Hess, state president of Shreveport. The following district officers were elected for the ensuing year. President, Mrs. Jewel Earl, 1st vice-president, Mrs. Opal Thompson, 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Geneva Wilson, secretary, Mrs. Ora Beasley, treasurer, Mrs. Mattie Barber, auditor, Mrs. Etta Babin, chaplain, Mrs. Daisy Wetzel, attendant, Mrs. Nell Zellars, assistant attendant, Mrs. Ora Payne, musician, Mrs. Isabel Gibbs, captain, Mrs. Kathrene Eaves.

The evening session consisted of a short program featuring a piano solo by Miss Shirley Fant and a highly humorous reading by Mrs. Nell Van Holder, after which the newly elected officers were installed. Mrs. Jewel Earl, the newly installed district president, presented lovely gifts to the state officers and the retiring district officers. Mr. Bouler, council commander of the Woodmen of the World, delivered a short address on the duties and responsibilities of the officers. Independence Grove No. 15 of Shreveport and Parlor City Grove No. 288 of Monroe, entertained with drills. Music for the evening was furnished by Mrs. Isabel Gibbs, district musician. After the meeting delicious refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Glass cooking ware designed for oven use should not be placed on top of the stove or next to a flame.

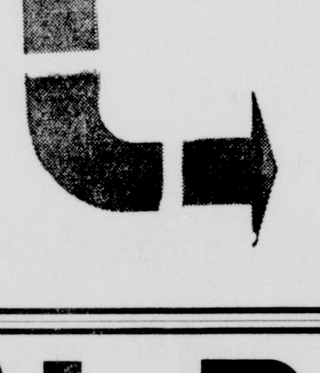

Fairbanks To Be Presbytery Host

A group conference of the women of the Red River Presbytery will be held at the Fairbanks Presbyterian Church on October 20th. Representatives from the following churches will be present; Alabama Presbyterian Church of Choudrant, Alto, Bastrop, Fairbanks, Memorial Presbyterian Church of West Monroe, Monroe, Pinegrove, and Rayville. Mrs. F. P. Robinson of Bastrop, La., is the district chairman and will preside over the meeting.

The speaker of the day will be Mr. Alexander Bartus, minister of the Hungarian Presbyterian Church of Albany, Louisiana, near Hammond. Mr. Bartus will speak on home missions.

Miss Margaret Gambrell Bride Of Herbert Heinrich Land, Jr.

Wedding Of Popular Young Couple Takes Place Saturday At First Baptist Church

A lovely wedding of October was that of Miss Margaret Rose Gambrell and Mr. Herbert Heinrich Land, Jr., which was solemnized Saturday, October 7, at 7:00 o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Gene Horton, pastor, officiated in the impressive double ring ceremony.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert E. Gambrell and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Land.

Forming a beautiful setting for the exchange of nuptial vows were slender white cathedral tapers burning from of myriad of candelabra against a background of southern smilax. Magnolia leaves and southern smilax were tastefully arranged along the choir rail with baskets of white chrysanthemums. The bridal couple knelt on a white satin bench before an arch entwined with greenery.

Preceeding the ceremony a concert of organ music was rendered by Mrs. B. D. Allbritton who accompanied the soloist, Mr. E. M. Wooten, as he sang "Ave Maria" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." The traditional wedding marches were used before and after the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a wedding gown of ice blue Duchess satin with sculptured bodice and bouffant skirt which ended in a sweeping train. It featured a diminutive collar and a row of tiny self-covered buttons down to the hemline. A chapel length veil of illusion fell from her Juliet cap of ice blue satin and tulle. She carried a white prayer book topped with baby gardenias, blue forget-me-not and fleur-de-lis, tied with tiny white satin streamers.

Mrs. Carl Turpin was matron of honor, the bridesmaid was Mrs. Manuel Protos and Miss Boofie Malone served as junior bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of adagio rose satin with fitted bodices and full skirts. Their half crown hats were of matching material. Their bouquets were of blue chrysanthemums tied with wine velvet ribbon.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his brother, Mr. J. Edgar Land. The groomsmen were David Garrett, Jr., Robert Easterling, Robert Guerriero, Robert Layton, Dr. Wharton Brown, Louis Milner, McVea Oliver and Charles Roddy.

Mrs. Gambrell, mother of the bride, chose a floor length model of gray silk chantilly lace with a purple orchid corsage. The groom's mother, Mrs. Land, was wearing a full length gown of rose velveteen and a white orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel. Attractive arrangements of white pom poms and asters were placed at vantage points, while the same flowers and hemlock graced the mantle and coffee table. Leading into the reception suite were also placed arrangements of the chrysanthemums and asters, where the bridal couple, Mrs. Gambrell, Mrs. Land, Mrs. Edgar Land, and members of the wedding party greeted the guests.

The bride's table, overlaid with cutwork cloth, was centered with the embossed double heart wedding confection. It was placed on a reflector encircled with ruffled maline. An outer circle was formed of white pom poms and asters entwined with southern smilax. Adding to the pretty effect were silver holders bearing lighted tapers that graduated in height. These bore a decorative note of the same blossoms and greenery and were connected by streamers of tiny white satin ribbon and tulle. Silver compotes held bridal mints.

The table from which the lime sherbet punch was served was centered with tall branched candelabra entwined with pom poms, asters and hemlock. The crystal punch bowls at either end were encircled with the same blossoms and greenery used in the decorative theme. Compotes of heavy cut glass held bridal mints and cakes.

An arrangement of chrysanthemums and hemlock falling from a crystal bell was placed on the table that held the bride's book.

Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. George Lofton and Mrs. Henry Jastremski. Assisting in the serving courtesies were Miss Martha Roddy and Miss Joy Guice, Miss Sally Ann Johnson presided at the bride's book.

The bridal couple left on a wedding trip to Mexico. For traveling the bride was wearing a navy blue suit and matching hat. Her other accessories were blue. A purple orchid completed her ensemble. Upon their return from their wedding trip, the couple will make their home at their apartment at Layton's Castle.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School. She attended the University of Havana and graduated from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. The bridegroom graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and Tulane University where he was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity, Gargoyle Honorary Society and Architectural Society.

Out-of-town Guests

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Land, Abilene, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson, Alexandria; Dr. and Mrs. Wharton Brown, Ruston; Charles Roddy, Baton Rouge; Tommy Poulos, Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pickering, Collins, Miss. Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gambrell, Sr., Sicily Island; Mrs. Johnny Mosely, Vicksburg, Miss.; Mrs. Henry Jakemski, Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Ed W. Hixon, Jr., Alexandria; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turpin, Bastrop; Mrs. A. J. Bridges, Bogalusa; and Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Protos, Alexandria.

Rehearsal Supper

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Land were hosts at the rehearsal supper following the rehearsal of the Land-Gambrell wedding on Friday night at a local tearoom. Individual tables seated the guests with a small bouquet of roses and baby breath fern centering each table. At the bride's table was a bouquet of baby gardenias. Butterfly lillies were also placed at vantage points throughout the rooms.

Enjoying this occasion with the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. Bert E. Gambrell, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Land, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turpin, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Protos, Mr. Chevis Sherrouse, Mrs. Vonnie Williams, Mr. Phil Duncan, Miss Eloise Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. James Thames, Mrs. James Malone and Miss Boofie Malone, Miss Martha Roddy, Miss Joy Guice, Mr. and Mrs. David Garrett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Louis Milner, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Wharton Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Easterling, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guerriero, Mr. Robert Layton, Mr. McVea Oliver, Mrs. Charles Roddy and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Land.

Ceremony Unites Frances Gartman And Samuel Sledge Holladay, Jr.

Marriage Vows Spoken In Columbia Methodist Church On September 29

In a simple but impressive ceremony Miss Frances Gartman and Mr. Samuel Holladay, Jr., were united in marriage September 29 at the Columbia Methodist Church with the Rev. Samuel Holladay, Sr., officiating.

The altar of the church with its open Bible was flanked by standards holding white chrysanthemums and fern. Mrs. Earl Harris at the organ playing "Romance" by Rubenstein, made a lovely setting for the exchange of nuptial vows before the immediate families of the bride and groom.

The bride attired in navy blue with traditional requirements of something old, something new, wore a La Valliere given to her mother by her father prior to their marriage. The only attendants were Mr. David Gartman who acted as matron of honor.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. F. C. Gartman and the late Mr. Gartman of Columbia. She is a graduate of Columbia High School, attended Belhaven College at Jackson, Miss. and is now a student at Louisiana State University. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi social sorority and a member of Pan-Hellenic Council. Her maternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Miner of Columbia and the paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Gartman of Baton Rouge.

Mr. Holloday is a graduate of the Coushatta High School, attended Centenary College, has a B. S. degree from Northwestern State College and has done graduate work at L. S. U. He was a member of Gamma Pi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi and has been active in the Weslyan Foundation. He is presently employed as teacher and coach in the Baskin High School. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Holladay, Sr. and his maternal grandparents are Mrs. R. Jacobs, Sr and the late Mr. Jacobs of Shreveport. The paternal grandparents are the late Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Scott Holladay of the Louisiana Methodist Conference.

CHURCH TO CELEBRATE

Jena, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—The Shady Grove Pentecostal Church of Jena, Nebo route, will commemorate its 17th anniversary Sunday, Oct. 15, with an all-day service, it was announced this week by the Rev. A. L. Clanton, pastor. An annual event in the life of the church, the gathering will be featured by addresses by founders and leaders of the church and an old-fashioned "dinner on the ground" at the noon hour.

Local Attorney Guest Speaker At Delta Rho Delta Meeting

'No Certainty, But Uncertainty' Subject Of Address By Albin P. Lassiter

"History shows that the vital spark—the creative power of human progress, material and spiritual, resides in the individual, and we all depend upon this spark, because of its essential function in production," Mr. Albin P. Lassiter, prominent Monroe attorney, declared in a most thought provoking address delivered to members of the Delta Rho Delta business and professional women's sorority on Monday evening in the Cameo Room at the Virginia Hotel.

Mr. Lassiter had for his subject "No Certainty, but Uncertainty" and said in part:

"We have come a long way in the past fifty years. There has been remarkable gains made in the half-century—automobiles, radios, electric stoves, washing machines, television, electric iron and typewriter have come a long way. The working people have made progress on the farms with farm implements. The war was won on industrial equipment or power. There are more church buildings now than ever before and more interest is shown in church work; material gains have been made, more lives been saved with sulpra drugs, penicillion and blood plasma. One of the most amazing examples of our progress in the past half-century has been working miracles right before our eyes now for several years and we have scarcely noted it. Just a few short years ago penicillin and sulpha drugs was made in laboratory flasks and naturally it was high. But then, American industry tackled the job of producing these wonder drugs and now a dollar's worth of penicillin will rout dreaded pneumonia. Our citizens have more worldly things, by far, than those of any other nation. There are more places of amusement and recreation, and we enjoy rights and privileges never countenanced in any other country. Not only has the tempo of technological development unprecedented, but the immediate acceptance of new ideas is more widespread than ever before."

"What has happened to Mr. Average Citizen in these United States in the first fifty years we know, but what will happen in the next fifty years remains to be seen. Our individual liberty is disintegrating—disappearing behind the bill of rights."

"A great American statesman has defined "rugged individualism" as an "eulogy of those God-fearing men and women of honesty whose stamina and character and fearless assertion of rights led them to make their own way in life." What better way to describe the builders of America. As business women and men, we know the value and the blessings of freedom. We know how the exercise of freedom has made America great. Suffocating socialism at home, like communism overseas, threatens the America we cherish. An American's greatest heritage is the right to learn the tacts and to speak his mind. Maintained with honor and used with sincerity, that right will guarantee forever that you and your neighbor run America.

But if people don't learn the facts, and don't act on them after learning, it will not be "you and your neighbor" but the socializers and their satellites who will run the country, for they have a pretty strong toe-hold right now.

The following members were present: Miss Bernice McCrary, Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Miss Ann Mickel, Mrs. Cascille Golson, Miss Lillian Glenn, Mrs. Bertha Patterson, Miss Mary Riser, Mrs. Weldon Bates, Mrs. Ruby Warner, Miss Marjorie Ewing, Miss Theresa Thomisee, Mrs. W. J. Fields, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Taylor, Miss Betty Richardson, Miss Mary Ann Ashford, and a guest, Mrs. T. Mickel.

SHERROUSE P.-T. A. HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

The Sherrouse P. T. A. met Wednesday, 3:15 p.m. for the initial meeting of the year, with an unusually large attendance. The meting was opened with the reading of the P. T. A. prayer in unison. Mrs. L. N. Blair led the group in singing "My Louisiana."

Mrs. Raymond John, program chairman, presented the year's program, the theme being "Freedom To Grow." A most interesting and informative program is promised for the year.

Mrs. John introduced Miss Eloise Cann who spoke on "What We Expect of Our Parents." She cited specific instances where parents had given full co-operation and understanding. Some of the ways parents can co-operate are; to see to it that the child has a good night's rest and a good breakfast before coming to school, help establish good study habits and a good schedule for the child, and to be sure a good relationship exists between parent and school. "Together we (parent and teacher) are rearing the child through this year," stated Miss Cann.

Mrs. J. W. Parkerson took the parent's viewpoint and told what is expected of the school. She said in part, "To decide what we want of our schools, let us decide first where we want our children to be at the end of the sixth grade. I believe you will agree that we want interested children, alert, healthy, in body and mind, neither child prodigies nor at the other extreme, a retarded child. We want children ready to take on the bigger adventure of going on to Junior High. Because the child is one person twenty-four hours a day and not divided into parts, with many hours under the home and community influence and so many unrelated hours in school, we can not draw a sharp line between school and home with no overlapping. We must share the responsibility with the school of the development of the child's growth."

"We all have a long mental list of standards of which to measure "a good teacher," but I believe the whole list can be boiled down to one statement: "The good teacher will make the child want to go to school." "The good teacher will have the respect and loyalty of both parent and child. I assure you the teachers here at Sherrouse fill my definition of "a good teacher."

Mrs. W. S. Vincent conducted a 6-6 buzz session whereby the audience was divided into groups of six to discuss for six minutes ways parents and teachers can work together. At the end of the session, reports were given from each group, and a list made of ways to cooperate. Some of the ways listed were: parents and teachers get to know one another; parents discuss with teachers any defect the child might have; inspire in child confidence in the school; parent participation in school activities; help the child do needed tasks; and have more meetings for the fathers.

Mrs. J. Leroy Williams, president, conducted a short business session. Membership chairman, Mrs. Sidney Williams, reported 448 P. T. A. members to date, an increase of 68 over last year.

The new teachers were introduced at this time. Mrs. Vincent told of the home visitation to be made by the teaches the following week. After adjournment refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Miss Caroline Houry And Mr. Ross E. Harrington Wed

St. Anne's Catholic Church In Houston, Texas Scene Of Double Ring Ceremony

A wedding of interest to relatives and friends in Monroe took place at St. Anne's Catholic Church, Houston, Texas, Friday, September 8th, when Miss Caroline Houry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Houry, became the bride of Mr. Ross E. Harrington of Houston and Frost, Texas, in a double ring ceremony with the Rev. J. Glavin, C.S.B. officiating.

The altar was decorated with woodwardia fern arrangements, gladiolas and cathedral tapers. The organist, Mrs. C. L. Fitzgerald rendered a beautiful nuptial concert.

Miss Houry was attended by Mrs. Edward Baker and Miss Marganne Reynolds. They were gowned in Royal blue satin with bolero jackets of royal blue velvet. Their mits were satin. They wore velvet hats of royal blue with streamers and carried yellow chrysanthemums tied with matching ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding gown she wore an original model of white slipper satin. The gown had a full length train. The neck line was square with appliqued lace and seed pearls. The long fitted sleeves extended into off center points over her hands. Her head piece was white lace appliqued onto net with seed pearls and veil of bridal illusion. She was carrying stephanotis and orchids. Mr. Paul Hargraves served the groom as best man. Ushers were Jack Curtin, Sharon Smith, and Ben Reynolds.

The bride's mother wore brown lace over rose taffeta with brown accessories, and an orchid corsage The groom's mother wore pale blue crepe with an orchid corsage.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The house party included Miss Annelle Davis, Miss Jean Jones, Miss Rebecca Matthews, Mrs. M. A. Hawley, Mrs. L. A. Dornburg.

The bride's table was overlaid with a hand made lace and linen cloth centered by a four tiered wedding cake.

For her wedding trip the bride was wearing a wine wool suit with black velvet accessories and an orchid corsage.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Drappelman, of Louisville, Ky., Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Dornburg, Victoria, Texas; Mrs. H. W. Boddie Mrs. J. H. Cheeks, Mrs. S. W. Talbert, Mr. and Mrs. M A. Hawley, Jr. all of Monroe; Miss Louise Oeswein, Louisville, Kentucky; Mrs. Ila Butler, Dallas Texas; and Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Bury, Bandera, Texas.

The bride is a graduate of St. Agnes Academy and the University of Houston. Mr. Harrington is a graduate of Frost High School and the University of Houston.

Stocker Fontelieu Guest Speaker At P. E. O. Meeting

Chapter V, P. E. O. met Monday, October 9, in the home of Mrs. Robert Farr with Stocker Fontelieu, director of Monroe Little Theater, as guest speaker.

Mr. Fontelieu gave a very interesting talk on past work of the Monroe Little Theare, last year's accomplishments, and some of his hopes for the future. He stated that his aim for the Little Theatre was to create thought in the minds of those attending and participating in the plays, whether this thought be in his favor or not.

A short business session was conducted by Mrs. Ben R. Simpson, Jr., president. Mrs. Simpson appointed Mrs. Robert Farr to fill the vacancy created by Mrs. A. P. Curty, Jr., historian, who with her husband is moving to Fort Smith, Ark.

Mrs. H. D. Touchstone then gave a report on the banquet of Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. J. H. Crump, Mrs. H. D. Touchstone, Mrs. D. G. Kiper, Mrs. J. H. Lamb, Mrs. Ben R. Simpson, Jr., Mrs. J. F. Curry and Mrs. A. P. Curty, Jr.

Hints On Buying And Making Drapes

"Be wise with your buys when buying draperies" states Mrs. Mildred Swift. "If about now you are beginning to make a selection of draperies for dressing up your windows, I am sure you'll find you have a wide choice—you can choose a gay chintz or a floral damask—you can spend a lot of money or a little and still obtain attractive and serviceable draperies. You can buy ready made draperies, have them made to order or make them yourself."

The agent states that when buying ready-made draperies, inspect the workmanship to see if . . .

1. The grain of the fabric runs straight up and down or straight across.
2. The bottom hem is adequate, preferable at least three inches wide, to give some allowance for shrinkage.
3. The stitching is neatly done with no loose or puckered threads —stitching in draperies should be loose and long since this prevents puckering of the side edge. Blind stitching should be used.
4. The sides are hemmed—a selvage edge is apt to mean that the drapery will pucker after it is washed.
5. The pleats are amply full, of the same size, and grouped an even distance apart.
6. The pattern falls on the same place in each drapery in material with a large pattern.

Ready-made draperies eliminate all guess work as to how the finished product will look—to buy the material and make the draperies yourself or have them made-to-order usually means a wider choice of fabric and patterns, and makes it possible to upholster or slip cover a chair in the same fabric.

In estimating the cost of homemade draperies remember to include all the materials you will need in addition to the drapery fabric.

Some points you will want to check in either ready-made draperies or piece goods:

1. Check weave—close and firm for type selected.
2. Check colorfastness—excellent colorfastness to light and reasonable colorfastness to washing or dry cleaning. Colorfastness to "gas" or atmospheric fading is also important. If information about the fastness of color to different fading agents is not given, but the material is labeled "vat dyed" you can safely assume satisfactory colorfastness.
3. Check shrinkage—the word preshrunk has no definite meaning. Even when a fabric has been treated for shrinkage, some further shrinkage may be expected and the tag or label should state how much. If there is no statement made about shrinkage, you can almost expect the fabric to shrink from one to two inches per yard.

Current Literature Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr.

The Current Literature Club met Wednesday, October 11th, in the home of Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr.

The meeting was opened with the reading of the club collect, followed by a business session conducted by Mrs. L. M. Frey, president.

Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., program chairman, introduced the afternoon's program which consisted of an article given by Mrs. W. A. Cotton on "Women in the United Nations."

Mrs. Jordan Barton reviewed the book "Virginia Reel" written by Virginia Gilbert. She said in part:

"Virginia Reel was written by Virginia Gilbert and was chosen by the Family Readers Book of the Month Club as first choice a couple of months past. It is the story of the life and antics of Virginia, her sisters Suzanne and Joanne who are only one and two years her junior, together with the ambitions and enterprises entered into by Virginia's mother, who was a mother that knew what she wanted for her daughters and left nothing undone to achieve these ambitions. It is a jolly little book that rolls along with many a chuckle. Virginia Reel is a light novel, like many of the best sellers that have come to the top in recent months, but all in all it is a book that affords real enjoyment and relaxation and can be recommended to really delight the family as a whole."

At the conclusion of the program delicious refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Mrs. Jordon Barton, Mrs. W. A. Cotton,,Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. Leon Dennis, Mrs. C. E. Dickey, Mrs. L. M. Frey, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, Mrs. George C. Reitze, Mrs. Carlton C. Salley, Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. Buddy Tolson, Mrs. W. O. Webb, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., Mrs. Jack Wyatt, Mrs. Ivy McDonald and the hostess.

MRS. DOLLY DOUGLAS HOSTESS AT FINE ARTS CLUB MEETING

The Fine Arts Club met, Tuesday, October 10 in the home of Mrs. Dolly Douglas. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Douglas. Mrs. W. B. Inabnet read a resolution in honor of a former member, Mr. E. Lowry Jefferson:

'Be it resolved that the Fine Arts Club of Monroe, Louisiana, regrets the passing of E. Lowry Jefferson, who has served not only our club but community in many ways so faithfully.

"His wholesome absorption of music and pioneering for our local Civic Music Association brought about better musical appreciation in many groups and individuals. At one instant we behold the loss and feel the void caused by his decease, and in another instant we feel a glow of pride and sense of joy and happiness that we were privileged to know and serve with him.

"The ship which moves into the middle of the stream and puts out to sea must some day come to port, and so it is with all human beings, for all service is but a voyage. In the words of the poet,

"The voyage is done, and with the changing tide

The craft returns to port and to its berth;

With sails now furled and stowed away

It rests in happy quietude."

"So with the sincere regret of all Fine Arts members, Lowry's beautiful voyage has ended.

"Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the club minutes, and that a copy be mailed to members of his family, with an expression of sympathy from all members of Fine Arts Club."

The meeting was then turned over to the program chairman, Miss Eleona Brinsmade. The current events of the present day theater and musical world was given by Miss Gertrude Sandrock.

Mrs. Alta Faircloth and Mrs. C. C. Carroll played the Miserere by Verdi.

Miss Ladelle Duke played the Triumphal March from Aida.

Miss Gertrude Sandrock sang "O Don Fatale" from Don Carlo. She was accompanied by Frank Parker at the piano.

Mr. Leon Hammonds played the piano quartet from "Rigoletto".

Miss Louise Moore told of the life of the artist, Sir Edwin Landseer and displayed some of his pictures.

The meeting adjourned and delicious refreshments were served by the hosts and hostesses: Mrs. Dolly Douglas, Mrs. Willie Mae Wafer and Mr. Joe Craig.

These present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Cale, Mrs. Geraldine Carroll, Mrs. Hal Carter, Mr. Joe Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dartez, Mrs. Dolly Douglas, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Miss Ladelle Duke, Mrs. Alta Faircloth Mr. Leon Hammonds, Mrs. Wilhelmina Inabnet, Mr. and Mrs. Everette Lawson, Miss Louise Moore, Mrs. Birdie Mae Milhearn, Mr. Frank Parker, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Willie Mey Wafer, Mr. Lloyd Walters.

Judge Sarah T. Hughes Of Dallas, Texas, Elected National President At Recent Convention

Judge Sarah T. Hughes, of Dallas, Texas was elected to the office of national president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. at their biennial convention in San Francisco, California, July 1950.

Judge Sarah T. Hughes, of Dallas, Texas was elected to the office of national president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. at their biennial convention in San Francisco, California, July 1950.

Judge Hughes has an enviable and remarkable record of service, as she has made outstanding contributions to her country, her state and her county. A graduate of Gocher College, in Baltimore, Md., where she received an A. B., she also possesses an LL. B. from George Washington University in Washington, D. C.

In October of 1922 she was admitted to the District of Columbia bar and the Texas bar, and in January of 1937 was admitted to the supreme court of the United States.

Judge Hughes was elected to the Texas legislature in 1931, and was re-elected for the terms beginning January 1, 1933 and January 1, 1935. She has served as judge of the 14th district court since 1935 (when appointed by Governor James V. Allred); elected for four times, twice unopposed in 1940 and 1948.

In 1937 Judge Hughes received the alumni achievement award from George Washington University. The east Texas Chamber of Commerce awarded her in 1941 for distinguished service in county government and in 1946 she was the recipient of the Zonta Service Award.

In the national federation, also, Judge Hughes has been a rich contributor. She served as president of the Dallas Business and Professional Women's Club and as president of the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and as national 2nd vice-president, 1948-1950.

She was awarded an LL. D degree from Goucher College in June 1950.

Her other civic club offices include: member board of directors, civic federation of Dallas; vice chairman, Texas citizens committee on mental health and Texas citizens committee (on economy in state government). Her professional affiliations are: Dallas Bar Association, State Bar of Texas; American Bar Association; American Judicature Society, National Association of Women Lawyers. Judge Hughes belongs to the honorary fraternities of Phi Beta Kappa; Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary educational fraternity; and Delta Sigma Rho, honorary debating fraternity.

Judge Hughes and her husband maintain a home in Texas.

CUT WEDDING CAKE

Mr. and Mrs. John Mercer Benge shown cutting their wedding cake following their marriage which took place in September. Mrs. Benge is the former Miss Marjorie Elizabeth McCarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wayne McCarty, Sr. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. E. H. Benge and the late Mr. Benge of Shreveport.

Miss Marjorie Elizabeth McCarty Weds Mr. John Mercer Benge

Ceremony Solemnized In First Baptist Church In West Monroe On October 7

One of the loveliest and most impressive weddings of the season united in marriage Miss Marjorie Elizabeth McCarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wayne McCarty, Sr., of this city, and Mr. John Mercer Benge, son of Mrs. E. H. Benge and the late Mr. Benge of Shreveport. The ceremony was solemnized in the First Baptist Church of West Monroe on Sunday, September 17, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The vows wer eexchanged before an altar banked with baskets of white gladiola, astors, and fern accented by crystal candlbera supporting slender white tapers.

Mrs. Thomas Fields at the organ rendered a beautiful prenuptial concert while Mr. Samuel Britton and Mr. Tommy Colvin, appropriately dressed in formal summer attire, lighted the tapers.

Miss Beverly Aldridge, soloist, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Thomas Fields, sang in beautiful voice "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly." She chose ballerina length orchid organdy for this occasion.

The traditional wedding marches from Lohengrin and Mendelssahn marked the beginning and end of the ceremony. Mr. Edmund Keith gave a splendid rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" at the end of the ceremony.

Mrs. Tommy Colvin of Baton Rouge, sister of the groom, served the bride as matron of honor. She was dressed in ankle-length pink organdy and carried an arm bouquet of white astors with matching satin streamers. She wore a halo of smaller astors in her hair. Miss Carolyn McCarty, only sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She was similarly attured in aqua ankle-length organdy. Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Jo Jones and Miss Marianne Scarbrough of Overgreen, both of whom are very close friends of the bride. They wore dresses similar to those of the honor attendants in shades of orchid and pink organdy.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, was radiantly lovely in a floor-length gown fashioned of ice blue satin with a fitted bodice buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The yoke of white lace was outlined with seed pearls and extended to the shoulders. Sleeves were long and came to a point over her hands. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible surmounted by a single white orchid with tube roses and white satin streamers.

Faye Nolan of Shreveport served the groom as best man and ushers were Damon Bankston, Samuel Britton, and John Wayne McCarty, Jr., brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. McCarty chose a dress of burgundy crepe with black accessories. The groom's mother was becomingly attired in a model of black and white crepe with black accessories. Both wore corsages of feathered carnations.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the banquet hall of the church.

The bride's table, which had been arranged by a close friend of the family, Mrs. John Lewis, was very lovely indeed. A unique arrangement of astors and tube roses flanked by candles in crystal candlebra formed the center piece. The central decor was the three-tiered wedding confection which was topped by a minature bride and groom and encircled by ivy entwined with tube roses.

Presiding over the table were Misses Robbie Benion and Mary Lou Young. Mrs. Albert Colmer presided at the bride's book.

For traveling, the bride changed to a becoming tailleur of brown and white linen with white accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet. Upon their return the young couple will make their home in Baton Rouge.

Mrs. Benge is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana State University. She received her B. S. degree in science in 1949. She was a member of Start High School faculty during the session 1949-50. Mr. Benge attended Byrd High School and Louisiana State University, having received his B. S. degree in 1949. He is presently connected with the agriculture extension department.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Allen, Jr. of Alexandria, formerly of Monroe, announce the birth of a son, John H. Allen, III, Wednesday October 11. Mrs. Allen is the former Helen Fernandez of this city, daughter of Mrs. H. J. Fernandez. The baby's paternal grandparents are the Rev. and Mrs. John H. Allen, Sr., who reside in Georgia.

Delta Kappa Gamma To Meet In Mangham

Lambda Chapter will be hostess at the regional meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma to be held at Mangham, La., on Saturday, October 28. All members of this region are urged to attend.

Dr. John S. Kyser of Northwestern State College at Natchitoches will be guest speaker at the luncheon. His topic will be "The United States at the Mid-Century Mark." There will also be a panel discussion which should be of interest to all members.

Several state officers are planning to attend.

TWIN CITY PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION COUNCIL MEETS

"The trend toward something for nothing is getting very strong in this country," stated Mr. Jack Sherrouse when he explained the plans of the Junior Chamber of Commerce for "Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism Week' at the meeting of the Twin City Parent-Teacher Association Council on Thursday. This trend is not found in business alone, but also in schools and at home.

The speaker brought to mind how America was founded by religious groups with strong family ties and we are getting away from it every day, thereby losing family strength.

Mr. Ralph Brice spoke in behalf of "National Employ thePhy Physically Handicapped Week", and explained that handicapped people can hold good jobs with good pay. The greatest need is for them to be taught confidence in themselves and this can be started during school years. There are several agencies to help handicapped people to be trained and placed on a job.

During the business session, it was stressed that council meetings are being made interesting and each school should make a definite effort to have more representatives in attendance. During the May meeting a prize will be awarded the unit that has had four or more members present at each monthly council meeting. The Twin City Council is a clearing house for all local unit problems and advantage should be taken of this opportunity to iron out any difficulties that may arise.

Announcement was made of the fall meeting of the Fifth District P. T. A. to be held at St. Matthews new gymnasium on October 16th. The five general officers of the council were elected official delegates.

A letter of resignation was read from Mrs. O. B. Copeland, treasurer, and Mrs. Ione Hill was introduced as new treasurer. Mrs. Carl J. Thompson reported good results of the council school of instruction held recently and stated that there were 128 in attendance, with 10 units receiving certificates for having 10 or more representatives present.

Mrs. C. P. Guerriero, President, annouced that the following awards were made in the "Help the Handicapped" poster contest: First award to Barbara Lindsay; second award to Frances Wellerman; third award to Jeanine Renfrow. The first award was $10; second $5; and third $2.50. Receiving honorable mention were Anna Mary Johnson, Catherine Mc Nabb and Eugene Epinette.

Unit presidents were reminded of the trophy to be awarded at the December meeting to the local unit showing the greatest increase in membership over last year.

Dr. Robert S. Reich To Speak Before Garden Clubs Monday

The Welcome Garden Club will have as its co-hostess the Home Garden Club when they meet in the Northeast State College Auditorium on Monday, October 16th, at 2:30 p. m. Dr. Robert S. Reich, a faculty member of LSU at Baton Rouge, will be the speaker, and his subject will be "Landscaping."

Monroe is indeed fortunate in getting Dr. Reich her to speak before garden club members and guests. Since this is a subject vitally important to all Monroeians who are interested in the beauty of their city, the invitation is extended to the public. A record attendance is anticipated.

A small fee will be charged non-members.

New York State residents, who comprise 9.9 per cent of the national population, own about 16 per cent of the life insurance in force throughout the country.

Want a long run for your money?

Better Buy Buick!

YOU want a new car to be tops in things like style and room and comfort and power——and a thrill-packed fifteen minutes with the nimble number pictured here will show you it has all these things in abundant measure.

So you ask us—how about money? What does it cost to buy a Buick—and to own one?

All right—let us ask you some questions.

Take first cost. Do you know that Buick prices start down at a level below what you'd pay for some sixes—and that every Buick, on a cents-per-pound basis, is a standout buy?

Take operating cost. Do you know that the bang you'll get from Buick's Fireball power comes from a valve-in-head engine—recognized by engineers as a thrifty saver of fuel?

Do you know that owners of 1950 Buicks are writing us rave letters, saying that this year's version is the most economical Buick ever built?

Do you know that such comfort features as coil springs on all four wheels protect the car as well as the passengers—and throw in an extra saving because they need no servicing, and are practically breakproof to boot?

Do you know that Dynaflow*—in addition to keeping you fresh as a daisy on a day-long drive—caps its convenience with savings on tires, cuts down the strain on transmissions and engines—and eliminates all friction clutch repairs, because it hasn't any?

Take final cost. Do you know that when the owner of a Buick gets a yen for a later model, the prices that Buicks command on a used-car lot are the ultimate proof of their long-run value?

So if you want a real run for your money, better buy Buick. And the first step is very simple: Go see your Buick dealer—soon—and get an order signed.

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT—This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.*

Barbara Van Cleave Bride Of Leviga Dolphus Joiner

Marriage Vows Exchanged At Home Of Bride's Parents In Gibsland

In a ceremony of quiet simplicity, Saturday, October 7, at the home of her parents, Miss Barabara Van Cleave, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Winlock Van Cleave of Gibsland, became the bride of Leviga Dolphus Joiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Singleton Joiner also of Gibsland.

The marriage vows were exchanged in the late afternoon, with soft candlelight offering a picture of serene beauty.

The brick fireplace banked with southern smilax formed an improvised altar. Adorning the mantel above was an arrangement of giant white chrysanthemums, and stock with greenery placed before a reflector.

Preceding the nuptial vows, Mrs. Robert Pitts Thomas sweetly sang "I Love You Truly." "Clair De Lune" was heard softly throughout the ceremony.

Miss Van Cleave, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a blue plum wool crepe afternoon dress fashioned with a high neckline, tight-fitting wrist-length sleeves and a pencil-slim skirt. Breaking the severity of her gown were two pointed folds near the shoulder, with two similar creations at the hipline giving the skirt a false peg-topped effect.

The bride chose a sweetheart-shaped gray velvet hat with self-colored veil and a tiny jeweled clip for accent. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. For "something old" she carried a pure linen handkerchief trimmed with hand-knitted lace, which had been in her family for eighty years.

Her bridal bouquet was of white glamelias and stephanotis tied with knotted satin ribbons.

Miss Vanette Keith, of Shreveport, serving as her cousin's only attendant, was wearing a spruce-green crepe dress accented with black velvet. Her hat and accessories were also black velvet, and her bouquet was of yellow glamelias and harmonizing knotted satin ribbon.

The groom's brother, William Travis Joiner, served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Van Cleave chose a costume dress of rich chocolate brown with matching accessories. Mrs. Joiner, mother of the bride-groom, wore a fall suit in a brown tone, with brown accessories. Both wore bronze orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony the reception was held in the dining room. The bride's table centered by her bouquet was overlaid with an imported cut-work linen cloth, and lighted by tall white tapers in crystal candelabra.

The three-tiered, rose-embossed cake, topped with double wedding bells and two love birds, was placed at one end of the table on a large reflector outlined by white maline. The crystal punch bowl was placed opposite it.

Creamy-white candles in brass holders flanked the maid-of-honor's yellow glamelias on the sideboard, furnishing complimentary color tones for the bride's table.

After the bride and groom cut the first slice, Miss Marie Joiner of Shreveport served the cake while Mrs. William Burkhalter, also a sister of the groom, poured the punch. Mrs. Charles Roberts, Mrs. Mark Ringheim and Mrs. Winston Jaffrion, aunts of the bride, assisted in the courtesies.

Mrs. Bess Thomas presided over the bride's book, which was placed or a low chest lighted by white tapers in a three-tiered brass candelabrum decorated with white maline, stephanotis and ribbon.

The bride attended Northwestern State College and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute where she was a member of Theta Upsilon sorority and Blue Jackets. The groom is an alumnus of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. He is a member of Lamba Chi Alpha, social fraternity, Delta Sigma Pi, honorary fraternity and Society for the Advancement of Management, business fraternity.

Following their wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Gibsland.

Among the out of town guests not mentioned above were Mrs. Mary Frances Joiner of Calhoun, grandmother of the groom; Mrs. Fannie W. Van Cleave, grandmother of the bride; Tom Keith, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Durrett and children; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Van Cleave and son of Springhill; Mrs. Winston Jaffrion and son of Marksville; William Lovelace of Arlington, Va.; Mrs. Charles Roberts and sons of Minden; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Ringheim and sons of Monroe; Miss Dolores Huckaby of Bienville; the Rev. and Mrs. Charles McCullin of Fryeburg; and Thomas Robert of Winnsboro.

One of the loveliest parties given for Mrs. Joiner was on Friday evening, prior to the rehearsal for their wedding, Miss Barbara Van Cleave and L. D. Joiner were honored with a supper given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pitts Thomas.

A silver bowl holding pink camellia sasanqua and flanked by white candles in silver candelabra gracefully adorned the mantel. At other vantage points in the reception room there were attractive arrangements of pink dahlias and white althea.

The bride's table was lovely with its central decor composed of pink and white rosa montana in a crystal bowl over a reflector. Seated with the honorees were Miss Vanette Keith of Shreveport, Edward Howell, Miss Dolores Huckaby of Bienville, and Travis Joiner.

The small tables were decorated with dainty arrangements of rosa montana, and bore cards marking places for the following: Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Van Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Joiner, the Rev. and Mrs. Roy Collum, Jr. and the hosts.

SERVE AT JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE TEA

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

With "October's bright blue weather" just perfect for hikes and other out-of-door activities, and with Girl Scout Week almost here, Scouts are just as busy as bees with plans for fall and winter.

Unfortunately, all the girls who would like to share in this kind of fun and work, do not have an opportunity. It takes adults who like girls and have fun with them, too, to make it possible for more girls to become Scouts. With Eunice Forman, who did such a splendid job as council president, as chairman, the organization committee is on the job of finding leadership for all these girls.

A brand new troop of intermediates has been formed at Ransom School with Mrs. W. B. Hilburn and Mrs. S. C. Matthews as leaders. The girls are happily at work on Tenderfoot requirements and expect to be invested at their meeting on October 24.

Girls at Sterlington are to have an intermediate troop, also, with Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. C. E. Dickey, as leaders. Congratulations go to Sterlington, which has long been interested in Boy Scouting, on giving some attention to Girl Scouting.

Homemaking is an important field in the Girl Scout program an a popular one with the girls. The girls of Troop 16, working on their Second Class rank, have chosen to learn how to put in a hem, sew on buttons, and mend a tear. Patrol leaders for the troop, which meets at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, are, Nita Dell Allen, Jane Blake, and Mildred White. Leaders are Mrs. Nellie McKaskle and Mrs. J. R. White

An enthusiastic group of girls in the first year intermediate program is Troop 4, Mrs. Louis Turner and Mrs. Tilden Austin, leaders. Working on Second Class literature and dramatics at last week's meeting, the girls gave an original dramatization of "Hansel and Gretel", as well as other skits. The troop has also planned ahead for Girl Scout Week. They'll under take a piece of community service on citizenship day of that week

At Lida Benton School Troops 19 and 20, the two fourth grade troops, had their first meeting together in the patio at the school and liked the idea so well that they have combined into one troop, with Mrs. G. D. Burkett and Mrs. W. E. Chitty as leaders. With singing and games and refreshments the girls had a real party for their first meeting, with Mrs. B. K. Owens helping the leaders. The girls took time out for the thoughtful gesture of sending a card to Jean Rogillio, who was absent because of a broken arm. Troop 20 has a faithful troop committee which meets regularly in order to give backing to the troop. Mrs. J. D. McKiethen is chairman of the committee, which receltly has a meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Rogillio, at which time the members made plans with the leaders and voiced their appreciation of the work done by Mrs. R. W. Glaholt, who was the leader last year.

All were sorry that the Rev. George Pearce and family moved from the city, but no one was more sorry than Troop 7, of which daughter Glenelle was a member, nor Troop 27, which has been sponsored by the Memorial Methodist Church. The girls of Troop 7, Mrs. W. V. Roy and Mrs. Sidney Williams, leaders, had a going-away party in honor of Glenelle as their first activity, presenting her with a Brownie gift.

Troop 27 attended church in a body on the last Sunday that the Reverend Pearce held services and afterward Martha Ann Williams in behalf of the troop presented the pastor with the gift of a book of poetry for remembrance. Mrs. N. L. Huckabee and Mrs. A. W. Wiley are leaders of this troop.

By next Sunday we'll have news of other troops and plans galore for Girl Scout Week. Call the office 1736 and let us in on our plans.

Claiborne P.-T. A. Has Regular Meeting

The regular meeting of the Claiborne P.-T.A. was held Wednesday at the Claiborne School Cafeteria.

In the absence of the program chairman Mrs. Orie Hatten, the program built around the theme, "Freedom To Grow Through Health," was presented by Mrs. M. L. DeFreese. The following members took part:

Community Singing led by Mrs. Maxine Elliott.

P.-T.A. Prayer, in unison by the members.

Leader, Mrs. Ben Davis, participants, Mrs. J. D. Fordham, Miss Marguerite Norris, Mrs. Morris Robinson.

Mental Health for the Family: Miss Marguerite Norris.

Mrs. Joe Emery, the president, announced that Claiborne P.-T.A. won a certificate for attendance at the School of Instruction. She also stated that the Fifth District P.-T.A. meeting will be held Oct. 16, at St. Matthews School and urged a like representation at this meeting. Delegates elected were: Mrs. Chas. Feazel, Mrs. Marie Wallace, Mrs. Fred Riser.

Recommendations of the Executive Committee were read, and the budget for the year submitted. This budget is estimated to be $500, and the finance committee set in motion plans to raise the first installment by giving a Halloween Carnival.

Mrs. J. C. Dickerson, membership chairman, gave a spirited appeal for members and at the conclusion of the meeting had secured 134 members, again over last year of three members.

Mrs. James Rutledge, told of the number of subscriptions necessary to secure the National President's citation, stating that she plans to see Claiborne' P.-T. A. on the honor roll.

All parents of the community were invited to be present at the school Oct. 24, United Nations Day, and witness the Flag Raising ceremony.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Fred Riser and other members of the hospitality committee served refreshments.

"SPARKLE" and "JACKIE" BOY-GIRL DOLL SET

They Sing—They Cry—They Coo—Breathe—Sleep. They sit down. They are almost human. They have magic skin — so soft, looks, feel and wrinkles like a real baby's. Girl Scout Basic Leadership Course To Be Given

A Girl Scout basic leadership course will begin Wednesday morning, October 18, at 9:30 at the office, 412 Hall Street and will continue for four sessions, the others being held on Thursday, October 19, and on Wednesday and Thursday, October 25 and 26. Contents of the course will include such topics as troop government, planning with girls, girl behavior, troop financing, Girl Scout policies, program fields, ranks and badges. Songs and games and crafts will be added to the meetings.

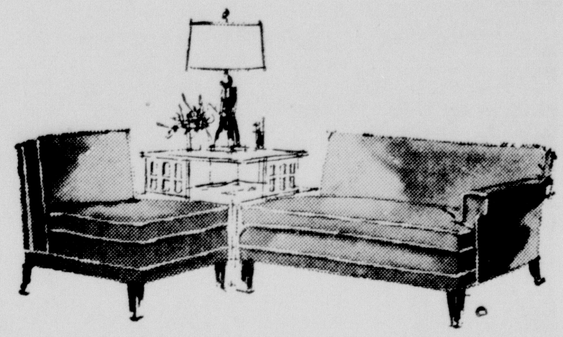

Troop committee members and mothers of Scouts are especially urged to attend the second session, Thursday, October 19, when the new filmstrip "Troop Committee at Work" will be shown for the first time.

All leaders, assistants, troop committee members, who have not yet had leadership training should enroll for the course attending as many sessions as possible, according to Mrs. F. H. Burke, training chairman of the local council. She explained further that no obligation is involved and that any interested person may attend. "Training is one of the most important functions carried on by the Girl Scout Council, a Community Chest Agency", said Mrs. Burke, "because we feel that a trained leader is usually a good leader".

MORNING COUGHS and Asthma

Do you cough and cough, especially mornings and at night? Do you choke, gasp for breath, wheeze and often can't sleep? The cause of these devitalizing symptoms may be recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma. In such cases, the very first dose of MENDACO usually starts right now, working through the blood and thus reaching lungs and bronchial tubes, to help relax that clogged up stuffy feeling in the bronchial tubes, then helps Nature loosen and clean out thick, strangling phlegm. This helps you get good fresh air into your lungs and promotes restful sleep. Ask your druggist for MENDACO. Satisfaction or money back guaranteed.

has become a nation-wide institution, and is celebrated in every one of the 48 states. It is observed each year during October to pay tribute to the accomplishments of business and professional women. The president of the United States, governors and mayors, officials and business men pay tribute to the federation and its service to the community, state and nation. The federation, in turn, is most grateful for their assistance and cooperation.

National Business Women's Week was conceived in 1928 to call attention to the achievements of women in business and in the professions and to give the community at large an opportunity to become acquainted with the program of the national federation. National Business Women's Week also offers an opportunity to clubs in launching their year's work to relate it to the community and arouse public interest in its objectives.

Miss EmmyLou Biedenharn Speaks On 'Personal Prerequisites Of Ideal Teacher'

Guest Speaker Appears Before Local Student Chapter Of The Music Educators National Conference

Miss Emmy-Lou Biedenharn spoke recently on "Personal Prerequisites of an Ideal Teacher" when she appeared before the local student chapter of the Music Educators National Conference. It was the first program meeting of the Northeast Louisiana State College group.

The speaker urged chapter members to search for the qualities necessary to success. "Students should not wait until a professional beginning is upon them to consider these vital factors," she said. "The time is now to realize and cultivate those qualities which are within and let them be developed all along the way."

She warned young musicians against floundering through their student days. If this happens, "You may flounder throughout life."

Tremendous courage also was a prerequisite of teaching which Miss Biedenharn stressed. Once the student has found his purpose, he should permit nothing to discourage him in attaining the ideal. If he is sure that his purpose is worthy, then he should surmount everything with courage in attaining this goal.

The making of an ideal teacher calls for great understanding, the speaker asserted. One must first understand himself, then seek to understand others, she explained.

Rating high on the list of personal prerequisities was infinite patience. Success means finding the cause of difficulties of others, Miss Biedenharn declared. Having patience to see through these problems may mean possible attainments and enriched lives. She encouraged students in trying to develop more patience in their own work.

The fine teacher wil possess sincere appreciation, along with other qualities. "Cultivate it," she said. "Know the reality of deep appreciation for the least of things now and it will reward you all through life."

Simplicity was an essential characteristic of the ideal teacher which the speaker described. "Do not seek to mimic," she warned. "Your best self will be the finest which you, as an individual, can experience." In the very greatest of people, there is an amazing simplicity, she concluded.

Inspiration is necessary for the strong teacher, according to Miss Biedenharn. When things seem dark, know that you have the light within, she said. When one walks into a dark room and touches the light switch, the gloom is dispelled immediately. "It is as simple as that," she commented. "Let the light within you, your own inspiration serve you through life in exactly that way and you will not fall short of your highest purpose."

Miss Biedenharn referred to Sir George Henschal, her vocal teacher in London, and others of great renown in America and abroad who meant much in her experience.

Another feature of the meeting was Miss Jane Wallace's playing two brilliant South American preludes by Alberto Ginastero.

Attending the program were: Miss Cloteal Jones, president; Mr. Joe Monroe, vice-president; Miss Jane Wallace, secretary-treasurer; Misses Joan Bandy and Jane Evans, co-reporters; Mrs. Florance Allbritton, faculty sponsor of the MENC chapter. Other members were: Miss Jonnie Bankhead and Messrs. Roland Carter, John Enders and Charles Littleton.

Special guests were members of the Northeastern music faculty, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl and Mr. Stanley Hodges, Jr.

Following the meeting, the group enjoyed a luncheon at a local restaurant.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA SOCIETY MEETS IN RAYVILLE SUNDAY

The Lambda chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met in Rayville Sunday afternoon, October 8.

During the business session plans for the regional meeting of the society were discussed. Lambda chapter is hostess for the regional session, which will be held at Mangham High School, October 28. State officers of Delta Kappa Gamma will attend the regional meeting.

After transaction of business an interesting program was given by Mrs. R. N. Alexander and Mrs. Earline Sartor. Mrs. Alexander gave a most practical talk on the topic, "Developing Inter-Group Relations Through Public Schools." "Democracy Demands Cooperative Living" was discussed by Mrs. Sartor in a most inspiring manner.

The following members were present: Mrs. R. E. Whatley; Mrs. Helen Y. Yerger; Miss Velma Colvin; Miss Ola Cooper; Mrs. Gladys S. Ward; Mrs. Mary S. Underwood; Mrs. Mable Nash; Mrs. Marie G. Hester; Mrs. Christine McConnell; Mrs. Lellah H. Lyle; Mrs. Pearl Floyd; Mrs. C. E. Rundell; Mrs. E. W. Alexander; Mrs. J. H. Wilson; Miss Pearl LeFevre; Miss Margaret M. Neuman; Mrs. Earline Sartor; and Miss Blanche Miller.

Mrs. M. Eloi Girard of Lafayette was a guest of the chapter.

After the excellent program, Richland parish members served a delicious salad plate.

The next meeting of Lambda chapter will be in Tallulah, La.

can any cosmetic really make a woman look younger?

Beauty soaps and beauty creams. Lotions, rouges, powders. Dozens of cosmetics can make you prettier—on the surface. But when nature slows down and telltale lines trace your skin, only one preparation known to science can actually help a woman look naturally younger. That is a well-formulated normone cosmetic such as Endocreme Hormone Cream. Easily absorbed, Endocreme's female hormones act beneath the surface to supplement nature's lack and help offset the usual causes of ageing skin. By all means use your regular cosmetics. But use them for what they are—surface aids to beauty. To actually improve the skin itself, to recapture and keep a more youthful look, make daily use of Endocreme. A month's supply, only $3.50 plus tax.

MONROE LITERARY CLUB ENTERTAINED IN HOME OF MRS. J. H. DRAKE

The Monroe Literary Club was very delightfully entertained in the home of Mrs. J. H. Drake at their regular meeting on Wednesday, October 11, 1950, with Mrs. A. M. Kite co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. J. W. Womack, opened the meeting with the reading of the club collect.

The subject of the day was "Protective Laws for Women." This discussion was brought to the club by the very capable young lawyer, Mr. Paschal Norris. After Mr. Norris' talk he invited the members to ask questions pertaining to this subject. Many questions were asked and Mr. Norris gave some very enlightening information about the laws concerning women of Louisiana.

During the business session which followed the club's budget for the year was given by Mrs. Ira Lee Massey, finance chairman.

The club voted to buy some tickets to the Civic Music Association and present them to the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home. This is a project that is carried out each year.

Mrs. J. W. Womack reported to the club on the Jaycees week designated as "Democracy-vs-Communism" and the club's plan to aid.

The club voted to sponsor a card party to be held at the Virginia Hotel Ballroom on Monday, October 23, 1950. The following committees were appointed:

Mrs. C. D. McAdams, general chairman, and Mrs. Ira Lee Massey, co-chairman.

Decorations: Mrs. Guy DuPriest and Mrs. J. D. Kelly; refreshments: Mrs. D. A. Altick, Mrs. W. T. Ellis and Mrs. J. E. Shannon.

Prizes: Mrs. John Dillon and Mrs. J. S. Worley; tickets: Mrs. E. W. Lockhart and Mrs. J. F. Coates.

Advertising: Mrs. J. E. Baugh; tables and cards: Mrs. J. H. Drake and Mrs. J. W. Womack.

A social hour followed and the hostesses, Mrs. J. H. Drake and Mrs. A. M. Kite, served delicious refreshments to the guest, Mrs. N. Klam, and the following members: Mrs. D. A. Altick, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. John Dillon, Mrs. W. T. Ellis, Mrs. R. M. Kettenring, Mrs. Ira Lee Massey, Mrs. C. D. McAdams, Mrs. J. S. Worley and Mrs. J. W. Womack.

YWCA ACTIVITIES

YWCA Board and Membership

On Friday, October 20th, at 2:30 p.m. the annual meeting of the Y. W. C. A. will be held. The Rev. DOROTHY DIX

Breaking The Ice

Boy Asks How He Can Establish Closer Relationship With Father

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a boy of 18, going to college away from home. I have a fine father and mother and a brother of 20. My father has worked hard and has been fairly successful. He has been very good to us, but he has been so busy he has not had time to talk with my brother and myself about our problems. I long to confide in him, but when I try to talk to him I go dumb. Now I want to talk over the girl proposition with him. He thinks I am too young to go steady with a girl, and that I should go with lots of girls and have lots of friends. He says that I have plenty of time before I should think seriously about girls. But both my brother and I disagree with him on that point. How can I get close enough to my father to tell him anything I want to?

DOROTHY DIX

A CONSTANT READER

ANSWER: I doubt if children ever really get to know their fathers well enough to talk freely to them unless they begin their acquaintanceship when they are babes. If the father has never chummed up with his boy in childhood, a wall of reserve that neither can break down is built up between them. This is a great misfortune to both, for the father is nearly always more anxious for the boy's confidence than the boy is to give it, but he is as paralyzed when it comes to approaching the boy as the boy is when he tries to make advances to him.

PROBLEM IS WIDESPREAD

It is literally true that there are thousands of children whose only speaking acquaintance with their fathers consists in asking for something. They have never sat down and had a talk with their father in their lives. They have no idea of what Father thinks about anything on earth. It would amaze them beyond measure if they were told that Father would be pleased to death if they would show him the slightest sign of affection; that they would feel more honored if Johnny and Susie would give him their confidence than he would with an audience with the President. No doubt your fathers feels this way about you. I urge you to take your courage in both hands and tell him just exactly what you have written me. I'll bet that he will meet you more than halfway, and, after you have broken the ice, you will find that he is the most sympathetic and understanding person in the world to you.

His advice to you and your brother about girls is the very essence of wisdom. At 18 you are too young to know what real love is. It is just a passing fancy that you will get over and you will be so glad if you are not messed up in any entangling alliance.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a friend who should be happy as the day is long. Has a lovely home, a good husband, two beautiful children, scores of friends, yet she is so miserable she is contemplating suicide. And what do you think she is brooding about? She wants to be the thinnest person going, starves herself, hasn't eaten a square meal for ages and is so snappy she can't speak a kind word even to her little girl. I know this is a mental state, though what brought it on I couldn't say. If she could only be jarred out of it I would be glad to do the jarring, but I don't know what to do. Can you suggest something?

MONICA

ANSWER: Of course, what's the matter with her is hunger. People on a diet are always as irritable as sore-headed bears. Semi-starvation has the same effect on humans as it does on other animals. It makes them snappy and snarly. We have to be well fed in order to be amiable.

Your friend seems to have an aggravated case of the living-skeleton complex and I doubt that there is any cure for it, since once a women gets obsessed with the mania for reducing herself to a bag of bones she is deaf to the warnings of her physician and the pleas of her family, and blind to the ravages that malnutrition is making on her looks.

The only suggestion I can make to you about dealing with a woman who is willing to wreck her health and her family in order to be thin is to send for a psychiatrist and have her head examined. Perhaps the idea of sending her to a home for the feeble-minded might jar her into using a little intelligence, if she has any.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have promised to marry a young man the first of next month. He is the main support of his widowed mother. There are two married daughters, but for some reason she doesn't go to stay with them except for an occasional week end. The mother expects my fiance to take care of her. He makes a very small salary. I don't mind that, but I don't like the thought of having his mother with us all the time and having to take care of her as she is sick a great deal. What about it?

NANCY

ANSWER: I think you should decide this matter very definitely before you marry and have it thoroughly understood whether the man's mother will make her home entirely with him, or if she will divide up her time between her daughters.

Don't wait until after you are married and then consider yourself a martyr because you have to take care of a poor old sick woman. Either don't marry him, or be a sport about it.

THE READER'S CLIQUE MEETS AT BAYOU DESIARD COUNTRY CLUB

Mrs. B. J. LaCour was hostess to the Reader's Clique at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Walter Ryland, Jr., and the collect was read in unison. A short business meeting was held and future plans for the club were discussed.

Mrs. Mike John, Jr gave a very interesting report on a meeting she had attended, as a representative of the club, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The subject of this meeting was "Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism" week. The club has offered their services and plans were announced for participation in this worthy civic enterprise.

Mrs. Mildred Swift was the featured speaker of the afternoon. In her very efficient manner she gave a very beneficial talk on "Preparing Foods for Freezing."

Mrs. Swift said, in part: "A woman's biggest job is preparing three meals a day and a home freezer helps makes meal preparation easier. Always read the instructions for operating that came with your freezer.

"Freezing is the easiest method of food preservation. Be sure food is clean, fresh, sealed air tight and frozen quickly. Vegetables should be blanched to inactivate enzymes to stop aging of food Sugar should be added to fruits to stop their action.

"Work quickly with small amounts of food when preparing them for the freezer and be careful not to overload the freezer as this slows down the freezing process. Freeze meats in meal size portions and prepare poultry just like you want to cook it—whole, halves, or cut up."

Mrs. Swift advised calling her office for a freezing bulletin.

The following members and guests were present: Mrs. T. F. Wilson, Mrs. Walter Ryland, Jr., Mrs. Henry Menuet, Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. Evans Ethridge, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. B. J. LaCour, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. Mike John, Jr., Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Ray Updegraft, Mrs. Oliver Lowery, Mrs. A. G. Olcott, Mrs. Lewis Peters, Mrs. Edwin Crowley, Mrs. Jimmie Harbuck, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. R. A. Kelly and Mrs. Mildred Swift.

Women Voters Jaycee Guests

There will be no general meeting of the Monroe League of Women Voters on Monday October 16, the regular meeting date. Instead all members of the league have been invited by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and are urged by the president of the league, to attend a luncheon at the Virginia Hotel on that date at 12 o'clock (noon). At this luncheon the J. C.'s, as a part of their program, Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism will present John Temple Graves who will discuss some phase of this. As this is a topic in which all leaguers are vitally interested, the organization will gladly postpone the October general meeting until a later date. Members will please watch the daily newspapers for the exact date of this meeting.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Lake Providence Couple

Mrs. Rubye Nelson Guenard And Mr. Golden Leigh Levy Wed In Monroe

Mrs. Rubye Nelson Guenard and Mr. Golden Leigh Levy, both of Lake Providence, were united in marriage, in a double ring ceremony, in the Cameo room of the Virginia Hotel on Sunday, October 8, at high noon. Dr. F. Hirsch, Rabbi at B'Nai Isreal Temple heard the vows.

The bridal party faced the fireplace, mantel of which was banked with salmon gladioli interspersed with branched candelabra. The same flowers filled floor baskets which flanked the group.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Robert Sidney Guenard of Lake Providence, and was lovely in a dressmaker's suit of smoke grey, with beaded pocket trim. To complement the charming grooming she added a blouse of lighter grey crepe and baroque of pearls and rhinestones, with matching earrings. A grey velour cloche trimmed in ostrich tips, black suede pumps with cut steele buckles and black broadcloth handbag and twin shoulder corsage of orchids added charm to the tailleur.

The bride's only daughter, Mrs. Henry William Bethard III, of Coushatta, was her attendant. She wore a banker's grey suit with green accessories. Her face framing calot was trimmed with pompon plumes, and she, too, wore a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Mr. M. L. Levy, of Lake Providence, served his brother as best man.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, in the same setting, a luncheon was served the bridal party, attending relatives and friends. The feature decor was the double heart wedding cake, which was served with champagne.

After the luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Levy left for a two weeks wedding trip in New York. Upon their return they will make their home in Lake Providence, where the bride is clerk of court and the groom a successful merchant.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Levy, Judge and Mrs. Frank Voelker, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Guenard, Sidney C. Guenard, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Guenard, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Guenard, A. M. Nelson, Jr., Sheriff McFarland Long, Mrs. Anna R. Pinkston, Mrs. W. F. Trieschmann, Miss Ida May Cobb, Mrs. Leon Minsky, Frank Byerley, all of Lake Providence, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Levy of Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. Sim B. Lesler of Louisville Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo W. Moore and daughter Hilda Nancy and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Kern of Bastrop, Mr. and Mrs. Henry William Bethard, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry William Bethard, III, of Coushatta, James Hortaire Guenard, Jr., of Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Silver of Vicksburg, and Mertie L. Bloom of Tallulah.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Ouachita Parish Public Library is cooperating in every possible way with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in their program of democracy vs. Communism and Socialism which is being observed all over the State of Louisiana this week. The leaders of the Junior Chamber of Commerce realize that education and information in regard to the different idealogies will do more to stop their spread than any other method. Communism and Socialism appeal to the ignorant and uneducated. The Louisiana State Library has prepared a list of books on this subject. The lists are available at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. A great many of the books are in the local collection. Others can be borrowed from the State Library in Baton Rouge.

Some of the books of special value are: "The World's Best Hope" by F. B. Biddle. This is a discussion of the role of the United States in the modern world; "We Hold These Truths" by S. G. Brown includes primary documents of American history, noted speeches, and some important supreme court decisions. "The God That Failed" by R. H. S. Crossman was written by six former Communists who show their complete disillusionment with communism. "A Little Democracy is A Dangerous Thing" by C. W. Ferguson is a reaffirmation of the true meaning and purposes as well as the powers of democracy. "This I Do Believe" by D. E. Lilenthal is a sound, sober and thoughtful testament of faith in the democratic process and in the possibility of attaining good ends by good means. "The Ramparts We Guard" by R. M. MacIver is one of the best critical interpretations of American democracy and the perils it faces.

"Education In A Divided World" by J. D. Conant is a sane, tolerant and wise exposition of the crisis now faced by America. "The American Democracy; A Commentary and Interpretation" by M. J. Laski is written by a British social philosopher, who does not approve of our capitalistic system. "Treason" by Nathaniel Weyl is a most interesting book giving stories of conspiracies and subversive activities against American democracy from Revolutionary days through recent cases of disloyalty and espionage. A most valuable book is the new title "How To Win An Argument with A Communist" by Ray Wesley Sherman. This book contains all the questions a Communist is apt to bring up and how to overcome them.

The Louisiana state library also has six 16mm films that can be loaned to groups or organizations dealing with the subject of democracy. These films may be borrowed through your parish library. If you think you are going to want to use one of these films, be sure to ask for it at once.

It behooves every one of us to help the yung people of our cuntry appreciate the advantages of democracy, so that they will be ready when approached by the insidious propaganda that the Communists distribute. The Ouachita parish public library is an educational institution and is eager to do its part in this work.

FREEDOM OF RELIGION...

"Congress shall make no law respecting An establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise there;" . . . . . Amendment I of Constitution—Dec. 15, 1791

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship.

"And God spake all these words" . . . .

Thou shalt have no other Gods before me.

"Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity; of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; and showing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

"Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: but the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

"Honour thy father, and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

"Thou shalt not kill.

"Thou shalt not commit adultery.

"Thou shalt not steal.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.

"Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbor's."

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF MONROE
Grammont at Catalpa

Ernest Duncan Holloway, minister.

Sunday, October 22, three in the afternoon the second annual standard Training School Leadership School gets under way. Are you interested in the progress of Christian education and person enrichment? If you are, then you will want to enroll. We anticipate a large number.

"Do I have to go to church?' is the theme of the morning message. This is the question asked, and under the guidance of the Holy Spirit it will be answered in the light of experience, the testimony of the saintly and the Word of God.

"Allegiance to a Dream" is the subject of the evening meditation. Dreams are potent in spirituality, and essential to the will to live on the higher plane.

A hearty welcome awaits you at all hours of worship. If this is your church, God expects you to be in your pew. If you have no church home, you are invited to worship with us.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
D'Arbonne Avenue at Harrison
Two Blocks South of Northeast College

H. L. Reinhardt, pastor.

Sunday School and Bible classes are conducted every Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m. Your children are cordially invited to attend and to learn of their Savior.

Morning worship is conducted at 10:45 a.m. every Sunday. We preach Christ and Him crucified. We urge you to come and to bring your friends.

On Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. the Ladies Aid Society of the congregation will meet at the home of Mrs. A. Johnson at 1016 North Seventh St. All of the ladies of the congregation are urged to be in attendance.

Have you heard the Lutheran Hour recently? You are cordially invited to tune in to KLIC (1230) every Sunday afternoon at 12:30 p.m. and hear as "Christ is brought to the nations."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 15, 1950.

The Golden Text is: "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins" (I John 4:10).

Listen to a 15-minute radio broadcast Sunday at 9:30 a.m. over radio station KNOE. Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. Sunday service at 11:00 a.m. Wednesday service at 8:00 p.m. Reading Room at 135 North Second street open daily from 10:00 to 5:00, except Sundays and national holidays.

CHURCH

PRODIGY KILLS DRIVER OF C...

Once Tried To Choke O... Mother For Saying 'Ain't'

Atlanta, Oct. 4.—(AP)—An intellectual prodigy who once tried to choke his mother for saying "ain't" was held today on a charge of murdering a cab driver with a rifle in a public park.

Handsome Harry (Hal) Irwin, Jr., 22, who became a licensed attorney at 18, was turned over to the law by his mother after she quoted him as coming home and announcing:

"I killed a man for you tonight."

That was Wednesday. Mrs. Lois T. Irwin, 48, said she was not sure whether to believe her son—he had told so many wild, imaginative tales. But the next day she learned that Cabbie Monty Jack Whitmire, 28, had been found dead in his cab in the park.

She dragged herself to the telephone and, Deputy Sheriff Hugh Cromer reported, told him, "I'm afraid Hal's mixed up in this."

The officers arrested Hal and booked him yesterday for murder. He will get a police court hearing Monday.

Mrs. Irwin said her son, treated at the state mental hospital last year, was always brilliant. He could memorize anything but couldn't seem to apply it. "He knew the words, but not the music," the mother said.

"He loved good grammar," she went on, "and once when I said 'ain't' he grabbed me by the throat and throttled me."

She also told how, after her husband lost his business and left home, she slaved to support and educate her two sons and pay for glandular injections for Hal—a treatment which she said seemed for a time to help him.

Young Irwin frequented Atlanta courtrooms in bow tie and immaculate dress. He could cite the law by volume and page but had trouble making a living from it.

His mother said he heaped on her blame for all his failure and frustration and that after he tried marriage and it, too, failed, he began to abuse her physically. She displayed knife scars on her wrists.

"He couldn't hate himself," she said, "so he hated me and blamed me for everything that was wrong with him."

Sheriff A. B. Foster said "Irwin is definitely the killer." He said the youth admitted the murder but was hazy on the motive and other details.

Detective J. W. Ellington said he believed the slaying stemmed fr... a crime thriller movie the yo... lawyer saw Wednesday.

Bible Comments

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Bible has been called "God's book for man's life"—and very properly so, for that is just what it is.

But the Bible is not one book, but many. It came out of a great range of time, at least a thousand years, possibly more. These books were by various authors, and others apparently collected their writings, so that there were editors, as well as authors.

In the wide range of their writing and editing they reflect different times and conditions. II Kings 1:10 tells how Elijah called down fire from heaven, and consumed fifty; but when James and John (Luke 9:54) wanted Jesus to call down fire and consume villagers, who used Him despitefully, "as did Elias," Jesus rebuked them, saying, "Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of."

All of which, I think, goes to show with what care and intelligence the Bible must be read and studied, if it is to be in truth and reality "God's book for man's life.' For some have read it to their detriment and shame, while others in their zeal have made it the text-book of their intolerance and persecuting fervor, missing entirly its deepest message of love and grace.

I have recently purchased Bibles to send to my two grandchildren, and in my mind has been the question, "Would I send them just as they are, without any note of guidance whatsoever?" I finally decided to send with them some word of guidance, singling out for them the passages of the greatest interest and beauty and offering them as they grow older a proper prspective in the reading of the entire Book.

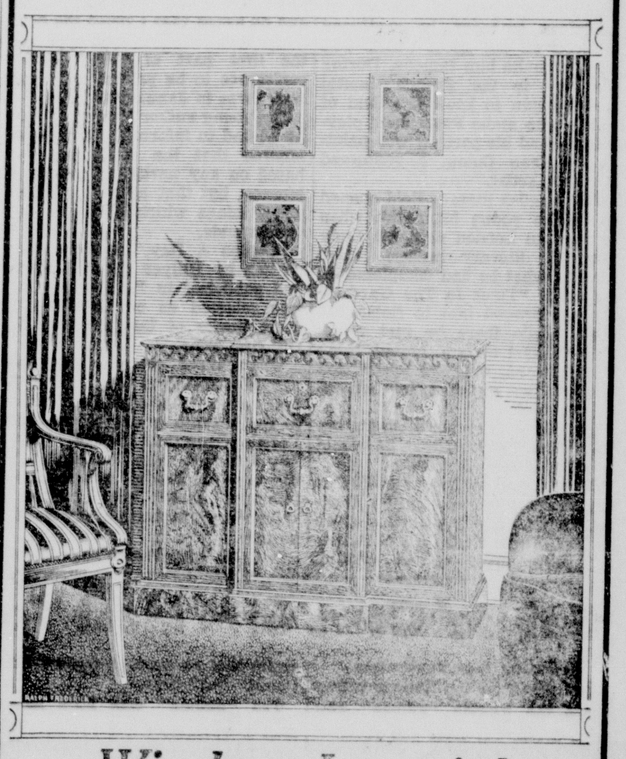

The first of these ways is the one usually followed—putting the Bible into the hands of young and old, with no, or little, word of suggestion or guidance, trusting that they will find and see in the Bible all that the giver himself knows.

It seemed to me that it might make a great difference to these little girls, and to that love of the Bible that I hoped to induce in them, if, instead of such a story as that of Jesus blessing the little children, they should happen upon the story (II Kings 2:24) of Elisha cursing and destroying her children. I wanted to make sure that they would know the Bible as a book of life, and read the words of Jesus, before they ever happened to read records of violence and cruetly.

I wanted them, if they ever read of such things, to read of them in the light of what Israel learned concerning God. And if they happened to read how Abraham, in a serious lapse, lied concerning his wife (Genesis 20:2), I wanted them to know that great pioneer and man of faith set peace so much above self-interest, that in the matter of seeking peace the world has not caught up with Abraham. (Genesis 13).

So, along with the Bibles, I am sending to these children an introduction to the Bible that I have put in rhyme. I hope it will make the Book of Books a book of grace, glory, and blessing, as it has to me. Perhaps some day I may make this available for the grandchildren of others.

Native Son Proclaimed Youngest Author In U. S.

Hillyer Speed Lamkin Breaks Into Writinf Field With 'Tiger In The Garden'

The city of Monroe has become distinguished in the literary field by having one of its native sons named as the youngest successful author in the United States.

Hillyer Speed Lamkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, was born in Monroe on November 2, 1927. He has only one sister, Marguerite. The family has lived in Louisiana since the author's great grandfather, Francis P. Wall, settled here on the strength of a large land grant from the king of Spain. The family is also related to the first Whig editor of a Natchez paper who is related to the Lees of Virginia through the Speeds of Kentucky and Virginia. A member of the Speed family served in the cabinet of Abraham Lincoln. He is the nephew of Mrs. T. G. Easterling and Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, both of whom greatly encouraged him in making writing his career.

His first novel "Tiger In The Garden" composes a long road of background, stated the author.

The novel, which depicts the adjustments which a wealthy southern family must make to survive in the modern world, was started by Speed on a boat en route to Europe.

While in Paris, where he was training for foreign service in the American embassy, he continued to work on the novel which was later to make him famous. During his stay in the French capital Speed began to know the field of artists who make Paris their playground, and his portrait was painted by Jean Cateu, a renowned Parisian artist.

The English literary field opened up to the young Monroyan when he went to London and met Lady Curnard, literary hostess. After reading what he had completed on his novel "Tiger In The Garden" she encouraged him to finish the book. While there he met many distinguished writers, among them Noel Coward, who told Speed that he had the material for an excellent book.

The youngest author in the United States decided then that he would make a career of writing.

He returned to the United States and spent Christmas in Washington, D. C., attending parties given by Mrs. Perle Mesta, the outstanding party giver of the capital. While there he also visited the White House and met many of the important people connected with the government.

When he returned home he submitted the material which he had completed on his novel to a very dear and close friend, Mrs. Clyde Brown, who also gave him the encouragement which he needed in deciding his career and constructing his ideas into a novel.

Upon returning to Harvard, which he had left in 1947 after obtaining a leave of absence, Monroe's native son embarked upon the task of finishing his novel.

The author stated that the circumstances under which the book was published were of the most unusual nature and that he would like to relate them to his friends. "I had a date for dinner with a very nice young lady, and having become somewhat involved in my novel I forgot about the date. The young lady, Alice Nelson, came to my boarding house and without my knowledge read over my shoulder for at least a half hour before I realized that she was there. She sat down and read my other material, which took her until 5 a.m. in the morning. It so happened that at the time she was a reader at Houghton-Miflin Publishing House, and later informed the publisher of the novel which I was writing. The publisher got in touch with me and asked that I submit to him what I had written. I did so and he asked that I finish the book for publication. The book appeared the first part of 1950." 250,000 copies are to be printed in pocket book form in January of 1951.

The young author announced that he wished to inform the citizens of Monroe that the novel was not based on any particular person in Monroe, but that an author writes about things which he knows and understands.

"Comes A Day," a short story written by Hillyer Speed Lamkin, and published in "Mademoiselle," was selected as one of the best short stories of 1950 and won the O'Henry prize.

When asked when he first became interested in the art of writing, Speed reported that it began in the seventh grade at Ouachita Parish Grammar School. "Mrs Lewis Slater, who taught me in the seventh grade, was a great influence. Under her direction I became valedictorian of my class," he said.

"At Ouachita Parish High School in the Ouachita river. Mrs. E. B. Stover and Miss Sally Humble encouraged me to write while there, but I still had the inclination to write fiction."

Speed won first prize of $100 in the Spanish Auxiliary contest for a short story while at Ouachita Parish High School.

After graduating from high school the young author enrolled at Harvard. "When I entered Harvard I felt as if I were in a whole new world, even a different planet," asserted Speed.

"I wrote a short story about a man at a funeral to try and receive enrollment in a competitive short story contest. To my amazement I was accepted. I received the knowledge from that course that the only way to write is to write, and that vast reading is a good prerequisite."

It was during this time that he created for himself a world in the image of F. Scott Fitzgerald, and visited Long Island for the primary purpose of reading his literary hero in the proper setting.

Hollywood now called to the young author for an option on his novel, "Tiger In The Garden" with Warner Brothers Studio. Speed is also writing a screen version of "Comes A Day" for RKO.

When arriving in Hollywood Speed was shown around the film colony by Marion Davies, who introduced him to many celebrities.

At the present time the young author is at work with Christopher Isherwood, author of the "Berlin Stories," on a play, which is to be called "Sally Bowles." Tennessee Williams assisted the two authors in the structure of the play.

Speed is also working on a new novel "Easter Egg Hunt," which concerns itself with a young southerner who marries a girl from Texas and falls in love with an actress who is dying.

Hillyer Speed stated that he had a long road ahead of him, and that it would take a lot of work for the achievement of being a writer.

Monroe is proud of her native son and will be eagerly awaiting the publication of his future novels and short stories.

Monroyan Attends Aircraft Meet

Kelly AFB, Tex.—(Special)—Maj. William E. Barber, Jr., Monroe, participated in the four-day conference held here Oct. 9-12 of aircraft maintenance officers from al' of the world-wide stations of the USAF's military air transport service (MATS).

The conference, held at MATS' continental division headquarters, included discussions on the various technical phases of maintaining the fleets of huge four-engine transports operated on a global scale. These include those employed on the Pacific airlift in support of the U. N. forces in Korea, as well as the aircraft used by MATS' communications, weather, and rescue services .

Scientist Invents New Type Lens For Glasses

By Alton L. Blakeslee

Southbridge, Mass. —Dr. E. D. Tillyer's inventions total 150, and he's working on more. The 68-year-old research scientist has been with the American Optical Co. here for 35 years.

His latest patent is for double-duty sun glasses that brighten dark, hazy days, and darken glaring sunny days. This lens cuts out most of the blue portion of light, and haze is caused by fine particles of dust or moisture that diffuse more blue light than yellow or red rays. These lenses were used by pilots and ski troopers in World War II.

One of Dr. Tillyer's first inventions here was development of precision spectacle lenses, giving an accurate field of vision over the entire surface of the lens. Previously, lenses varied in magnification power from their centers to margins.

During World War II he developed a speedy method of making Schmidt-type correcting lenses for military night-viewing instruments. These lenses take wider angles than any others, and are used for television projectors, and for faster X-ray pictures.

Another Tillyer invention was special glass for use in movie projectors, to reduce heat that might make film catch on fire.

He has developed welding glasses, instruments to test vision, trial lenses for eye test, new methods of controlling light reflections on glass, and a process of annealing optical glass for better lenses.

One glass that resists the corrosive action of hydrofluoric acid was used early in A-bomb work.

Dr. Tillyer also developed a method of cutting thin, wafer-like crystals of quartz. The crystals control radio transmission wave length.

His list of inventions started long ago when he was with the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

Right now, Dr. Tillyer is exploring other "interesting possibilities," as he puts it, without giving details. For, he says, "there is still much work to be done to extend the frontiers of optical science."

SMITHS COME UP WITH THIRD SET OF TWINS

Dan Smith, a machinist in the Ford Motor plant at Cincinnati, and his wife are all smiles with their third set of twins born in a hospital at Hamilton, O. "It didn't surprise me," says Papa Smith. "I was kinda' expecting it." At left are the eight-year-old twins, Geraldine and Pauline. Father Smith holds two-year-old twins, Donald and Ronald. In bed with Mama Smith are the new-born twin boys who haven't been named yet. Smith is the father of 10 other children.

'Guinea' Cows Give Meat To Little Buyers In Florida

(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

Vero Beach, Fla.—Nobody knows where the Florida "guinea" cow came from, but after 400 years it has developed a future.

W. E. Sexton is seeing to that. He crossed it with the big, humped Brahma and developed a midget strain that answers a demand for smaller beef cuts.

The "guinea" was little more than a varmint when Secton took over four years ago. It supposedly was brought over by the Spanish when Florida was new and men still sought the foutainn of youth.

It wandered the hinterlands as a wild cow through all Florida's history. Sexton got his breeder from the wilderness around Kenansville in mid-Florida.

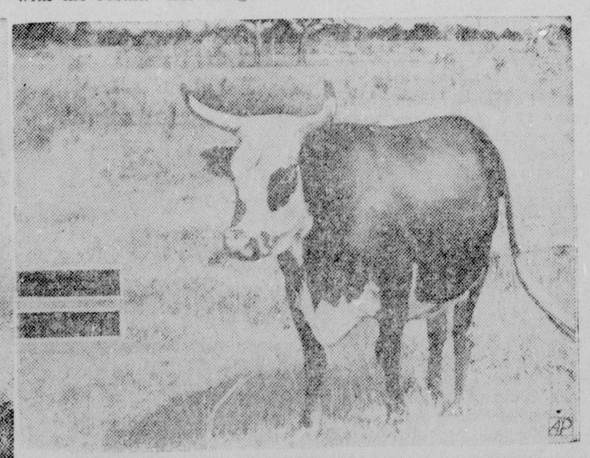

Most cattlemen were breeding for bigger and better strains when Sexton announced four years ago that he planned to produce a midget with the "guinea." They laughed at him. Now Sexton is doing the laughing.

His aim was to produce a veal calf that would average 250 pounds in 120 days. He crossbred his pygmy with the big Brahma, an East Indian strain, and he is happy with the result. His midget averages 301 pounds in 120 days. It fattens on grass, not grain.

He has topped the Kissimmee livestock market three times for prices, and he is so cocksure of the future that he has organized the American Guinea Breeders Association. Sexton holds all its offices.

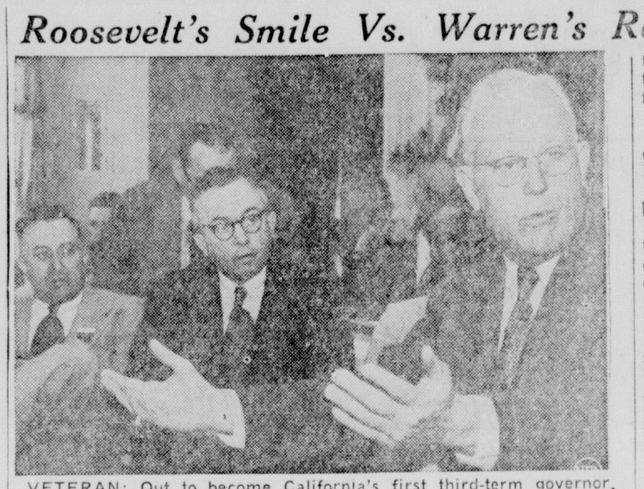

INGREDIENTS—A Brahma bull and one of the wild "guinea" cows of the Florida wastes.

THE RESULT—A fast-growing midget steer, grass fattened

Roosevelt's Smile Vs. Warren's Record

VETERAN: Out to become California's first third-term governor, Earl Warren campaigns on his non-partisan record.

By Sam Archibald

Sacramento, Calif. — (NEA) — James Roosevelt, balding and bespectacled son of FDR who has his father's famous smile, would be an awfully hard man to beat if he had an issue on which to campaign.

That is the analysis by California politicians of Jimmy's vote-getting power. Even without an issue, they concede, he is a man to reckon with when the ballots are counted.

But Jimmy Roosevelt, Democrat, is making his political debut against a Republican who has an issue—and is also a man to down. California's Gov. Earl Warren has yet to win a national election, but he has yet to lose one on his home grounds.

It is a race for the governor's mansion, which Warren already has occupied for two terms with his wife and six sons and daughters, a family just about as well-known in California as the Roosevelt family is known across the nation. Whichever way the vote goes, however, it wall have reverberfations in the 1952 national race.

Earl Warren is emphasizing his non-partisan record of progressive accomplishments which put him among the top candidates for the Republican presidential nomination twice before and may give him the top position in 1952.

Roosevelt is hoping Democrats in the state—who have an edge of 1,000,000 votes over California Republicans—will vote for him instead of voting for Warren's non-partisan program as they have in past years. Although he insists his only ambition is to become governor of California, political observers are certain Jimmy will try for a higher national office, maybe in 1952 and maybe later, if his first political venture is successful.

Statistically, Warren holds a strong lead so far with a total primary vote of 700,000 greater than Roosevelt's. The Republican governor's vote lead was made up largely of Democratic ballots due to California's cross-filing system which allows a candidate to run in both party primaries.

Jimmy has the somewhat grudging support of the Truman administration—grudging because Roosevelt led the Eisenhower for president boom before the 1948 Democratic convention. But Warren has blocked much of this backing on the major issue of civilian defense by pegging the state defense program directly on Truman's recommendations. These did not include mass evacuation centers in the Sierra Nevada, which Roosevelt proposed in case of atomic attack.

Jimmy has been stumping the state the past month in a special sound truck. He draws crowds with his engaging smile, his F. D. R. mannerisms, and tells them in cultured accents and homey phrases that Warren's record as a progressive is a phony one. He is asking Democrats to vote Democratic in the state elections as they did for his father and for Harry S. Truman in national elections.

Meanwhile, Warren has been combining government and politics, pushing a civilian defense program and other emergency matters through a special session of the legislature. In a final whirlwind campaign he is telling voters that his six and a half years of progressive government qualify him to be the first governor to serve a third term in California's history.

Jimmy has had the helping hand of his mother—the former First Lady—at California political rallies. But he sometimes ignores helping hands, as he did during a long-distance word-battle between the Roosevelts and Governor Warren, when Jimmy was challenged to name a state administration more progressive than Warren's.

While Jimmy's supporters searched for a Democratic state they could use as an example, Jimmy himself took over and gave the New York Republican administration under Thomas E. Dewey as his choice.

Among the California legislature, in the same poll that gave Republican Senate Candidate Richard Nixon the nod to beat Democratic Candidate Helen Gahagan Douglas, the feeling that Warren will win again is high. Eighty lawmakers put down their guesses; 72 gave their private opinion as politicians that Warren will stay in the mansion at Sacramento.

NEOPHYTE: In his political debut, James Roosevelt gets a hand frm his mother and Senate candidate Helen Douglas (right).

Louisiana And Entire Nation Join In Outstanding Jaycee Program

'Democracy Vs. Communism And Socialism' Week Brain-Child Of Howard

By Evelyn Moore

In 30 Louisiana cities and towns where Junior Chambers of Commerce are located, this week, October 15 through October 21, has been officially proclaimed "Democracy versus Communism and Socialism" week.

For Jaycee state president, W. L. "Jack" Howard, young Monroe businessman, the big week means fulfillment of one of the major planks in the platform which resulted in his election at the state convention in Baton Rouge last spring. President Howard has been working on the project since he first went into office, meeting with all chapters and securing cooperation from fellow Jaycees throughout the state.

Louisiana's week of "Democracy versus Communism and Socialism" will serve as a model for the entire United States for the program has been adopted by the national Jaycees as their number one project under Americanism, to be staged in the early part of 1950.

In discussing the plan, Mr. Howard explains, "The purpose is to instill in the people of our state an awareness of the dangers of communism and socialism and point up specific features of life under a free Democratic government as opposed to regimented life under other forms. We've had four statewide meetings to discuss this particular presentation and the Junior Chambers of Commerce over the state have a well-rounded program organized and ready to go."

Today is "Go To Church Day." Jaycees as well as ministers of all denominations are making a determined effort to fill the churches to overflowing with record-breaking attendance at every church in the state.

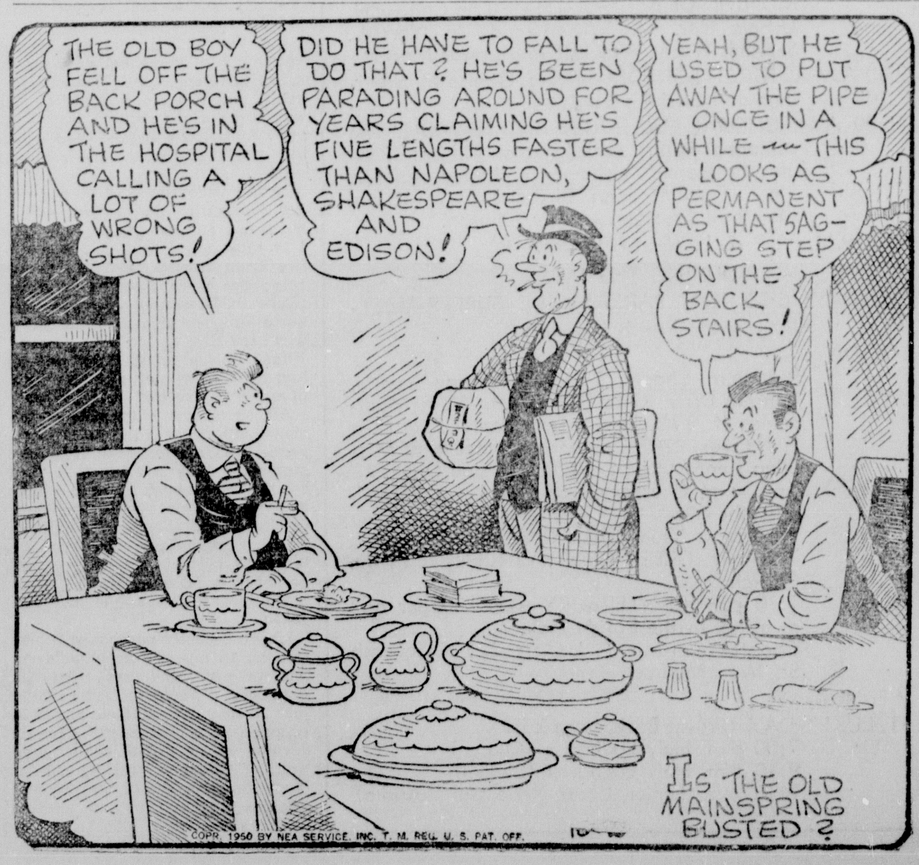

"Jaycees believe that Christianity is the basis for our way of life and that all the principles for which Americanism stands can be attributed to Bible teachings," Mr. Howard continued.

In support of the above belief is the statewide Bible quiz. All churches are urged to select their best Bible student, boy or girl between the ages of 16 and 20. Local contest eliminations will provide winners eligible for competition in the state finals to be conducted by Jack Howard in Monroe Saturday afternoon, October 21, at the youth rally. The boy and girl state winners each will receive a scholarship to Harding College in Searcy, Ark.

Throughout the state every day this week will stress a particular facet of democracy. Events scheduled are designed to reach individual citizens, showing the individual that he can have and must have a part in his democracy. Yes, it will be a busy week . . . a worthwhile week . . . the Jaycee's week of "Democracy versus Communism" is everybody's week.

JACK HOWARD

AT THE PARAMOUNT

Shown above are Joseph Cotten and Linda Darnell in a scene from the current attraction at the Paramount Theatre, "Two Flags West," a story of high adventure, conflicting loves, hates, and pride.

Star-Studded Cast Featured In 'Two Flags West' At Paramount

Joseph Cotten And Linda Darnell Head Players In Historical Film

A star-studded cast brings to life the story of "Two Flags West," historical adventure spectacle based on a little known irony of the Civil War, opening a four day engagement today at the Paramount Theater. In the starring roles of "Two Flags West" Twentieth Century-Fox is presenting Joseph Cotten, Linda Darnell, Jeff Chandler and Cornel Wilde, one of the luminous quarters of any film year. To assure a production that would be authentic as well as pictorial, the studio dispatched the troupe of 165 artists and artisans to San Idefon so, New Mexico, actual locale of this story of 1860's, for the seven-week filming assignment.

There, under the guidance of Producer Casey Robinson, whose organization of the modern caravan must have been one of the year's great tasks, and Director Robert Wise, in whose charge lay the artistry that would go into reconstructing the pageant of history on film, "Two Flags West" took shape. Paramount Theater patrons will see tomorrow is the drama of Confederate soldiers captured by the Union army and granted amnesty to aid in fighting the Indians in the west. This entirely new subject, based on overlooked persidential proclamation which made it possible, becomes the basis for a personal epic of action and romance.

The story centers on Confederate Colonel Clay Tuker, played by Joseph Cotten, who has accepted the amnesty offer of northern Captain Mark Bradford (Cornel Wilde) and been sent to Fort Thorn, New Mexico, commanded by order-barking Major Henry Kenniston (Jeff Chandler). There, to help shape the crux of the tale, Cotten meets up with Linda Darnell, portraying Elena Kenniston, beautiful young widow of the major's brother, secretly loved by Chandler and a former sweetheart of Wilde's.

Amid Civil War and Indian fighting and documented history, "Two Flags West" tells its own human drama. In its top billed foursome it has peculiar assets with which to do so. Cotten, fresh from his triumphs in "The Third Man," returns to American films in a rugged kind of role new to his fans. Miss Darnell, whose performances vary in style from "A Letter to Three Wives" to "No Way Out," but never in excellence, also has a change of pace in her present assignment. Chandler, who lately proved himself as the noble Indian chief of "Broken Arrow," reverses himself as the disgruntled Indian fighter of "Two Flags West," and proves again that in his time an actor plays many parts. And Cornel Wilde, who has played everything from Chopin to "The Walls of Jericho," is back in the kind of outdoor thriller at which he has long excelled.

AT THE JOY TODAY

Charles Coburn, playing the screen father of Babara Lawrence and Diana Lynn in Universal-International's Technicolor "Peggy," questions the presence of a letterman's sweater in their room in this comedy scene from the new film. Charlotte Greenwood is also starred in "Peggy," the delightful story of Pasadena's famed Tournament of Roses Parade.

'Peggy' Brings Colorful Rose Tournament To Screen At Joy

Diana Lynn And Charles Coburn Starred In Colorful Comedy Hit

Combining the colorful pageantry of Pasadena's world - famous New Year's Day Rose Parade with a barrel of howlarious belly-laughs, Universal - Internal which opens today at the Joy Theatre, emerges as one of the brightest comedies of the year.

With the present trend in Hollywood pointing toward semi-documentary film fare, it is puzzling why the moviemakers haven't pointed their cameras at the Pasadena Tournament of Roses before this. The great flower-covered floats, bands and horsemen, plus the climactic Rose Bowl football game, which are fitted into the story of "Peggy," become topnotch entertainers under the skilled hand of Director Frederick deCordova.

Luscious Diana Lynn, in the title role, gives a piquant performance as the contestant for Rose Queen honors who doesn't want to win. Monocled Charles Coburn again proves why he is one of Hollywood's greatest assets sets in the comedy role of the frustrated father. Charlotte Greenwood scores again and again with her role as the domineering next-door neighbor who won't take "No" for an answer. Barbara Lawrence, who portrays Diana Lynn's sister, exudes vivacity as the girl who eventually becomes Rose Queen. And in the male romantic division, "Peggy" fires a double-barreled direct hit with Rock Hudson, as the Ohio State football star, and Charles Drake, cast as a Pasadena junior executive, winning their share of laurels from the all-star accompanying cast.

On-the-spot filming of "Peggy" pays off remarkably well as the Technicolor cameras are directed at such famous Souther california landmarks as the Pasadena railway station, Mt. Wilson observatory, Pasadena City College campus, the University of Southern California and—of course—the route of the New Year's Day Rose Parade and the jam-packed Rose Bowl.

Split peas, simmered with a ham bone and served as a thick puree, is a delicious dish found among French families in eastern Canada. It makes an excellent Sunday night supper dish when teamed with crusty bread and a green salad.

COMING TO JOY THURSDAY

Jean Peters and Paul Douglas make an appealing twosome in Twentieth Century-Fox's new comedy about Chicago's gangs during the prohibition era of the 1920's, "Love That Brute," which has been scheduled as the next attraction at the Joy Theatre. Cesar Romero, Keenan Wynn and Joan Davis play featured roles.

'Love That Brute' At Joy Theater Thursday

Neatly combining a fast, fresh and funny screenplay and a nostalgically pleasant harkback to the roaring twenties, "Love That Brute" set itself solidly with audiences at the Joy Theatre opening Thursday. In a farcical take-off on the Chicago gangster reputation of that period, "Love That Brute" casts Paul Douglas as a mobster chief who must maintain his prestige in the gangs by rubbing out his share of a rival gang's members. The catch is that Douglas is a soft-hearted, generous guy who couldn't really hurt anybody, and all his "victims" prove to be living a leisurely, luxurious life in the basement of the gang chief's home.

With Douglas in rare form and Jean Peters as the lovely lady he falls in love with and for whom he must prove his innocence, "Love That Brute" has a winning star team. Cesar Romero is back in a suitable role, as the rival gang leader who, unlike Douglas, isn't kidding one bit when he dispatches his boys to take Douglas on that last ride.

The principal flavor of "Love That Brute" however, is one of laughs. When the Douglas-Romero rivalry is temporarily off screen, there's an abundance of comedy on hand from the starry supporting players. No less a trio than Joan Davis, Keenan Wynn and Arthur Treacher is present to pad the laugh ballot in "Love That Brute."

Miss Peters, in addition to her more obvious charms and talents, breaks into song on occasion. The embellishments in the Karl Tunberg-Darrell Ware-John Lee Mahin screenplay are all welcome and effective, but primarily it's the picture's unique comedy twist that gives it that special sparkle.

Next time you make a cake with a packaged mix frost it with an orange-coconut concoction. Just cream three tablespoons of butter or margarine with two cups of confectioner's sugar and thin with a quarter cup of orange juice until it is smooth. Beat in a quarter cup of shredded coconut before spreading on the cake. This makes about one-and-one-half cups of frosting.

Warners' 'Pretty Baby' Romantic Comedy, Due

Not in years have advance reports indicated such nilarious satire on the advertising business as has been incorporated into Warner Bros.' new romantic comedy, "Pretty Baby," which begins its local engagement on Friday at the Paramount Theater. In fact not since "The Hucksters," the Clark Gable starrer.

Betsy Drake, who soared to film fame in a few short years, co-stars with handsome Dennis Morgan in the story of a zany mimeograph operator employed by advertising executives, Morgan and Zachary Scott, who becomes their favorite secretary, especially when she captures the fancy of a tyrannical client, played by star Edmun Gwenn.

Incognito, Gwenn, an irascible old tycoon, overhears Betsy mention naming her baby after him. Honored by this unsolicited act, he speaks to her employers, and she becomes an overnight success in business. What he doesn't know is that the 'baby' is a blanket-wrapped doll utilized by Betsy to get her a seat on the subway. Here, a comical situation develops when the unmarried girl is required to explain the presence of the 'baby', and Gwenn threatens to blacklist the agency unless Scott, whom he suspects of being the father, promises to marry Betsy. What follows provides much of the comedy, high-lighted by Morgan's rendition of the title song while standing atop an unsteady ladder.

Hares are born with their eyes open and covered with hair, while new-born rabbits are blind and naked.

CUSTOMS INSPECTOR TERRY AND THE PIRATES

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF INSPECTOR

by GEORGE WUNDER

I TRUST YOU GENTLEMEN KEPT YOUR "RUBBER BUYERS" COVER INTACT ON YOUR WAY HERE TO MALAYA. ANY INCIDENTS?

ONE, SIR. TWO MEN IN AMERICAN UNIFORMS APPROACHED US. ONE CLAIMED TO BE A WORLD WAR II BUDDY. I DIDN'T REMEMBER HIM.

THE OTHER NEEDLED US ABOUT BEING IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES. IT COULD HAVE BEEN A TRICK TO MAKE US TALK.

REGARDLESS OF WHO THEY WERE, IT WAS GOOD PRACTICE IN THE ART OF DISCRETION.

SPEAKING OF WHICH, TERRY, CHUM, DIDN'T YOU GET PALLY WITH THIS JOKER KINDA FAST? WHO IS HE, ANYHOW?

SORRY, I FORGOT, CHAZZ. HE'S THE BRITISH INTELLIGENCE OFFICER WE'RE TO CONTACT.

QUITE. MAJOR TYNE. I ALERTED THE PASSPORT INSPECTOR TO WATCH FOR YOU. BY CLAIMING AN IRREGULARITY IN YOUR PAPERS HE CONDUCTED YOU TO THIS MEETING WITHOUT ATTRACTING ATTENTION. LEE AND I EXCHANGED THE PROPER PASSWORDS. SIMPLE, EH?

SINCE HEADQUARTERS IS UNDER RATHER THOROUGH OBSERVATION BY THE REBEL UNDERGROUND, I JUDGED IT SAFER TO ARRANGE THIS MEETING. THERE CAN BE NO FURTHER CONTACT UNTIL YOU'VE EITHER WON OR LOST.

NOW, ON THIS MAP I'VE LOCATED THE VILLAGE FROM WHICH MR. AND MRS. JANES DISAPPEARED.

GOLLY! IT'S BURIED IN THE BACK COUNTRY. WE'LL NEED A GUIDE.

QUITE SO. IT WOULD BE UNSAFE FOR ME TO HIRE ONE FOR YOU, BUT I HAVE AN UNSAVORY CHARACTER WHO CAN BE TRUSTED TO FIND THE RIGHT MAN FOR YOU. I'LL CALL HIM AT ONCE.

AND NEARBY...

HEY, SMALL FRY! STOP CUTTING IN ON THE CUSTOMERS' INVESTMENTS...

...AND ANSWER THE PHONE.

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK

SUSPECTS WHO ARE KNOWN LIARS SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED TO TALK. IN THIS WAY THEY OFTEN CONTRADICT, CONFUSE, AND EVEN INCRIMINATE THEMSELVES.
Dick Tracy

THE FLASH OF FIRE FROM THE RIFLE CAUGHT MY EYE BUT BEFORE I COULD USE MY AUTOMATIC—

THE CROWD WENT BERSERK!

THE FINDING OF THE .22 LONG-RIFLE SHELL HERE IN THE CAT-WALK PROVES YOUR THEORY BEYOND A DOUBT, TRACY.

YOU SEE, T.V. WIGGLES KNEW THIS STADIUM! HE WRESTLED HERE YEARS AGO.

HE KNEW WHERE THE SUPPLY ROOM WAS. HE MADE USE OF IT.

TAKING THIS EXTRA SET OF RING ROPES AND TYING THEM TO THE WATER PIPE MADE HIS ESCAPE EASY WHILE THE CROWD WAS RANTING.

THE MOTIVE WAS OBVIOUS. T.V. KILLED BUBBLES ANVIL BECAUSE SHE INSISTED ON HELPING US.

THE RING ROPES

IN MY OPINION, T.V. WIGGLES IS A MADMAN AND HE ISN'T THROUGH KILLING YET.

AND ELSEWHERE, IN A CHEAP TRANSIENT HOTEL ROOM.

I DID IT AGAIN! I'M GETTING BETTER AS I GO—BUT MY SUPREME STROKE IS YET TO COME.

I SHALL GET EVEN WITH EVERY-BODY—THE POLICE, VITAMIN FLINTHEART—AND EVERYBODY, IN MY NEXT EFFORT.

YES—YOU, LITTLE CHERUB, ARE THE LUCKY ONE! I HAVE CHOSEN YOU FOR MY NEXT!

®Right Around HOME with MYRTLE

by Dudley Fisher

WE'VE WORRIED SO LONG ABOUT MYRTLE BEING A TOMBOY ... I WAS DELIGHTED WHEN SHE ASKED ME IF SHE COULD INVITE SOME OF HER CLASSMATES IN FOR A LITTLE SUPPER AFTER THE THIRD GRADE FOOTBALL GAME!

I'VE TOLD YOU ALL ALONG, SUSIE, THAT YOU DIDN'T NEED TO WORRY!

MYRTLE IS JUST BECOMING SOCIALLY CONSCIOUS!

DO YOU THINK THIS WILL BE ENOUGH OLIVES? IF IT ISN'T, I CAN RUN OVER HOME AND GET SOME MORE.

IF I'D KNOWN ABOUT THIS I COULD HAVE PAINTED SOME DAINTY LITTLE PLACE CARDS.

BUT WE DON'T KNOW JUST WHO IS COMING.. MYRTLE WAS TOO EXCITED TO MAKE OUT A GUEST LIST!

QUICK, ARNOLD! PUT THIS NAPKIN OVER WILBUR. HE GETS SO EXCITED WHEN HE SEES SARDINES!

MYRTLE SAID SHE WANTS THE TWINS TO SIT AT THE TABLE!

MYRTLE IS A DEAR! I WISH MY GUSSIE WAS THAT THOUGHTFUL!

YOU CAN DO AS YOU PLEASE, ALICE, BUT I'M GOING IN!

WE WON

SEE! I TOLD YOU MOM WAS EXPECTING US!
